Milliken Asks Sub-Inflation Lid On Spending

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken today unveiled the tightest state general fund budget in more than a decade — a 4.2 per cent increase to $3.134 billion. The time-honored increase in current spending falls far below the projected inflation rate of 6 per cent to 7 per cent and will mean trimming programs or holding the line in a host of areas.

"The development of a program and fiscal plan for this period has been more difficult than any other in my term of office," Milliken said in a message to the legislature. Colleges and universities were granted only an overall 2 per cent increase, which almost guarantees complaints from school administrators and widespread tuition increases. Milliken proposes "tuition aid" of about $5 million in the form of grants, scholarships and loans to needy students.

Milliken proposed returning $116 million additional to local governments as reimbursement for personal property tax money on inventories they lost when his single business tax became law. The money will go to K-12 education and community colleges, Milliken said. Counting the returned inventory tax loss, Milliken's $3.275 billion spending program is a scant $100,000 over projected revenues for the 1976-1977 fiscal year. The state spends that amount in about 10 minutes.

Milliken's recommendation for the Department of Social Services is $158 million above anticipated current spending — the largest single dollar jump and an amount which exceeds the entire $129 million increase in Milliken's total adjusted general fund budget. If it were not for increased welfare, Milliken's overall budget would be reduced from current spending.

Continued high unemployment and recent state takeover of county general assistance payments are the main reason given for the giant welfare jump from $1.025 billion to $1.182 billion. It does not mean welfare recipients will be able to buy more goods. The state general fund budget — which the legislature spends as it chooses — is augmented by about $3.6 billion in federal and restricted money, over which the legislature has no power.

A $300 million deficit facing the state was partially erased, Milliken said, by approval of his order last year to cut state spending by about $123.7 million. The remaining gap, he said, can be closed by extending the current fiscal year from its June 30 expiration date to Sept. 30, and borrowing from the Veterans Trust Fund and the Motor Vehicle Accident Claims Fund.

However, Rep. Dominic Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, House Appropriations Committee chairman, challenged Milliken's figures. Quoting Wes Biedling, House Fiscal Agency chief:

HUTCHINSON WON'T RUN AGAIN!

Stockman Candidacy For Congress Soars

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Congressman Edward Hutchinson announced Wednesday "I will not be a candidate for Congress."

"After 30 years in political office, I look forward to a return to private life."

Hutchinson's surprising announcement came two days after David Stockman declared his candidacy for the Fourth District Congressional seat Hutchinson has held 14 years.

An intense Republican primary race had been expected between Hutchinson, 61, and Stockman, 29, and possibly other candidates in the seven-county district that stretches to Lenawee in eastern Michigan.

Stockman's reaction: "It comes as a total surprise and shock to me. It also comes as a tremendous source of relief because it avoids a personality clash with a man whom I respect and admire."

Hutchinson said: "I am confident that I could win were I a candidate. I have successfully overcome opposition in the past and could do it again."

Hutchinson said he will not endorse any candidate at the present, and "I might not make any endorsement at all."

A possible primary opponent for Stockman is State Rep. John Mowat, Jr., of Adrian, who told The Herald-Palladium:

"I have said to Dave Stockman and others that if Ed were to step down I might consider it (running for Congress). If I do I will make up my mind very shortly."

Mowat, a three-term representative, said family and business considerations (he owns a couple of farms) would enter into his decision.

State Sen. Charles Zollar, Benton Harbor, who lost to Hutchinson in the 1972 primary, told The Herald-Palladium Wednesday, he had learned of Hutchinson's decision only a few minutes earlier, but "several constituents have called and asked me if I would be interested in entering the race."

Zollar said he could not make an immediate decision but expected to have a statement early next week.

He congratulated Hutchinson for 30 years of public service and noted Stockman would be a "formidable opponent for whoever decided to get into the

Although Stockman did not declare formally until Monday, he has been building campaign support for nearly a year. Stockman, of St. Joseph, is former executive director of the U.S. House of Representatives Republican conference.

Possible Democratic candidates have not yet surfaced. In the post-Watergate election of 1974, Hutchinson had his closest call in winning his seventh term against a Democrat. Hutchinson polled 54 per cent of the vote to 46 for Richard (Mike) Daugherty of Sister Lakes.

Hutchinson faced strenuous primary opposition only twice — 1962 when he won a four-way race and '72 against Zollar, although his margins were comfortable each time.

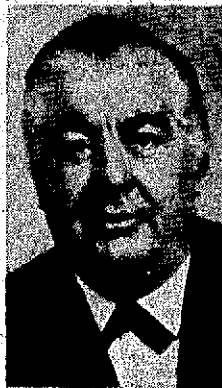

Hutchinson is a native of Fennville and graduate of University of Michigan Law school. He took an apartment in St. Joseph in 1972 to establish legal residence when the Fourth Congressional District was restructured, eliminating his Allegan county home.

He served four years as state representative, 10 years as state senator, two years as a vice president of the State Constitutional convention, and went to Congress in 1963 to continue southwestern Michigan's conservative voice that had been sounded for many years by Clare Hoffman.

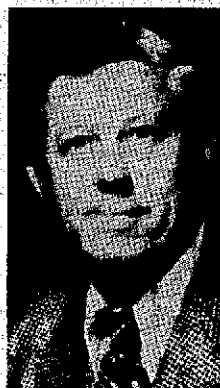

Questioned about his long political career Hutchinson noted:

"When I was in the State Legislature they credited me or blamed me for the Hutchinson act, which we don't have."

UAW Charges Job Losses

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers has charged that thousands of U.S. jobs could be lost because of a Chrysler Corp. decision to buy engines and transmissions from West Germany for a 1978-model subcompact car. The union also accused Chrysler Wednesday of backing down on prior assurances to the UAW that the new car and its components would be manufactured exclusively in the United States. Chrysler announced Tuesday that it had reached an unprecedented agreement with Volkswagenwerk AG to purchase up to 300,000 engines and 120,000 manual transmissions from the West German maker.

Global Terrorist Ring Backed By Radical Nations

By ARTHUR L. GAVSON
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Secret reports to members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization say an international terrorist network is operating globally with help from radical governments.

The reports, which attempt to detail how the network is organized and financed, were submitted by the intelligence and security agencies of individual NATO governments, and the headquarters of the alliance pooled and collated them. Then they were summarized by one of the member governments and distributed to each of the other 14 NATO members.

A copy of the summary shown confidentially to The Associated Press, claims the terrorist network counts on support from Iraq, Syria, Libya, South Yemen and Cuba, and has access to arms from Eastern Europe.

Other sources, including cabinet ministers, ambassadors and police, from 12 countries, agree there is evidence of significant links between terrorist groups in Europe, the Middle East, Asia and Latin America.

They are among the officials now studying the secret NATO reports which make these points about the terrorist network:

—The network has no globally agreed name. In the Middle East it is known as the "Army of the Arab Revolution," the group which claimed responsibility for the kidnapping of the oil ministers in Vienna, Austria, last December. The leader of that raid, Carlos Martinez, born Hich Ramirez Sanchez, in Venezuela 26 years ago, is a key operative in the terrorist international.

—A major force in the network is the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine (PFLP) headed by George Habash. The Mideast link in the chain has supplied funds, arms, training and escape routes.

—Other activist members of the network include the West German group led by the jailed Andreas Baader and Ulrike Meinhof, the Japanese Red Army and South American extremists with Cubans among them.

—The European base for the network is Paris. Special missions from the terrorist international have met there with representatives of the Irish Republican Army (IRA), Turkish terror squads and far-left and Maoist groups from Scandinavia to Spain.

Last summer in Paris, a Lebanese terrorist-turned-informer, Michael Moukharbel, led

Hutchinson's 'Swan Song'

Following is the text of Edward Hutchinson's announcement to The Herald-Palladium that he will not seek re-election to Congress:

I will not be a candidate for Congress. After 30 years in political office, I look forward to a return to private life.

The electorate has been very good to me, permitting me to enjoy a long legislative career, the last 14 years of which have been in Congress.

I deeply appreciate the support of so many friends through the years.

I am confident that I could win were I a candidate. I have successfully overcome opposition in the past and could do it again.

For the past four years, I have been the ranking Republican member of a major committee in the House and have climbed the political ladder in Congress as far as I can go. I do not feel that I can accomplish anything more in Congress.

There is no fun in it any more.

I am in excellent health and want to leave public life while I am still young enough to pursue personal interests.

There are still six months until the primary and I make this announcement now so that others who may aspire to serve in Congress will have ample time to campaign.

Domestic Sales Up 27%

DETROIT (AP) — Domestic car sales in January rose 27 per cent from recession levels of a year ago when the nation's auto makers offered cash rebates of up to $600 a car to stimulate a sagging market, the industry has reported. At the same time, American Motors Corp. said Wednesday its earnings during the last three months of 1975 rose to $7.5 million on record sales, reversing a $5.6 million loss for the same 1974 quarter. Domestic sales of 587,793 in the month were up from 462,091 the year before, when deliveries plummeted to a two-decade low for a January. The latest selling pace also was up 7 per cent from the anemic levels of January 1974, when the industry was in the early stages of a downturn triggered by the energy crisis. But the early 1976 pace trailed by 30 per cent the January record set in 1973.

Volunteers To Man Ambulances At $5 Per 8-Hour Shift

By JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau
NILES — Five southeastern Berrien county municipalities, and a sixth from Cass county, have formed an ambulance service to be manned by volunteers who will be paid $5 for an eight-hour shift.

Joseph Garbert Jr., of Buchanan, chairman of the Southwest Michigan Community Ambulance service (SMCAS), said volunteers and ambulances will be stationed on a 24-hour basis at the Buchanan township fire station across from Unity hospital and at Pawling hospital in Niles.

The all-volunteer service will replace a commercial service that had provided ambulance coverage on a 90-day contract that expires Feb. 17.

Garbert said the contract of STAT ambulance will not be renewed.

Garbert said SMCAS plans call for two ambulances manned on a 24-hour basis with medically trained, two-man crews.

Last month, the board approved purchase of two new ambulances.

Delivery on the two units is expected in 90 days, Garbert said.

In the meantime, the board has leased two ambulances and one of the vehicles will be in service before Feb. 17 to act as a backup for STAT.

The second leased unit will be ready for service sometime soon after Feb. 17, Garbert said.

He said 16 emergency medical technicians or advanced Red Cross-trained volunteers will submit applications for state approval needed to man the ambulances.

Another 10 people have volunteered to serve, he added.

Garbert said he hopes that eventually SMCAS will have 40 volunteers. It is anticipated volunteers will have regular fulltime jobs and will be from all walks of life.

Garbert said that the board hopes the all-volunteer service can operate in the black and will not need financial support from the six governmental units it will serve.

The SMCAS board was formed in November by agreement of the cities of Niles and Buchanan, and townships of Buchanan, Bertrand, Niles in Berrien county and Howard township in Cass county.

Each government has agreed to help support the service if it does not operate in the black.

Howard Says He'll Run Again

Perennial candidate Jesse W. Howard of Union Pier yesterday became the first Democrat to announce he will seek his party's nomination for the Fourth District congressional seat.

Republican David Stockman of St. Joseph announced Monday he would seek his party's nomination for the post currently held by incumbent GOP Rep. Edward Hutchinson. Hutchinson announced yesterday he would not seek re-election.

Howard, 59, of 10201 Gordon drive, Union Pier, said he is currently circulating petitions in order to enter his name on the Aug. 3 Democratic primary ballot.

The attempt is Howard's second for the nomination. In 1970, he was defeated for the nomination by fellow Democrat David McCormack of Niles. McCormack was defeated by Hutchinson in the general election.

Howard's political history also includes unsuccessful attempts for the Democratic nomination to challenge Sen. Robert Griffin and a sticker campaign for New Buffalo township supervisor, both in 1972.

Currently unemployed, Howard said he is drawing unemployment compensation benefits from Illinois. He said he has continued to work in the Chicago area since moving to Union Pier in 1966.

Howard also said that he has filed civil rights complaints with Michigan and the US Office of Economic Opportunity, claiming he was denied employment as a Berrien county sheriff's department process server because he is black.

Andrews Medic Reflects Growing National Feeling

A feature article in The Herald-Palladium earlier this week told how Dr. Herald A. Habenicht of Andrews University's medical center in Berrien Springs, "prosecutes" one "Lady Nicotine" for the deaths of 300,000 Americans a year.

Dr. Habenicht wants all smokers to kick the habit. And not only for their own health but for the health of those around them, as well. In this, he is not alone. Nationwide, the campaign to prohibit smoking in public places is gaining momentum. Interestingly, Michigan may provide the most significant of all test cases in a trial involving balloon-top Pontiac Stadium.

First it was elevators. Then buses and trains and planes. Next came libraries, offices, hospitals, auditoriums, restaurants and supermarkets. In the past two years, more than 30 states have enacted legislation banning smoking in public places. Cigarette addicts in many areas face fines and even jail for violating non-smoking laws. Virtually everywhere they encounter varying degrees of opprobrium from the militant non-smoking majority. The nation's 52 million smokers — about 36 per cent of the population — are clearly on the defensive.

The crusaders for smoke-free air aren't content to deprive their puffing brethren of their pleasure only in enclosed areas. Now they want to outlaw smoking in that beer-drinker's, cigarette-smoker's paradise — the sports stadium. The right of smokers to indulge and the right of non-smokers to be spared the smell of tobacco fumes at sports events will be at issue in a trial that begins on Tuesday, Feb. 10, in Pontiac. The suit was brought by a non-smoking Detroit Lions football fan who claims that his health was endangered and his enjoyment of the games impaired by smokers in the Lions' partially domed stadium.

This isn't the only dark cloud over Michigan smokers. The state Senate Tuesday put into position for a final vote a bill that would restrict smoking in hospitals. The measure is part of a package of four bills which also restrict smoking in restaurants, food stores and public meetings.

Many smokers do not take kindly to the forced curtailment of their habit. Complaints often spur smokers to light up and not infrequently to blow smoke in the complainer's face. Signs and recordings requesting public compliance with non-smoking ordinances seem to have a similar effect. Despite the estimates of non-smokers' groups that as many as 40 million Americans are adversely affected by cigarette smoke, smokers claim that laws banning smoking are an infringement of their civil rights.

There is a certain irony to smokers' complaints. It is estimated that 10 million smokers have forsaken the habit in the last five years, and surveys indicate that most remaining smokers would like to quit. Nevertheless, cigarette consumption rose last year, although per capita consumption declined slightly.

Curious, isn't it?

Why Speeches In Congress Are A Little Longer

If speeches in this session of Congress seem longer than usual, it may be because those who make them are not sure they will be back for another try next year.

State Department Is Unduly Sensitive

Belatedly, the Senate Department has admitted before a congressional committee that there have been serious violations of the human and civil rights of American citizens detained in Mexican jails. It was a long overdue admission, following as it does numerous reports by newsmen of less than human treatment of American nationals by Mexican authorities.

High officials in the State Department, including William Luehrs, assistant secretary of state for Latin American affairs, informed a House international affairs subcommittee that investigation of the plight of 514 Americans held in Mexican prisons confirmed wide evidence of abuse.

That abuse includes torture, forced confessions, denial of access to a lawyer or an American embassy official, extortion and delays in bringing the prisoner to trial well in excess of the year provided as a maximum in the Mexican constitution. Despite these admissions, Luehrs still advocates a cautious approach.

"It's essential," he said, "that we look at the nature of our relationship with Mexico. Mexico is seeking recognition as a world power . . . and at the same time is dependent on our economy. When we decide we are going to approach one issue — American prisoners — with this intensity, we have to see it in perspective of what will happen in decades to come."

Approach the issue with what intensity? Luehrs admitted Sec. of State Kissinger has not personally involved himself in the matter, although he was asked to after similar congressional hearings last fall. The American embassy in Mexico City has sent 24 protest notes to the Mexican government over the treatment of American prisoners, but 17 of the notes were not even answered.

Based on the record, the American government has done precious little to represent the interests of American nationals placed under confinement and abused by other governments, especially Mexico. Whatever reasons the State Department may have for treading softly on the matter, it is obvious that approach has done nothing to stop the practice.

Travelers abroad deserve to be punished for breaking the host country's laws. There is no quarrel with that, especially when the violation involves narcotics smuggling — as it often does in Mexico. But that does not excuse the authorities from using torture and other inhumane practices. Nor does it excuse the State Department from looking the other way because it would be embarrassing to confront the issue.

Lincoln Township Officials Explain Contested Zoning Stand

EDITOR'S NOTE: The following letter, on behalf of Lincoln township officials refers to a civil suit in Berrien Circuit court in which plaintiffs have obtained a temporary injunction restraining Lincoln township from enforcing its new zoning ordinance against the proprietors of the Something of Value shop. A hearing is scheduled Feb. 9 in Berrien Circuit court when the township board is to appear and show why the injunction should not become permanent.

Editor,

The Lincoln Township Board and the Lincoln Township Planning Commission deny the allegations made by Thomas and Joann Schroeder, operating a business at 4980 St. Joseph Ave., in that while the new Zoning Ordinance effective in Lincoln Township on January 23, 1976, does prohibit sale of merchandise in the Industrial district, of which Schroeder's property is a part, it does allow the Schroeder's to continue their operation as a non-conforming use. Lincoln Township had no intent to interfere with the Schroeder's present business operation.

Further, if the Schroeder's desire to enlarge or increase their non-conforming use, they have recourse to the Lincoln Township Board of Appeals for relief from the Zoning Ordinance. No attempt was made by the Schroeder's to meet with the Board of Appeals prior to filing suit in the Berrien County Circuit Court.

The Planning Commission, in passing on their recommendations which were adopted by the Township Board, stated that it was their feeling that the property was correctly zoned and the ordinance correctly written for the property. In that the area is serviced by water, sewer, railroad and has good access to major thoroughfares. Already located in the district is Flameo, an operating industrial venture; vacant property owned by Michigan Standard Alloy, an industrial concern; Paramount is located in this section, and the existing residences, without any objection, are aware that their property is now and has been since 1947, zoned "Industrial." Further, amending the new industrial district to allow stores or shops for the retail sale of such things as clothing, furniture, gifts and other similar personal property, would completely destroy the intent of the district.

Campaign Laws Help 'Oddballs'

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — There's an office here where five members have an unwritten agreement. When one, who we'll call Brown, contributes to his candidate, each of the other four donates an equal amount. When Smith gives to his man, the other four follow suit, and so on down the list.

In some campaigns this enables the candidates to keep their records clean with "small" donations. In others it enables each man to exceed the limit of his legal campaign donation.

This example will, of course, surprise no one and that is the point — how easily the new federal, clean election law is evaded.

Because the new rules put a straight jacket on honest men, they give clear advantage to campaigners who cut corners.

Equally bad, today's federal and state laws and new party rules encourage extremist candidates of both left and right. They so weaken party control and discipline there's little to keep candidates in hand. As tradition wears thin there is serious danger both major parties will wither, further eroding political responsibility and leaving campaigns in the hands of "in and outers."

The complex and conflicting financial regulations — rules which tend to separate the candidate from party control — and the growing distrust of political parties, openly encourage Watergate shenanigans and extend an open invitation to charlatans to seek high office.

Though I am emotionally opposed to reliance on large donations and committed to the principle of funding campaigns from small donations by many, it is clear that in a nationwide race for the presidential nomination, it is the man with way-out dogmatic views which arouse strong emotions in thousands of voters. This draws enough small donations in sufficient states to qualify the candidate early for matching federal funds who is thereby able to hit the first primaries with vigor.

As freaks, odd balls and fascists of the right and left come to understand the new laws and party rules, they may swarm to the government political hand-off offices like flies.

The worst freaks will not have a chance at the nominations. They will use the conventions to propagate their causes. But extremists of a sort may well succeed at some time in the future more often than in the past.

Very few citizens vote in presidential primaries — a few die-hard party people, those devoted to a cause or to a man who stirs them deeply and a handful of others. Primaries are thus ripe picking for extremists able to whip up the enthusiasm of followers.

The middle of the roader, who promises no more than he can deliver if elected, has a much harder row to hoe. And 1980 will probably be worse. Even if the extremists kill themselves off in multiple primaries, they may along the way kill off the best of the moderates.

Having said all this I'm still an optimist. It's still possible to elect a good man if we put our minds to it.

Readers Write With Vengeance

I herewith offer a hot tip to my brother and sister columnists. If things ever get dull, if you can't think of anything fascinating to say about Mr. Udall or Henry Jackson, and you really want to stir up the citizenry in our sprawling republic, try writing something even mildly skeptical about the American Indian.

In a recent column, I expressed some serious reservations about the myth of a massacre at Wounded Knee, and supported such reservations by citing a responsible historian's conclusions about the incident — giving, by the way, the reasoning that led him to those conclusions. Whereupon I received for my pains an avalanche of mail denouncing upon my intellectual doorstep the big, palpating, guilt-soaked liberal heart. Yuck.

In my column, I described, for example, the Ghost Dance religion that swept the Sioux prior to Wounded Knee. The swirling Sioux Ghost Dancers believed themselves immune to rifle bullets.

One woman in Massachusetts waxed indignant, her "tolerance" offended: "How dare he cast aspersions on other people's religions? He laughs at Wukova, saying 'God will protect you.' It's not so strange, I remember being taught that we should have faith in God."

Running through much of the correspondence evoked by that column is an explicit condemnation of America, the white man, and the West. The Indians are adored from afar precisely because they were not modern Western people.

A letter I received from a man out in South Dakota exhibits this syndrome to the point of genuine nuttiness. I had remarked in my column that, after all, the U.S. government could hardly have allowed armed savage bands to roam indefinitely among the settlements of the West. The Wounded Knee incident occurred in 1890, which is pretty late in the game.

My correspondent writes, ecologically outraged:

"Finally, it would certainly be horrible if there were still 'roaming savage bands' of Indians in North America. This country could not tolerate people who respect their natural environment or conserve their natural resources. It would indeed be a drastic change of life style if Americans were self-sufficient and did not have to destroy the earth and their fellow man."

There, again, is the hatred of modern existence masquerading as admiration for the Indian.

Andrews Medic Reflects Growing National Feeling

A feature article in The Herald-Palladium earlier this week told how Dr. Herald A. Habenicht of Andrews University's medical center in Berrien Springs "prosecutes" one "Lady Nicotine" for the deaths of 300,000 Americans a year.

Dr. Habenicht wants all smokers to kick the habit. And not only for their own health but for the health of those around them, as well. In this, he is not alone. Nationwide, the campaign to prohibit smoking in public places is gaining momentum. Interestingly, Michigan may provide the most significant of all test cases in a trial involving balloon-top Pontiac Stadium.

First it was elevators. Then buses and trains and planes. Next came libraries, offices, hospitals, auditoriums, restaurants and supermarkets. In the past two years, more than 30 states have enacted legislation banning smoking in public places. Cigarette addicts in many areas face fines and even jail for violating non-smoking laws. Virtually everywhere they encounter varying degrees of opprobrium from the militant non-smoking majority. The nation's 52 million smokers — about 36 per cent of the population — are clearly on the defensive.

A joint announcement of the transaction was made by the parties.

Catholic Band Will Get First Uniforms

The Lake Michigan Catholic Area school board last night approved the purchase of 31 blue and gold marching band uniforms.

Mrs. Lawrence LaValley, president of the Band Boosters club which raised the $4,065 for the purchase, said it was a significant milestone in the band's development.

The Lake band up to now has been appearing in yellow nylon jackets. Mrs. LaValley said the new uniforms will give the band program new enthusiasm.

The uniforms will consist of blue jackets and pants with gold trim. The uniforms are expected to be delivered in time for the band to appear in parades this Spring.

Mrs. LaValley said there are 21 bandmen in Lake Michigan Catholic high school and another 24 in junior high who will get the uniforms.

There also are 27 sixth and seventh graders and 24 fifth graders taking band as Director Donald Swickowski builds for the future.

The band boosters raised the funds over several years providing a catering service, selling refreshments at basketball and football games and holding bingo games.

In other action, the school board approved a plan to build a trophy case in the lobby of the high school as a memorial to the late Nicholas Bazar who suffered a heart attack Jan. 23 while attending a Laker basketball game.

A committee of Ron Blanchard, Jerry Sarno, Richard Johnson and Charles Johnson, proposed removing the windows in the gymnasium lobby and replacing them with a trophy case.

Blanchard said that with more athletic teams winning more trophies, the school is running out of cases to display them.

Blanchard said Bazar had been a staunch backer of Laker Athletic teams and the trophy case is considered a fitting memorial.

Originally the committee suggested a 24-foot long case but after a discussion it was decided to brick in all the windows which would provide for a 40-foot case. Cost would range from $1,750 for a 24-foot unit to $3,500 for a 40-foot case.

Recall Chairman Slates Kickoff Meet; Says City Going Bankrupt

By JIM DELAND
Assistant City Editor

The leader of a drive to recall Benton Harbor Mayor Charles F. Joseph and four city commissioners announced today that his group will begin collecting signatures on recall petitions at a meeting next week.

Charging that the city is "on the verge of bankruptcy," Maurice Bishop also appealed for help from residents of the neighboring communities of Benton township and St. Joseph "because whatever happens to us in Benton Harbor will eventually affect you."

Bishop urged all interested Benton Harbor residents to attend the recall meeting next Thursday, Feb. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in Seely McCord school, 465 South McCord.

He said the meeting would launch his group's drive to collect signatures on recall petitions, which under state law cannot be circulated until 45 days after a legislative official takes office. Joseph was sworn in for his second term as mayor on Dec. 28.

Targets of the recall drive in addition to Joseph are four commissioners who voted with the mayor not to renew the contract of former City Manager Charles Morrison on Dec. 29 — Charles Shepherd, Barbara Huckaby, Alfred Williams and Winston Minott.

Joseph, Shepherd, Huckaby and Williams were elected on the "Clean Slate" ticket and Minott consistently has supported them in voting.

Based on information from the state director of elections, approximately 641 signatures will be needed on petitions to bring the recall to a citywide vote.

In announcing next week's meeting, Bishop said research by his group indicates that the city is in financial trouble and that "our charter has been violated not once, but many times."

"The charter also states the mayor does not need an office," Bishop said, "but from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975, it cost the taxpayers $24,778 to maintain the mayor's office."

The charter does not specifically prohibit an office for the mayor, but it states that the city manager is operating head of the city.

Bishop also charged that Joseph would be in violation of city charter by accepting a $25,000 annual salary recommended by a compensation commission in December because under the present charter the city does not have a strong mayor form of government.

The compensation commission was created under state law, but its recommendations of a $25,000 salary for the mayor and sizeable pay hikes for commissioners have not been implemented.

City Atty. Yvonne Hughes issued an opinion that the recommendations were improper and in violation of city charter, and opinions are now being sought from a private attorney and the state attorney general.

Pending these opinions, the commission has withheld actual payment of the salaries.

Bishop also charged that city services are deteriorating and that "the $24,778 that was spent for the mayor's office could have purchased salt for the streets and help pay some of the expense of repairing our garbage trucks."

Bishop said any suggestions concerning the recall drive could be sent to Recall Committee, P.O. Box 1403, Benton Harbor, 49022.

He also said financial contributions to the recall effort may be sent to Recall Committee Account, Inter-City Bank, Benton Harbor.

Patrolman Fired At South Haven

SOUTH HAVEN — South Haven patrolman Graydon Elzroth has been dismissed from the police department here on grounds he violated departmental regulations governing procedures for dealing with female prisoners.

Chief Otto Buelow said the rules involved requirements that two police employees, one preferably a matron, be present when a female prisoner is transported to another location and that a superior be notified when a prisoner is taken from the police station.

Buelow said he dismissed Elzroth after a relative of a woman called regarding her treatment after she was arrested Friday night in connection with a drinking charge.

According to Buelow, she was taken home by an officer alone and no superior was notified about her removal from the station. Buelow said he suspended Elzroth over the weekend, pending completion of an investigation, and dismissed him, effective Monday.

Elzroth, 30, who lives in Coloma, had been on the South Haven force for about a year.

Catholic Band Will Get First Uniforms

The Lake Michigan Catholic Area school board last night approved the purchase of 51 blue and gold marching band uniforms.

Mrs. Lawrence LaValley, president of the Band Boosters club which raised the $4,665 for the purchase, said it was a significant milestone in the band's development.

The Laker band up to now has been appearing in yellow nylon jackets. Mrs. LaValley said the new uniforms will give the band program new enthusiasm.

The uniforms will consist of blue jackets and pants with gold trim. The uniforms are expected to be delivered in time for the band to appear in parades this spring.

Mrs. LaValley said there are 23 bandmen in Lake Michigan Catholic high school and another 24 in junior high who will get the uniforms.

There also are 27 sixth and seventh graders and 24 fifth graders taking band as Director Donald Swikowski builds for the future.

The band boosters raised the funds over several years providing a catering service, selling refreshments at basketball and football games and holding bingo games.

In other action, the school board approved a plan to build a trophy case in the lobby of the high school as a memorial to the late Nicholas Bazan who suffered a heart attack Jan. 23 while attending a Laker basketball game.

A committee of Ron Blanchard, Jerry Sarno, Richard Johnson and Charles Johnson, proposed removing the windows in the gymnasium lobby and replacing them with a trophy case.

Blanchard said that with more athletic teams winning more trophies, the school is running out of cases to display them.

Blanchard said Bazan had been a staunch backer of Laker Athletic teams and the trophy case is considered a fitting memorial.

Originally the committee suggested a 24-foot long case but after a discussion it was decided to brick in all the windows which would provide for a 40-foot case. Cost would range from $1,750 for a 24-foot unit to $3,500 for a 40-foot case.

parties. The business was first started in 1946 by Ron's father, Arthur Fitz, who operated the well-known marina until he sold it to Ron and his wife, Sue, in April, 1971.

The new owners said the purchase includes five buildings, containing 25,000 square feet, located on 2½ acres of land just off Paw Lake.

The sale includes a two-story house, located across the street from the retail store, and 180 feet of lake frontage, including a boat launching ramp and dock area.

The sale was made through the Sulko Real Estate OF Coloma of Coloma and salesman Ray Wall.

Ohlis and his wife, Mary Jo, have owned and operated Mallard Marine, about two blocks south of the Crystal Bait and Marine business since July, 1973. Ohlis said he has closed the former site and moved all his equipment to the Crystal Bait location.

According to Ohlis, the business name will be changed to Crystal Marine, Inc.

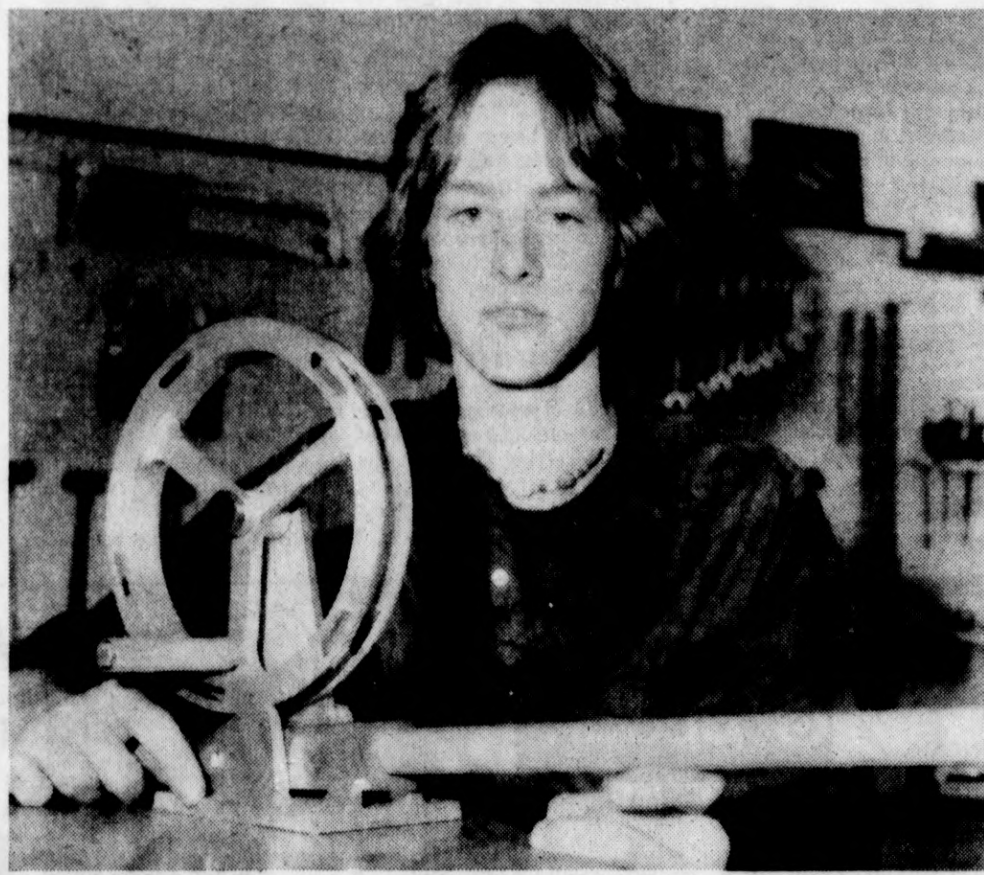

Falborski and his wife, Lorraine, will not actively participate in the day-to-day operation. Falborski is the owner of the General Sausage company, in Chicago, a business he has owned for 15 years.

Ohlis said the store will continue to offer the same full line of baits, fishing equipment, boats, motors and marine equipment, with plans to expand the business slated in the future.

The former owners said their plans for the future will be announced shortly.

From Log Cabin To Lincoln Log

Special Dessert

The President who made the log cabin famous, probably never dreamed he would bring so much notoriety to his frontier home.

But the log cabin and the logs to build it have permeated our culture so much that it's even a part of American cuisine.

These famous logs, Lincoln Logs, can be filled with a variety of mixtures. But this special dessert version is a light chocolate cake surrounding a smooth ice cream filling. To add the finishing touch or bark-like look, a chocolate frosting is "roughly" applied.

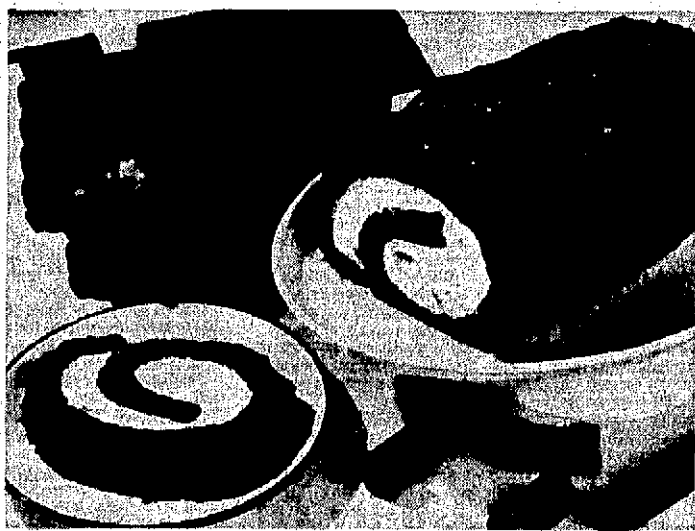

To celebrate the season or as a great dessert anytime — Lincoln Log meets the challenge.

It's easy to make, too, and needs several hours to harden before serving.

The chocolate cake is made much like a sponge or chiffon cake except in this case it's baked in a jelly roll pan and for about one-third the time. To complete, soften cherry-flavored ice cream or whatever you prefer — making sure it's soft enough to spread but not soupy. Spread the ice cream over the cake, roll, frost and store in the freezer until you're ready to serve.

A delightful ending, complete with the B-vitamins — niacin, thiamine and riboflavin — plus the mineral, iron, when you bake with enriched flour.

LINCOLN LOG
One cup enriched flour
One-third cup cocoa

One teaspoon baking powder
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Three eggs
One cup sugar
One-third cup water
One teaspoon vanilla extract
Confectioners' sugar
Chocolate Glaze

Stir together flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Blend in water and vanilla. At lowest speed of electric mixer, beat in flour mixture until thoroughly blended.

Pour batter into fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch jelly roll pan lined with greased wax paper. Bake in preheated 375 degrees oven for twelve to fifteen minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Cool five minutes. Turn onto clean towel that has been heavily dusted with confectioners' sugar. Remove wax paper.

Beginning at narrow end, roll up cake and lower, jelly-roll fashion. Cool cake completely. Unroll cake, spread with ice cream and re-roll. Quickly cover cake with Chocolate Glaze, roughing glaze with spatula to resemble tree bark. Place in freezer about two hours or until firm. Slice and serve.

Note: Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop. If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

Chocolate Glaze:
One square (one ounce) unsweetened chocolate

One tablespoon butter
One and one-fourth cup confectioners' sugar
Two in three tablespoons milk
In small saucepan, melt chocolate and butter over low heat. Add sugar and enough milk to reach spreading consistency. Beat until smooth.

If you are lucky enough to possess such a quilt, and if it is in fairly good condition, you can satisfy a yen for yesterday by displaying it — not in the bedroom, but in the living room! Draped on a sofa or so as not to obscure an antique chair the quilt will give that just-left, casual impression which serves to make other days more real. And even in our warm houses the quilt may be used as a cozy, comforting wrap on long winter nights, while reading or watching television.

Concerts Get New Home

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Robin Hood Dell Concerts, America's oldest series of outdoor summer concerts, will open its new home June 14.

Located in Fairmount Park, the new theater, to be called the Robin Hood Dell West, will have

One teaspoon baking powder
One-fourth teaspoon salt
Three eggs
One cup sugar
One-third cup water
One teaspoon vanilla extract
Confectioners' sugar

Chocolate Glaze
Stir together flour, cocoa, baking powder and salt. Beat eggs until thick and lemon-colored. Gradually beat in sugar. Blend in water and vanilla. At lowest speed of electric mixer, beat in flour mixture until thoroughly blended.

Pour batter into fifteen and one-half by ten and one-half by one-inch jelly roll pan lined with greased wax paper. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for twelve to fifteen minutes or until cake springs back when lightly touched. Cool five minutes. Turn onto clean towel that has been heavily dusted with confectioners' sugar. Remove wax paper.

Beginning at narrow end, roll up cake and towel, jelly-roll fashion. Cool cake completely. Unroll cake, spread with ice cream and re-roll. Quickly cover cake with Chocolate Glaze, roughing glaze with spatula to resemble tree bark. Place in freezer about two hours or until firm. Slice and serve.

Note: Spoon flour into dry measuring cup; level. Do not scoop. If self-rising flour is used, omit baking powder and salt.

Chocolate Glaze:
One square (one ounce) unsweetened chocolate
One tablespoon butter
One and one-fourth cup confectioners' sugar
Two to three tablespoons milk

SLIM LOOK

For a long, slim look it's a good idea to wear vertical stripes as opposed to horizontal stripes which emphasize the width of the body as opposed to the length.

Sorority Presents Painting

Eta Tau Chapter

Eta Tau chapter of Psi Iota Xi sorority has presented a painting, titled "The Sentinel," to the Berrien County Day Program for Hearing Impaired in Berrien Springs.

The watercolor, which will be placed on display at the school, was done by Joan Rudman of Stamford, Conn., and purchased by Psi Iota Xi National sorority.

Since 1941, the national sorority has purchased three paintings each year from young artists of the Hoosier Art Salon of Indiana and awards them to three chapters at the national convention. Each chapter is asked to display the painting for the public.

Psi Iota Xi is a national philanthropic organization which was founded in 1897 in Muncie, Ind. It was the first organization of this type to recognize a need in the field of speech and hearing.

Complaint Procedure

Any food, drug, device or cosmetic you believe to be mislabeled or unsanitary, should be reported to the Food and Drug Administration.

To complain about suspected violations, the Health Insurance Institute suggests you follow these guidelines.

1. Write or call the nearest FDA regional office giving your name, address, telephone number.

2. State clearly what appears to be wrong, describing the product's label, giving any code marks that appear.

3. Give name and address of the store where you bought the product and when.

4. Save the product's remains or its container. Keep any unopened container of the product bought at the same time.

5. Report the suspicious product to the manufacturer, packer or distributor on the label — and to the store where you bought it.

Altrusa Names Speaker For February Meeting

Women Helicopter Pilots

WASHINGTON (AP) — With six more women helicopter pilots qualifying by the end of 1975, total membership of The Whirly-Girls, international women helicopter pilots, has reached 210 in 13 countries.

Those recently qualifying include a United States Army aviator in Germany, a housewife in France, another in Illinois, a flight instructor-chapter pilot in Arizona and in England two housewives who are members of the Helicopter club of Great Britain.

Barbara Henderson, administrator of The Samaritan Center, will be guest speaker at a meeting of the Altrusa club of Benton Harbor-St. Joseph Thursday, Feb. 12.

The guest night meeting will begin at 7 p.m. in the Maud Preston Palenske Memorial library, St. Joseph.

Committee in charge of the meeting includes Mrs. William Eckert and Mrs. J.E. Schadler, co-chairmen, Mrs. Elmer Rohring and Miss Ann Stobbe.

Prior to being named administrator of The Samaritan Center, Mrs. Henderson was employed by the LaPorte, Ind., school system where she counseled school-age children with histories of truancy.

Mrs. Henderson's volunteer work has included organizing and administering nursery school and day care centers in Indiana. She is past president of the Lawyers Wives of Berrien county and is a member of Berrien Community Foundation board of trustees and the Women's Service League.

She received a bachelor of arts degree with a major in social work and minor in business from DePauw university and has taken graduate work toward a master's degree in administration of social service agencies at Notre Dame university.

The Samaritan Center, which has two locations — Benton Harbor First Congregational church and Stevensville United Methodist church — serves a growing number of clients throughout Berrien county. Four counselors see an average of 35 clients each week at the two locations.

The Stevensville location was opened last July. Two counselors and a secretary work at that location one day each week and at the Benton Harbor site two days each week.

In addition to the Benton Harbor First Congregational church and Stevensville United Methodist church, the Peace Temple United Methodist church, Benton Harbor, is a contributing member.

To Teach At Eastman

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Cleveland Quartet will join the faculty of the University of Rochester's Eastman School of Music, beginning in the 1976-77 academic year.

There will also be a competition to select a quartet of graduate string students who will study with the Cleveland Quartet and assist them in their work at the school.

The crazy quilt is a nostalgic addition to home decoration, useful for its warmth as much as for its beauty. Useful, too, as a catch-all for the economic saving of left-over scraps of material. If you are lucky enough to possess such a quilt, and if it is in fairly good condition, you can satisfy a yen for yesteryear by displaying it — not in the bedroom, but in the living room! Draped on a sofa or so as not to obscure an antique chair the quilt will give that just-left, casual impression which serves to make other days more real. And even in our warm houses the quilt may be used as a cozy, comforting wrap on long winter nights, while reading or watching television.

BASIC SAFETY REQUIREMENTS

Installing Your Own Fireplace?

Tempted to install your own fireplace? How about one of those new free-standing models to take the chill out of the room?

Watch out, advises Robert A. Pelletier, a fire safety expert. "It is not a job for a weekend handyman; those installations require skill and planning."

"Tragedy can result from the improper installation of free-standing fireplaces or the old-fashioned wood-burning stoves which are now on the market in large numbers," according to Pelletier.

His advice is to have the unit installed by professionals. But if a homeowner decides he can put in the unit by himself, he should try to buy a quality product — "the extra cost is worth it" — and should heed the manufacturer's directions.

"One of the problems associated with free-standing fireplaces and stoves is that virtually every roadside stand is selling them and the salesman often fails to mention — or doesn't even know — the basic safety requirements for installation," he says.

"Most local fire codes, for example, are very stringent about the venting of fireplaces and stoves. And for good reason. Poor venting can fill a house with deadly carbon monoxide fumes; it can also start a fire at the point where the flue passes through the ceiling or roof," Pelletier says.

Some initial safety tips on installation include:

- Do a lot of checking in advance. Look at the manufacturer's recommendations; inquire about appropriate fire codes; be certain your room has plenty of clearance for the unit between floor and walls to allow for safe heat radiation.

- Do not plan on venting through an existing chimney without getting an expert's advice. It is generally not recommended that more than one stove or fireplace be connected to a single flue.

- Consider the kind of fuel you will burn. For example, if you want to use coal, you will require a grate and bigger flue than necessary for other fuels.

- If you plan on a factory-built chimney for your fireplace, be certain that it has been approved by a recognized testing laboratory.

"There is no doubt that these units can be attractive, as well as practical in helping to cut heating costs somewhat," says Pelletier. "But if installed by amateurs, they can be deadly."

Once in place, a free-standing fireplace requires the same care in its use as does a normal fireplace. Pelletier recommends:

- Do not burn too many logs or other fuel at one time. Statistics show excessive fuel is the leading cause of home fires whose origin is in a fireplace.

- Never attempt to start or re-kindle a fire with a flammable liquid. The flash-effect generally is too great to be contained in the unit.

- Always use a tight-fitting screen mesh to contain sparks and embers.

- Before disposing of ashes place them in a closed metal container until all cinders have cooled.

Artist Uses Fantasy Settings

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures Writer

Ouida George's paintings, with the added fantasy that sets them apart from other art, are likely to be a happy surprise to the people who have sat for them.

They are often delivered on some special day — birthday, Christmas, an anniversary, because they are commissioned as gifts.

For example, a painting of a woman sitting in a four-legged fantasy bathtub may show her with a long-stemmed rose in her mouth. Or perhaps her Labrador retriever sitting at the tub will have a rose in his mouth. Or it might be that the rose has spiraled from under the tub and, with two birds perched on top, curls its way over the tub.

The bathtub paintings are particularly popular with young matrons who like to hang them in their powder rooms. Ouida said. "The women I'm sketched in the tubs and that is where the surprise sets it — they are never quite sure what kind of tub Ouida's imaginative brush stroke will produce."

Her fantasy dry brush and pen and ink drawings take unusual twists. At one show one drawing included a jolly octopus in a jockey cap driving a fantasy car along a road lined with flower-like sparklers as a mermaid wearing a big beribboned hat tags along on spare tires.

It is this early fantasy technique that has worked its way into Ouida's paintings. Her little girl paintings have special grandma appeal and many commissions ask that a favorite grandchild be pictured in one of the delightful fantasy hats that Ouida dreams up. The child is likely to be seated on a wicker settee or a fantasy chair, and almost always there will be a ribbon on her dress or hat or unfurling over the settee or trailing on a floor in the painting, which is "basically a post-impressionist brush stroke," Ouida insists.

"The ribbon is kind of my trademark. For little boys there is usually a rope. I also like animals in paintings — sometimes my own English spaniels are in a scene or there might be a fantasy poodle or wire haired terrier. I like wicker, too." The Victorian settee she uses is one she and her husband, artist Harold Allen George, long have had in their Edwardian house in Florida.

Her portraits are never stiff and formal. They all have interesting backgrounds. Youngsters may be painted on boats or sitting in a field of daisies or on the Victorian settee; they never just stare out from a blank background.

Although children may choose their own poses and clothes, if Ouida doesn't like background or color she changes it. She doesn't like dark colors on children and she likes boys to look casual, not combed and brushed.

When she goes to a house to paint, she usually arrives the day before because "the longer you spend with the child, the more you see," although her first impressions "have the best impact," she contends. She'll paint five children in one painting or she might have two children, a cat and a couple of dogs.

Her earliest paintings were fantasy children that were considered captivating. One of 10 she did on the beach in Brighton, England, is a whimsical dam digger in jeans wearing a huge hat in the shape of butterfly wings. It could have been sold many times, but she wants to keep it.

Ouida usually makes a pastel sketch of the subjects before she goes on to the painting, and she works at night, perhaps painting until 2 o'clock in the morning.

"An artist is not just someone who draws or paints well. Just being good is not being an artist. You must devote time to art and do something special, one reason, I don't believe artists should have a family. Emotion would go to the children rather than to the art. I don't really think women artists should marry though I'm happily married to an artist which doesn't stymie my artistry," she explained.

Revive Rocking Chair

Wonder how many old rocking chairs have been brought out of hiding during the past year? It may be thousands — now that this bit of Early Americana has found a new life in Bicentennial settings.

Don't leave a rocker in the cellar or attic simply because the finish is scratched or marred. Hardware and department stores offer many antiquing kits and furniture repair products which can turn even a 19th century relic into an "objet d'art." An assortment of rocking chair pads, done in provincial prints or solid fabrics is also available to add new color and comfort. Or consider making your own washable slipcovers. Buy or sew covers with zippers or snap openings. In that way, they are removable for laundering and require no ironing if replaced over the foam base while still slightly damp.

With a little thought and imagination, a rocking chair can become one of the most popular "family members" for TV viewing, sewing, reading or just relaxing!

Gobles Youth In Bach Festival

GOBLES — Gary Cooper, first chair trombone in the Gobles high school band, has been selected as one of 17 finalists in the 38th annual Bach Festival held at Kalamazoo college, according to Gerald Root, Gobles music director.

Cooper will perform a trombone solo at Stetson chapel on the Kalamazoo college campus Saturday, Feb. 28, as part of the Young Artist's Concerts.

The 31 finalists, mostly college students, were first screened from a field of over 200 musicians from throughout the Midwest.

Cooper, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dale Cooper, 238 Cottage street, Gobles, is the first high school brass player to be selected for the Young Artist's Concerts.

Shy, gentle and soft-spoken Ouida began her art career 25 years ago with the pen and ink fantasy drawings that are always a big hit when shown in galleries in Dallas, Santa Fe, Wilmington, Washington, Nantucket or wherever. Her first show in 1959 was at Palm Beach, where she now shows at James Barker's Gallery.

Less Expensive Than Stroke

While some patients drop out of treatment for high blood pressure because they worry about the cost, they should keep in mind that the bill for a major illness later on is much higher, according to Albert A. Carr, MD, of the Medical College of Georgia in Augusta.

Dr. Carr estimated that a patient with mild high blood pressure might expect to pay an average of $193 a year for medication, physician fees and related medical expenses. A person with severe high blood pressure would likely pay $590 a year.

On the other hand, a person suffering a stroke as a result of untreated high blood pressure can expect a bill of $5,000. Dr. Carr said at a recent medical symposium. The bill, he said, does not take into consideration the income a wage earner would lose if the stroke were disabling.

Dr. Carr is chief of the division of hypertension and clinical pharmacology at the Medical College of Georgia. His remarks were to physicians attending a Medical Horizons symposium, part of a postgraduate education series sponsored by a pharmaceutical company for doctors.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Hostess Needs A Telephone

Dear Ann Landers: For several months my husband and I have been planning a party for 20 couples. We mailed the invitations a month in advance with an insert requesting "RSVP."

It is now seven days before the party. Eight couples have not been heard from. So we are expecting 12 couples. If 16 extra people show up, it will make a big difference. We will have no place for them and not enough food.

How should we act toward those who did not RSVP if they show up anyway? How about the ones who didn't even bother to respond and stay home?

Please give us some guidance. We are — Freaked Out By "Friends"

Dear Freaked: Accept the sad fact that there are a given percentage of disorganized dummies in this world who just can't get it all together. Add to this eternal verity a postal service that is less than perfect.

Painful though it may be, the hostess should telephone those who haven't been able to get the lead out, and ask them, "May we expect you, or not?" We haven't heard. The head count should be made at least one week in advance of the party or the hostess will wind up with eggs on her face, not the clods who didn't RSVP.

Only 'Talk'

Dear Ann Landers: For the last three months my husband has been nugging me for permission to sleep with another woman. "Just once — to see what it's like." We were married young and are now in our late 60s. I've told him repeatedly that I would never agree to such a thing. Last night he started in again. "I finally said, 'All right, but I want the same privilege.' He got so mad he almost struck me."

Should I give him permission just to keep peace? Please advise. — Torn At 67

Dear Torn: No — but he'll probably do it anyway if he has his mind set on it. Or he WON'T do it, because all he can do is talk.

What Next?

Dear Ann Landers: I'd like to say a few words to the heartless mother who had a lump in her throat for a week before she finally wrote to you. It's a sorry student in psychology, wrote a paper about his family background and she ran across it accidentally.

He referred to his parents as "arrogant" and "ignorant" and criticized them for pretending to know everything. The poor woman was in a state of shock when she wrote and turned to you for solace. Your response was wonderfully kind and reassuring. Now I'd like to tell her of MY experience.

ANN LANDERS

Our daughter did something similar, only it was a high school English "autobiography." The thing was 10 pages long, and she actually handed it to me to read. I was shaken when I finished reading it. It contained several misleading statements, and some terrible lies.

I asked her why in the world she wrote such an outrageous paper. Her answer: "I wanted to make it interesting. The truth about my family life is none of the professor's darned business."

I hope my experience helps that unhappy mother. It certainly was an eye-opener for me. — What Will They Think Of Next?

Dear What?: I don't know, but I hope it's better than what they thought of last. Pretty poor performances on both counts.

Are your parents too strict? Hard to reach? Ann Landers's booklet, "Bugged By Parents? How to Get More Freedom," could help you bridge the generation gap. Send 50 cents in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

No set of teaching hands would be complete without one designed to show how to count the defender's distribution in order to make finessing easier.

North counts his 21 points three or four times to make sure he isn't the victim of some new mathematical disease and then bids seven notrump.

South looks over dummy and sees that he has to pick up the queen of diamonds to make the grand slam. His first thought is to lead his jack of diamonds at trick two and play East for the queen if West fails to cover. Second thought tells him to postpone the diamond play until he can get some sort of count on the enemy distribution.

So he cashes the top clubs and West discards a spade on the third club. He goes after hearts next and again West has to discard on the third one.

Now South cashes a second spade and East follows. Twelve of East's cards have been accounted for and none of those 12 are diamonds. South plays his king of diamonds and East follows. South knows East does not hold another diamond so South finesses with absolute certainty.

Ask the Jacobys

A Missouri reader wants to know who invented the 4-3-2-1 point count.

The answer is that the late Bryant McCampbell of St. Louis wrote his friend Milton Work back in 1915 and suggested its use for notrump bidding. Work taught it for years and it became known as the Work count.

Charles Goren adopted it to all bidding and while he has never taken credit for inventing it, we want to give him credit for its great success. Everyone uses it today.

I recently learned that I have a "horseshoe" kidney. I have been told that I can live a normal life with this condition, yet I would feel better if I got some added assurance about this.

Mr. J.D., Neb.

Dear Mr. D.: The horseshoe shape of your kidneys does not suggest that there is any malfunction of this important organ.

Unusual conditions of the entire urinary tract, from the kidneys to the bladder, are very common. Because of some quirk in development, these malformations occur.

It is estimated that this condition happens in about one out of every 500 people.

Normally, the individual kidneys lie deep inside the abdomen. They are separate and distinct. A "horseshoe" kidney simply means that the lower end of the kidneys are fused together, giving it this distinctive shape.

In the absence of any disease, there is no reason why this anatomical variation should in any way alter your health, your productivity or your longevity.

My husband seems able to predict the weather by how his shavers or his joints feel. How is this explained?

Mrs. G.E., Pa.

Many sophisticated physicians, for a long time, have scorned to "close their eyes" in the truth that some people can predict weather by their shivers, by pains in the joints, muscle aches, and even allergies.

I believe that all of us in the practice of medicine now recognize that weather does affect the physical and psychological well-being of many people.

It is an unexplained paradox that some people with sinus infections actually feel better in bad weather. One would expect the reverse. It is for this very

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

Hostess Needs A Telephone

Dear Ann Landers: For several months my husband and I have been planning a party for 20 couples. We mailed the invitations a month in advance with an insert requesting "RSVP."

It is now seven days before the party. Eight couples have not been heard from. So we are expecting 12 couples. If 16 extra people show up, it will make a big difference. We will have no placecards for them and not enough food.

How should we act toward those who did not RSVP if they show up anyway? How about the ones who didn't even bother to respond and stay home?

Please give us some guidance. We are — Freaked Out By "Friends"

Dear Freaked: Accept the sad fact that there are a given percentage of disorganized dames in this world who just can't get it all together. Add to this eternal verity a postal service that is less than perfect.

Painful though it may be, the hostess should telephone those who haven't been able to get the lead out, and ask them, "May we expect you, or not?" We haven't heard." The head count should be made at least one week in advance of the party or the hostess will wind up with egg on her face, not the clods who didn't RSVP.

Only 'Talk'

Dear Ann Landers: For the last three months my husband has been nagging me for permission to sleep with another woman, "just once — to see what it's like." We were married young and are now in our late 60s. I've told him repeatedly that I would never agree to such a thing. Last night he started in again. I finally said, "All right, but I want the same privilege." He got so mad he almost struck me.

Should I give him permission just to keep peace? Please advise. — Torn At 67

Dear Torn: No — but he'll probably do it anyway if he has his mind set on it. Or he WON'T do it because all he can do is talk.

What Next?

Hospital Smoking Bill Zips Through Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to restrict smoking in hospitals is back in the state house for final action after winning unanimous Senate passage.

The bill, heavily backed by clean-air and health lobbies, would require that each patient be asked upon admission if he or she prefers placement with smokers or nonsmokers.

Smoking would be restricted to private rooms, rooms with other smokers, or those who didn't care, or designated smoking areas.

Visitors and employees would be able to smoke only in designated areas.

House Softens Mechanics Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A scrappy House has weakened a bill requiring auto mechanics to be licensed by 1981 and left the measure's future in doubt.

The bill, as originally sent from the Senate required all mechanics to take a certification exam by 1981. After long and heated debate Wednesday, the House approved an amendment that puts in a "grandfather" clause exempting from the certification requirements those who have worked as master mechanics for six of the last 10 years prior to 1978.

"I believe this will absolutely gut this bill," said Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park. Although the bill is in position for a final vote, Forbes said he isn't positive what to do with it while that amendment stands.

Several legislators who asked for the grandfather clause said veteran mechanics have told them the mechanics would rather quit their jobs than take a certification test.

But Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, speaker emeritus of the House, said, "If we're going to decide legislation based on what practitioners tell us they like to do or don't like to do, we might as well not try to do any licensing at all. The competent ones will not object to taking the exams."

The amendment, offered by Reps. Dan Stevens, R-Atlanta, and Thomas Brown, D-Westland, was defeated on its first vote by one vote. Stevens then asked the House to reconsider that vote, and the amendment passed with a healthy five-vote margin.

Then Democratic attempts to reconsider that second vote failed. An increasingly angry Forbes tried to postpone further consideration of the bill until Thursday to prevent a final vote on the amended bill. He couldn't raise the votes for that motion, and publicly scolded his 66-member Democratic majority for not helping him out.

The bill was finally passed for the day after Rep. John Mowat, R-Adrian, offered an amendment that would have totally deleted the certification requirements. No action was taken on that amendment.

Forbes said there are about three Democratic legislators whose votes are needed to help defeat the original grandfather clause amendment.

The bill was introduced in the Senate to tighten up Michigan's new auto repair law which took effect last year.

The bill deletes the law's requirement that all repair facilities purchase $10,000 surety bonds. The secretary of state's office said many repair facilities would not be able to obtain such a bond.

Forbes said that if the grandfather clause amendment stands, there are several things he may do.

One possibility is to overturn the amendment if he can get enough votes.

Another possibility, he said, is to re-refer the bill to the House Consumers Committee to avoid a final vote. Also, he said, the House could pass the bill with the amendment. If the Senate did not approve the bill as amended, it would go to a conference committee to be thrashed out.

Hospital Smoking Bill Zips Through Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to restrict smoking in hospitals is back in the state House for final action after winning unanimous Senate passage.

The bill, heavily backed by clean air and health lobbies, would require that each patient be asked upon admission if he or she prefers placement with smokers or nonsmokers.

Smoking would be restricted to private rooms, rooms with other smokers or those who didn't care, or designated smoking areas.

PROMOTION

WASHINGTON (AP) — Milton Friedman has been promoted by President Ford to the position of special assistant, Presidential Press Secretary Ron Nessen has announced.

Friedman has been a member of Ford's writing staff since January 1974.

Hospital staffers could not smoke in patients' rooms or while performing their duties around patients.

The bill would prohibit the sale in hospitals of cigarettes, cigars and pipe tobacco. The Senate voted Wednesday, 33-0, for the bill, sponsored by Rep. Michael Conlin, R-Jackson.

It is one of four antismoking bills now before the legislature. The others, which are expected to receive heavier opposition, would limit smoking in restaurants, public meetings and grocery stores.

The dispute over the restaurant bill has centered on whether a customer should have to request the operator to designate a nonsmoking area.

Backers of the hospital bill, which still requires House approval of Senate amendments, said about 75 per cent of Michigan hospitals already have smoking guidelines and policies.

House Softens Mechanics Bill

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A scrappy House has weakened a bill requiring auto mechanics to be licensed by 1981 and left the measure's future in doubt.

The bill as originally sent from the Senate required all mechanics to take a certification exam by 1981. After long and heated debate Wednesday, the House approved an amendment that puts in a "grandfather" clause exempting from the certification requirements those who have worked as master mechanics for six of the last 10 years prior to 1976.

"I believe this will absolutely gut this bill," said Majority Floor Leader Joseph Forbes, D-Oak Park. Although the bill is in position for a final vote, Forbes said he isn't positive what to do with it while that amendment stands.

Several legislators who asked for the grandfather clause said veteran mechanics have told them the mechanics would rather quit their jobs than take a certification test.

But Rep. William Ryan, D-Detroit, speaker emeritus of the House, said, "If we're going to decide legislation based on what practitioners tell us they like to do or don't like to do, we might as well not try to do any licensing at all. The competent ones will not object to taking the exams."

The amendment, offered by Reps. Dan Stevens, R-Atlanta, and Thomas Brown, D-Westland, was defeated on its first vote by one vote. Stevens then asked the House to reconsider that vote, and the amendment passed with a healthy five-vote margin.

Then Democratic attempts to reconsider that second vote failed. An increasingly angry Forbes tried to postpone further consideration of the bill until Thursday to prevent a final vote on the amended bill. He couldn't raise the votes for that motion, and publicly scolded his 66-member Democratic majority for not helping him out.

The bill was finally passed for the day after Rep. John Mowat, R-Adrian, offered an amendment that would have totally deleted the certification requirements. No action was taken on that amendment.

Forbes said there are about three Democratic legislators whose votes are needed to help defeat the original grandfather clause amendment.

Forbes said that if the grandfather clause amendment stands, there are several things he may do.

One possibility is to overturn

the amendment if he can get enough votes.

Another possibility, he said, is to re-refer the bill to the House Consumers Committee to avoid a final vote. Also, he said, the House could pass the bill with the amendment. If the Senate did not approve the bill as amended, it would go to a conference committee to be thrashed out.

Attorney Is Found Slain

MANCHESTER, Mich. (AP) — A 38-year-old attorney who took part in a proxy fight last weekousting incumbent directors at a local bank was found shot to death in his front yard Wednesday, police said.

Robert A. Kensler, a newly elected member of the board of directors of the Union Savings Bank in this town of 1,690 persons, suffered multiple gunshot wounds in the head, Washtenaw County Sheriff Fred J. Postill reported.

The victim's brother, Robert, discounted the bank fight as a motive for the killing. Robert Kensler said the motive for his brother's death "may be more personal." He did not elaborate.

Police said Kensler's body was found by his law office secretary and his sister. The secretary, Sandra Rietzlaff, became worried when Kensler failed to show up for work Wednesday morning and she telephoned Kensler's sister, Pat Fitzgerald of Manchester.

police said. The two women then went to Kensler's home, at Walnut Hollow about five miles from town.

Sheriff Postill said he is not "discounting anything" as far as a motive for the killing. The sheriff said the house had not been ransacked. The victim's wallet was found on the bed, said Kensler's brother. Sheriff Postill said Kensler, a bachelor, was wearing a three-quarter length leather coat when his body was found.

Kensler was one of a nine-member opposition slate that ousted the incumbent board in a proxy fight last week at Union Savings Bank.

The new board chairman elected in last week's proxy fight is Stanton Roesch of Manchester, who had been kicked off the bank board last year in a proxy fight waged by Kensler's former law partner, James C. Hendley.

QUAKE AID RUSHING IN

Guatemalan Toll Over 2,000

GUATEMALA CITY (AP) — Aid poured into Guatemala today as the estimated death toll from the devastating earthquake Wednesday rose to more than 2,000.

"The 2,000 figure is conservative," said Col. Manuel Angel Ponce, head of the Emergency Rescue Committee. "We think it may be higher."

"We are still receiving reports from the interior of the country. Many areas are still without communication and we just do not know how serious the damage really is," Officials said at least 3,000 others were injured in Guatemala.

The U.S. Embassy reported no American casualties although it was the height of the tourist season and damage in Guatemala City was heavy. Relief officials appealed for plasma, antibiotics and other medical supplies. The government also asked for tents, food, portable electric generators and earth-moving equipment to open roads.

The earthquake struck shortly after 5 a.m. Wednesday across 2,000 miles stretching from Mexico City south through the heart of Guatemala and into Honduras and El Salvador. The epicenter was located 90 miles southwest of Guatemala City between the villages of Sigüin and Jaquinta.

Severe damage but no deaths were reported in Honduras near the Guatemalan border. There was less damage in El Salvador and very minor damage in some parts of southern Mexico.

Aid poured into Guatemala City through the international airport which remained open. Mexico sent a delegation of relief specialists and began an airlift of supplies.

The presidents of El Salvador and Honduras visited Guatemala City to coordinate aid from their countries. The Red Cross in Nicaragua, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Honduras sent convoys of trucks and ambulances with trained disaster teams and relief supplies. The American Red Cross sent a disaster specialist to assess what was needed.

The Guatemalan government declared a state of emergency and concentrated all public services in the defense department. Warnings were issued against looting, and a radio broadcast asked that no more bodies be brought to the morgue. "The morgue is full," it said.

Col. Ponce said the death toll in Guatemala City was estimated at more than 300, but other reports said it might reach 500 to 600.

The relief committee said the central areas of the capital, inhabited mostly by the poor, were hit hardest. Electrical service was restored to some areas Wednesday night, but drinking water for the 1.5 million residents was scarce.

People used sheets, blankets and plastic covers to build makeshift shelters in streets and ball parks.

Such hotels favored by tourists as the Camino Real, the Ritz Continental and the Conquistador were damaged. Guests were evacuated, and some had to spend the chilly night in the open.

Most restaurants and stores were closed. Flights broke out as people crowded around broken water mains.

Police imposed a 25-mile-an-hour speed limit and ordered drivers to keep their interior lights on at night.

Court Ruling May Make Firing Of Teachers More Difficult

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state Court of Appeals ruling may make it much more difficult for school boards to fire teachers, school authorities acknowledge.

The recent ruling said a teacher can be dismissed only if it is proved the teacher can't teach.

In the past, a tenured teacher could be fired on the nebulous grounds of "reasonable and just cause." Under the appeals court ruling, boards of education and the Michigan Tenure Commission must show a teacher's actions are detrimental to the school and the mental and physical welfare of students.

"In a case that may be taken to the state Supreme Court, the appeals court gave 51-year-old Louise Beebe her job back as a Haslett kindergarten teacher. The appeals court unanimously ruled that "just and reasonable cause" can be shown only by "significant evidence proving that a teacher is unfit to teach."

"Because the essential function of a teacher is the imparting of knowledge and of learning ability," the appeals court said, "the focus of this evidence must be the effect of the questioned activity on the teacher's students, ... other teachers and school staff."

The Michigan Education Association, representing 92,000 members, hailed the ruling as a "magna carta" for tenured teachers. But it was denounced as a "dangerous ruling for kids" by Vernon Oxander, Haslett school superintendent.

"Tenured teachers all over the state can now just lean back and put up their feet," Oxander said Wednesday. "There's no question that this ruling will leave more marginal teachers in the classroom. We'll get a little more mediocrity in our business."

School boards, Oxander said, will have to prove students are not learning before a teacher can be fired, a task he considers almost impossible. "The MEA has got us," he said.

But Ken MacGregor, Ingham County MEA executive, coun-

QUAKE AID RUSHING IN Guatemalan Toll Over 2,000

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — Aid poured into Guatemala today as the estimated death toll from the devastating earthquake Wednesday rose to more than 2,000. "The 2,000 figure is conservative," said Col. Manuel Angel Ponce, head of the Emergency Rescue Committee. "We think it may be higher."

"We are still receiving reports from the interior of the country. Many areas are still without communication and we just do not know how serious the damage really is." Officials said at least 3,000 others were injured in Guatemala.

The U.S. Embassy reported no American casualties although it was the height of the tourist season and damage in Guatemala City was heavy. Relief officials appealed for plasma, antibiotics and other medical supplies. The government also asked for tents, food, portable electric generators and earth-moving equipment to open roads.

The earthquake struck shortly after 3 a.m. Wednesday across 2,000 miles stretching from Mexico City south through the heart of Guatemala and into Honduras and El Salvador. The epicenter was located 30 miles southwest of Guatemala City between the villages of Sigüinla and Iscuintla.

Severe damage but no deaths were reported in Honduras near the Guatemalan border. There was less damage in El Salvador and very minor damage in some parts of southern Mexico.

Aid poured into Guatemala City through the international airport which remained open. Mexico sent a delegation of relief specialists and began an airlift of supplies.

The presidents of El Salvador and Honduras visited Guatemala City to coordinate aid from their countries. The Red Cross in Nicaragua, Costa Rica, El Salvador and Honduras sent convoys of trucks and ambulances with trained disaster teams and relief supplies. The American Red Cross sent a disaster specialist to assess what was needed.

The Guatemalan government declared a state of emergency and concentrated all public services in the defense department. Warnings were issued against looting, and a radio broadcast asked that no more bodies be brought to the morgue. "The morgue is full," it said.

Col. Ponce said the death toll in Guatemala City was estimated at more than 300, but other reports said it might reach 500 to 600.

The relief committee said the central areas of the capital, inhabited mostly by the poor, were hit hardest. Electrical service was restored to some areas Wednesday night, but drinking water for the 1.5 million residents was scarce.

People used sheets, blankets and plastic covers to build makeshift shelters in streets and ball parks.

Such hotels favored by tourists as the Camino Real, the Ritz Continental and the Conquistador were damaged. Guests were evacuated, and some had to spend the chilly night in the open.

Most restaurants and stores were closed. Fist fights broke out as people crowded around broken water mains.

Police imposed a 25-mile-an-hour speed limit and ordered drivers to keep their interior lights on at night.

Court Ruling May Make Firing Of Teachers More Difficult

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A state Court of Appeals ruling may make it much more difficult for school boards to fire teachers, school authorities acknowledge.

The recent ruling said a teacher can be dismissed only if it is proved the teacher can't teach.

In the past, a tenured teacher could be fired on the nebulous grounds of "reasonable and just cause." Under the appeals court ruling, boards of education and the Michigan Tenure Commission must show a teacher's actions are detrimental to the school and the mental and physical welfare of students.

In a case that may be taken to the state Supreme Court, the appeals court gave 51-year-old Louise Beebe her job back as a Haslett kindergarten teacher. The appeals court unanimously ruled that "just and reasonable cause" can be shown only by "significant evidence proving that a teacher is unfit to teach."

"Because the essential function of a teacher is the imparting of knowledge and of learning ability," the appeals court said, "the focus of this evidence must be the effect of the questioned activity on the teacher's students, ... other teachers and school staff."

The Michigan Education Association, representing 92,000 members, hailed the ruling as a "magna carta" for tenured teachers. But it was denounced as a "dangerous ruling for kids" by Vernon Oxander, Haslett school superintendent.

"Tenured teachers all over the state can now just lean back and put up their feet," Oxander said Wednesday. "There's no question that this ruling will leave more marginal teachers in the classroom. We'll get a little more mediocrity in our business."

School boards, Oxander said, will have to prove students are not learning before a teacher can be fired, a task he considers almost impossible. "The MEA has got us," he said.

But Ken MacGregor, Ingham County MEA executive, coun-

Turbulent Weather Ahead For Concorde

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite federal approval, the supersonic Concorde jet still must fly through the turbulence of court battles and attacks from Congress and local governments before carrying its first passengers to New York or Washington.

The fast but noisy plane faces a particularly stiff battle in New York, where local and state officials may veto the decision by Transportation Secretary William T. Coleman allowing the Concorde to land at Kennedy International Airport, which is owned by the local Port Authority.

The 1,400-mile-per-hour aircraft appears to have a better chance of eventually flying into Washington's Dulles International Airport, which is owned by the federal government.

In his decision Wednesday on the requests by British Airways and Air France to fly into the two airports, Coleman said they could operate there for a 18-month test period. The Concorde flies the Atlantic in about 3 1/2 hours, compared with seven hours for conventional jets.

The decision goes into effect March 4. Air France said it could begin one flight a day to Washington then, while British Airways said it hoped to begin service in early summer. But the expected litigation delays could push back commercial service until next year.

Coleman's decision was met with an immediate lawsuit and a barrage of criticism from some members of Congress, many of whom said they would seek to overturn the order through legislation because of the Concorde's noise on takeoff and landing and its alleged reduction of the protective layer of ozone around the earth.

The next test for the French-British aircraft could come today when the Senate Commerce Committee is scheduled to take up a bill to fund airports. Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said he would try to tack on an amendment that would keep airport funds from going to any airport that allows the Concorde to land in scheduled service. The House has already passed the airport funding bill with a similar amendment.

In New York, local officials voiced strong objections to any Concorde operations at Kennedy. The New York and New Jersey Port Authority contends it has final say over whether the plane can land at Kennedy, an assertion that Coleman said earlier is subject to legal question.

New York Gov. Hugh Carey, who in the past has opposed the Concorde, can veto any decision by the Port Authority. A Carey spokesman said Wednesday that the governor's opposition remains unchanged.

On the favorable side, Coleman's decision brought a prediction by John L. McLucas, head of the Federal Aviation Administration, that chances are improving that an American supersonic transport will be built. "The climate in the country will be made more favorable by the introduction of the Concorde," McLucas said.

Another favorable view came from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who said the decision will have "a favorable impact" on U.S. relations with Britain and France. He also said he had not learned of the decision before Coleman's announcement.

The French and British governments expressed satisfaction mixed with cautious views of the battles that lie ahead.

Jean-Claude Martin, coordinator of the Concorde program for Air France, said, "I am confident that Concorde will show itself to be a good neighbor. The battle is not finally won but things are going well."

A British official said the ruling "falls short of all our requirements but... will permit Concorde to prove its merits and capabilities."

Midland Asks Probe Of Sheriff

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — The attorney for the Midland County Board of Commissioners has asked for a grand jury probe of alleged wrongdoing linked to former Sheriff William E. Maxwell.

The attorney, Herbert H. Edwards, asked the commissioners Wednesday to request the probe. The letter was in response to County Prosecutor Edward Durant's decision that no criminal charges would be sought.

Maxwell allegedly accepted an illegal gift from one of his deputies, Maxwell resigned effective Wednesday because of the allegations. Durant said he was satisfied with the resignation and would not prosecute.

Durant said indictments against law enforcement officers still on the job could paralyze enforcement in the county.

Van Buren Youth Camp Pays Off Mortgage

BLOOMINGDALE — The Van Buren Youth camp here has paid off its $100,000 mortgage which financed an addition to the lodge, according to the camp's board of directors and camp director Gerald Jennings.

Jennings said the camp was able to pay off the final $3,000 installment because of increased donations and turnouts at camp-benefit dinners.

The lodge addition financed by the mortgage included a kitchen, office, conference room, camp store and food storage area. Future donations will be diverted into a building fund, Jennings added.

The campground is sponsored and supported by over 300 service organizations, individuals and businesses.

Last year, the camp took in $48,905 in camping fees. The fees go towards camp operating costs and not capital improvements, Jennings said.

Ways To Cut Tax Payment

By SAMUEL E. VITALE
How can you decrease your income tax payment this year?

THE AUG. 3, 1975 issue of "Pennsylvania" magazine contained an article by Thomas Paine on the female sex, and asserted that women "are constrained, in the disposal of their goods, robbed of their freedom of will by the laws and victimized by a pernicious system of double standards." The World Almanac recalls.

The same way you can, and should, do it every year: make full use of the four basic tools for reducing the income subject to taxes: for lowering the rate at which the tax is levied, and in some cases for having part of the tax forgiven. The four are: adjustments, deductions, exemptions, and tax credits.

Adjustments, such as sick pay and moving expenses, are attractive because they reduce gross income, leaving "adjusted gross income" a much smaller target for the tax collector to aim at.

Deductions (for taxes and interest paid, contributions, medical costs, etc.) are nice, too. They, and the exemptions we get for ourselves and our dependents, reduce adjusted gross income still further — to "taxable income."

But tax credits (on low incomes, new home purchases, retirement income, political contributions, etc.) are best of all because they can be deducted dollar-for-dollar from the taxes owed.

Meanwhile, what new tax-saving opportunities are available this year?

The big changes over the 1974 tax picture are:

— If you use the standard deduction instead of itemizing, you can now deduct 16 percent of adjusted gross income, with a maximum of $2,300 for single persons, and $2,600 for couples filing joint returns or surviving spouses. For a married person filing a separate return or surviving spouse, the maximum is $1,300.

— There is also a new minimum standard deduction of $1,600 for singles, $1,800 for married couples, but you do not have to compute it because it is built into the tax tables.

— The level of gross income below which you do not have to file a tax return has been raised to $2,350 for singles, $3,400 for joint filers, $2,650 for a surviving spouse and $750 if married and filing separately.

— Because of efforts last summer to stimulate the lagging economy, all taxpayers regardless of their tax bill can subtract $30 from what they own, plus another $30 for each dependent.

— Qualified low-income taxpayers, with adjusted gross income under $8,000, are eligible for a credit of 10 percent of earned income, up to a maximum credit of $400 on $4,000 of earned income. They lose the credit at the same 10 percent rate as their income rises above $4,000 so the credit is lost when income reaches $8,000. If the credit exceeds taxes owed, the excess is paid to the taxpayer like a refund. To qualify, you must have maintained a household in this country with at least one dependent child.

— If in order to hold a job you had to pay for the care of a dependent who is under 15 or disabled or your spouse, you may be able to claim up to $4,000 a year of such expenses, if your combined incomes did not exceed $18,000.

— If you bought a new home in 1975, under certain conditions, you may be eligible for a tax credit of 5 percent of the purchase price, up to $2,000.

— If you sold a home, you have 18 months rather than 12 to defer any capital gain tax by reinvesting in another home costing at least as much. (You have 24 months if you build a new home as the replacement.)

— If you sold a home, you have 18 months rather than 12 to defer any capital gain tax by reinvesting in another home costing at least as much. (You have 24 months if you build a new home as the replacement.)

HOUSE

Labor-HEW Funds — By an overwhelming margin, the House voted to override President Ford's veto of a bill appropriating $46 billion in fiscal year 1976 for the Department of Labor and Health, Education and Welfare. Voting to confirm Bush as CIA director: Griffin (R).

Voting not to confirm Bush as CIA director: Hart (D).

200-Mile Fishing Limit — The Senate voted 77-19 to extend the U.S. fishing limit to 200 miles from the present 12 miles.

Voting to extend the fishing limit to 200 miles: Hart (D).

CABINET GO-AREAD

ROME (AP) — The Socialist party gave the go-ahead today to Premier-designate Aldo Moro to form a minority Christian Democratic cabinet, signaling the end of Italy's monthlong government crisis. Moro can now form a cabinet, staving off the threat of a general election this spring which most observers believed would result in more gains for the Communist party.

Number Of U.S. Children Drops In Last 5 Years

By ANN BLACKMAN, Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although there are fewer children in America today than there were five years ago, a larger percentage of them are poor.

While the percentage of children in poverty-level families was up by six-tenths of one per cent, the actual number of children at the poverty level was reduced. The figures showed 10.1 million children, just below the official poverty line in 1974, compared to 10.2 million in 1970.

Conclusions about poverty, child health care and family structure were documented in a new publication called "America's Children 1970."

The 90-page book, sponsored by the National Council of Organizations for Children and Youth, is based on federal Census Bureau material. It outlines how changing attitudes about women, a rising divorce rate and several years of economic uncertainty have affected the nation's 88 million children under 18.

Some of the findings are: —During 1974, about one in six children in America lived in families whose income was below the official federal poverty level, $5,038 for a family of four. This compares with about one in seven children in 1970.

—Ten million children, about one in six, were being raised by a single parent in 1974. This compares with about one in seven children four years earlier.

—Although the infant mortality rate has dropped about 25 per cent since 1960, it is still twice as high for nonwhite children as white children.

—In 1975, about two out of five children had mothers in the labor force, a 12 per cent increase over 1970.

The council, a coalition of 180 volunteer organizations concerned with children's issues, reported that because of a falling birth rate, the number of children under 18 decreased by 2.4 million, or 3.4 per cent, from 1970 to 1974.

The council also reported that in 1974, 10.1 million or 15.5 per cent of the nation's children lived below the official poverty line, up from 10.2 million or 14.9 per cent in 1970.

One children's advocate, Dr. Ken Keniston, said the most obvious reason why there is a larger percentage of poor children in the country today than there was a few years ago is because of the economic recession. "Everyone is worse off," he said.

A more subtle reason, said Keniston, who is chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children in New Haven, Conn., is that there are more government spending programs for older Americans who thus are moving out of poverty.

He noted that the report shows that while Americans in other age groups, including the elderly, are inching out of poverty, there was a larger percentage of poor children in 1974 than four years earlier.

"One simple answer to why so many people over 65 are doing better is because of large government spending programs like Medicaid and Social Security," he said. "But we have no notion of entitlement to a decent standard of living for kids."

In a section on family structure, the report shows that the number of mothers who work rose from 12 million to 14 million between 1970 and 1975, an increase of 17 per cent.

"The most stunning increase is in the number of young children whose mothers work," the report states. "Since 1970, the number of children under six with mothers in the labor force increased 17 per cent to 8.5 million."

"The biggest effect of this is the increase in the number of children who try and care for themselves since there are few child care facilities available," said Bill Pierce, head of the

"There is also a lot of sibling care. The older kids often have to take time off from school to care for the younger ones."

For this reason, said Pierce, "there is a tremendous need to spend money for child care. We have been working for universally available, high quality day-care for everyone. It should be available the way education is."

Another aspect of the council's report shows that because of the rising divorce rate and the small but growing number of unmarried women who keep their children, the total number of children living in families headed by a woman more than doubled from 1970 to 1974. Also, there is more children living with divorced fathers. "For children born in the 1970s, it has been predicted that two out of five will live for some period with a single parent," the report states.

Court Rulings Cloud Life Of 'Red Squad' Dossiers

By MARY STEVENSON, Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The 50,000 State Police "Red Squad" files face a March 18 deadline but whether they actually vanish on that date remains to be seen.

Ingham County Circuit Court Judge Thomas Brown's order for destruction of the controversial files appears to conflict with a Wayne County Circuit Court order directing State Police to keep the files intact. A class action suit in Wayne County against the squad continues in Judge James Montante's court.

The files consist of intelligence or surveillance reports on about 60,000 Michigan citizens, collected since the State Police Subversives Activities Unit was created in the 1950s during the McCarthy anti-communist scare. Because the unit was formed to track anyone advocating political or industrial reform through terrorism, the unit was nicknamed the "Red Squad."

The divergent court orders result from two suits. The Human Rights party last month won its suit in Brown's court to have the unit declared unconstitutional and the files ordered destroyed.

But in Montante's court, a suit on behalf of citizens investigated by the squad still is pending and Montante has forbidden destruction of the files.

Deputy Atty. Gen. Stanley Steinhorn said his office will study the two orders this week and might ask the state Court of Appeals to decide which order the State Police must follow.

Richard Sobie, an attorney in the Wayne County suit, said, "If the State Police violate Montante's order, 'We'll move to find them in contempt of court. If the files are destroyed it will be in direct violation of Montante's court. The only people before the judge (Brown) were Human Rights and they can't speak for everyone.'"

Brown said Montante's order "covers certain individuals on whom information was gathered in an illegal manner. I don't know who these persons are. The only thing I can suggest is if they feel they are named, submit a petition. I can't go through all these files and determine who falls within (Montante's) order."

Brown's order gave anyone who thinks there is a file on him 60 days to petition the court to preserve that file from destruction. The 60 days end March 18. Brown will review these requests to see if they have merit.

But seeing one's file is another question. "We haven't crossed that bridge as to whether they can see their file. They may have to litigate." He said this is because many files contain references to other people — including informants — whose privacy could be violated.

Brown said that as of last week he had seen only 10 to 15 petitions from people who want their files preserved.

The American Civil Liberties Union in Detroit is not completely happy with Brown's order. "Some people may have dossiers and may have been damaged by them and do not know it," said Howard Simon, executive director.

Number Of U.S. Children Drops In Last 5 Years

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although there are fewer children in America today than there were five years ago, a larger percentage of them are poor.

While the percentage of children in poverty-level families was up by six-tenths of one per cent, the actual number of children at the poverty level was reduced. The figures showed 10.1 million children lived below the official poverty line in 1974, compared to 10.2 million in 1970.

Conclusions about poverty, child health care and family structure were documented in a new publication called "America's Children 1976."

The 90-page book, sponsored by the National Council of Organizations for Children and Youth, is based on federal Census Bureau material. It outlines how changing attitudes about women, a rising divorce rate and several years of economic uncertainty have affected the nation's 66 million children under 18.

Some of the findings are: —During 1974, about one in six children in America lived in families whose income was below the official federal poverty level, $5,038 for a family of four. This compares with about one in seven children in 1970.

—Ten million children, about one in six, were being raised by a single parent in 1974. This compares with about one in seven children four years earlier.

—Although the infant mortality rate has dropped about 25 per cent since 1960, it is still twice as high for nonwhite children as white children.

—In 1975, about two out of five children had mothers in the labor force, a 12 per cent increase over 1970.

The council, a coalition of 180 volunteer organizations concerned with children's issues, reported that because of a falling birth rate, the number of children under 18 decreased by 2.4 million, or 3.4 per cent, from 1970 to 1974.

The council also reported that in 1974, 10.1 million or 15.5 per cent of the nation's children lived below the official poverty line, up from 10.2 million or 14.9 per cent in 1970.

One children's advocate, Dr. Ken Keniston, said the most obvious reason why there is a larger percentage of poor children in the country today than there was a few years ago is because of the economic recession. "Everyone is worse off," he said.

A more subtle reason, said Keniston, who is chairman of the Carnegie Council on Children in New Haven, Conn., is that there are more government spending programs for older Americans who thus are moving out of poverty.

He noted that the report shows that while Americans in other age groups, including the elderly, are inching out of poverty, there was a larger percentage of poor children in 1974 than four years earlier.

"One simple answer to why so many people over 65 are doing better is because of large government spending programs like Medicaid and Social Security," he said. "But we have no notion of entitlement to a decent standard of living for kids."

In a section on family structure, the report shows that the number of mothers who work rose from 12 million to 14 million between 1970 and 1975, an increase of 17 per cent.

"The most stunning increase is in the number of young children whose mothers work," the report states. "Since 1970, the number of children under six with mothers in the labor force increased 17 per cent to 6.5 million."

HEARST TRIAL

Patty Called 'Willing And Profane' Bandit

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The government plans to reconstruct the bank robbery it says is symbolic of Patricia Hearst's conversion to terrorism — the same holdup the defense portrays as her ultimate struggle for survival.

Jim Smith, manager of the Hibernia Bank held up by the Symbionese Liberation Army April 15, 1974, was lined up as the trial's first witness today. Miss Hearst held a submachine gun during the robbery.

A jury of seven women and five men was sworn in Wednesday and heard chief prosecutor James L. Browning Jr. describe the 21-year-old newspaper heiress as a willing and profane bandit.

Her chief defense counsel, F. Lee Bailey, in his opening statement, called the pale defendant "a prize pig" tortured by a convict self-taught in the rudiments of mind control and determined to have Miss Hearst branded an outlaw.

From the time of her Feb. 4, 1974, abduction until the bank robbery two months later, Bailey said, Miss Hearst was "launched daily by the SLA, told her family had abandoned her, that the authorities wanted her dead and that she had nowhere to go."

She was mentally and sexually tortured, he said, and was ordered to participate forcefully in the bank holdup or the SLA would "blow her to bits" if she "messed up."

She became convinced that cooperation with her captors was "her only means of survival," he said. So, she rushed into the bank with the others, was "introduced as a revolutionary called, 'Tania' and helped the SLA speed off with $10,000."

Miss Hearst was a prisoner of war for "20 months" until her capture in San Francisco last Sept. 18, Bailey said.

Bailey said SLA leader Donald "Clique" DeFreeze studied mind control books while in prison and used the techniques he had learned on Miss Hearst.

Browning, in his opening argument, said he would offer testimony that Miss Hearst wielded her submachine gun with apparent sincerity and uttered obscenities as she ordered customers to the floor.

The jury also will hear tape recordings of Miss Hearst before and after the holdup in which she said she had joined the SLA, taken the name of Tania and freely participated in the crime.

Earlier Wednesday, the defense fought to have the tapes banned from the trial, but U.S. District Court Judge Oliver J. Carter denied the motion.

Milliken Offers Slim Increase In College Funds

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Gov. William Milliken's proposed budget calls for a small 2 per cent spending increase for state colleges and universities, raising the spectre of program cutbacks and tuition increases.

Milliken is asking for a $10 million increase in general fund operating appropriations to finance spending for state colleges and universities to $449.2 million, compared to current levels of $439 million.

The highest dollar increase of $1,286 million is earmarked for Michigan State University at East Lansing, bringing it from current spending levels of $87 million to $88.3 million — a 2 per cent increase.

The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor is next with a 1.4 per cent increase of $1.5 million, raising it from $106.6 million to $108 million.

And the proposal includes a $6,000 cutback for Michigan Tech, bringing it down from $12.87 million to $12.86 million.

There is a school-by-school breakdown with approximate percentage increases. Increases of less than one per cent are not noted.

Central Michigan: a 2 per cent increase of $400,000 bringing it from $20.6 million to $21 million.

Eastern Michigan: a $64,000 increase from $24.38 million to $24.95 million.

Ferris State College: an 8 per cent increase of $1.14 million from $13.3 million to $14.5 million. This includes restoration of $1.1 million for the college's Allied Health Program. Milliken vetoed an appropriation for that amount last summer with a promise he'd reinstate it. His proposal does not include funds for a Ferris State optometry school.

Grand Valley: a 2 per cent increase of $180,000, $8 million to $8.2 million.

Lake Superior: a 10 per cent increase of $337,000, from $3.5 million to $3.8 million.

Michigan State's Agricultural Experiment Station: an 8 per cent increase of $586,000, from $7.1 million to $7.7 million.

Michigan State's Co-operative Extension Service: an 8 per cent increase of $550,000, from $6.8 million to $7.1 million.

Michigan Tech's Research Institutes: a $35,800 increase, from $1.1 million to $1.7 million.

Northern Michigan: a 2 per cent increase of $254,400 from $13.7 million to $13.9 million.

Oakland: a 2 per cent increase of $250,000 from $13.2 million to $13.5 million.

Saginaw Valley: a 4 per cent increase of $175,000 from $3.9 million to $4 million.

University of Michigan at Dearborn: a 4 per cent increase of $255,000, from $6.3 million to $6.6 million.

University of Michigan at Flint: an 11 per cent increase of $591,648, from $5.2 million to $5.8 million.

Wayne State: a 2 per cent increase of $1.4 million, from $69.9 million to $71.3 million.

Western Michigan: a 1 per cent increase of $390,000, from $33.3 million to $33.7 million.

Institute of Gerontology: an $80,000 increase, from $547,087 to $627,087.

Upper Peninsula Health Education Corporation: a $95,000 increase, from $128,016 to $134,016.

Meredith Says Blacks Not Ready For Equal Competition

"If there was equal competition between blacks and whites right now most blacks would move backward," according to Mississippi Civil Rights Leader James Meredith.

Meredith, 43, of Jackson, Miss., made the comment during an interview Tuesday prior to giving a speech as part of Black History week program at Lake Michigan college. He was a substitute speaker for Val Ward, playwright and dramatist, who could not attend because of illness.

During the interview Meredith explained that many blacks presently don't have the education or the acquired skills to compete with whites on a "pure" equal basis.

"An equitable situation, in its pure form, would be worse than segregation," he said. Meredith illustrated his point by noting that whites on the average have a higher level of education in Mississippi than blacks.

He concluded that if jobs or educational scholarships were handed out in a "pure" equal competition situation the whites would naturally get more than their share.

He said, "A horse carrying a 150-pound jockey can't compete with one carrying a 110-pound jockey."

Meredith was the first black to attend the University of Mississippi where he graduated from in 1963. His entrance into the then all-white university caused controversy and sparked a number of violent incidents. Meredith said he was not surprised by violence that has accompanied recent busing of school children, especially in the north.

"I was not surprised by any means. The real bigotry has always been in the north," he said.

He continued, "The south has always been what it appeared to be and you can always deal with reality. The real problem in Massachusetts was that they wouldn't recognize the problem."

In June of 1966 Meredith was shot during his historical "march against fear," a one-man walk across Mississippi to spur voter registration. On the second day of the march, while surrounded by FBI men, Meredith was shot from ambush.

Meredith yesterday termed new Mississippi Gov. Cliff

Finch "the most progressive governor in America."

"Don't look for miracles four years from now in Mississippi, but I think during Finch's term the foundation for many good things could be laid," he said.

Meredith said, "I wouldn't be surprised if within the next couple of major elections a black candidate for president emerges." He added that blacks in high office don't always mean that blacks in general benefit because it could be "just good politics" to have a black in that position.

Meredith said he is presently the publisher of a magazine called "Outlook" which he described as the second best selling magazine in Mississippi, next to TV Guide.

He added, "The biggest thing I do is the same thing I've always done, — try to make me and my kind the most dominant force in the world."

Road Death Rate Lowest In 52 Years

CHICAGO (AP) — Mile-for-mile, 1975 was the safest year for motorists in U.S. history, the National Safety Council says.

The nation's highway death rate dropped to 3.5 for every 100 million miles traveled last year, lowest in the 52 years the council has kept statistics, it was reported Wednesday.

The 1974 rate was 3.6, the council said.

The council said there were 45,000 traffic deaths in 1975, the fewest since 1963 when 45,504 were recorded. There were 46,200 in 1974.

Disabling injuries in traffic accidents totaled 1.8 million in 1975.

Illegal Collection Agency Charged

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Department of Licensing and Regulation has charged two men with operating unlicensed collection agencies in Kalamazoo and Battle Creek.

The warrants charged Robert DeShon, operator of Continental Credit Systems Inc. in Kalamazoo, and J. T. Adrian, operator of Commercial Bureau of Credits in Battle Creek, with failure to comply with the state's 1974 Collection Practices Act.

The act became effective last July.

DeShon said he stood mute at his arraignment Tuesday in Kalamazoo District Court and has ceased all operation of his business pending completion of legal proceedings.

A pretrial hearing will be held Feb. 24.

DeShon said he received his license application forms last November but has not yet sent them in. He has been operating the agency for 11 years.

"I'm still working on them," he said. "It's quite a shock."

Adrian's wife said she and her husband have operated their agency for 17 years and have been working on their license application but have not yet sent it in.

She said no warrant had yet been served on her husband, and he had not appeared in court. But she said they were notified of the charges and, "We've been informed we're going to have to close up."

She said they may have to find another line of business.

The act requires, among other things, that agencies maintain a bond to insure proper handling of funds and demonstrate financial stability.

Memorial Hospital Gets New Magnifying Device

The laboratory at Memorial hospital, St. Joseph, has purchased a $8,000 system which will project microscope slides on a television monitor.

Administrator Robert A. Bradburn announced.

The new instrument permits simultaneous viewing by pathologists, medical technologists and physicians of specimens on a microscope slide, according to Dr. Richard E. Lininger, president of Pathology Associates of Southwest Michigan.

A television color camera is attached to a microscope to pick up the image and relay it to a 13-inch color television screen.

Lininger said the system is manufactured by Microvue Associates of Warsaw, Ind. It has been on the market six months. Most of the sales have been to medical schools, Lininger said, with Memorial one of the few hospitals in Michigan to install the equipment.

Full color slide analysis results in a quicker determination and diagnosis of specimens. It allows magnification of up to 3,000 times for greater detailed analysis, Lininger said.

"Because the medical staff recognized its value as a consultation and educational tool it approved the allocation of half the cost of the system from its own education fund, raised by doctors," Lininger said.

The hospital provided the balance.

School Lunch Changes Are Proposed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed changes in the National School Lunch program that include one that would allow senior high school students to choose less than the complete Type A lunch.

Another change proposed in the regulations would expand the school lunch program beyond schools to public or private nonprofit residential child care institutions. Such institutions would include homes for the mentally retarded, orphanages, temporary shelters for abused or runaway children and other child care institutions.

The proposed change to allow senior high school students to choose less than the complete meal is designed to reduce waste, the USDA said. The schools would offer all components of the lunch priced as a unit, but students would only be required to accept a minimum of three of the five items in the lunch. The five items in the Type A lunch are: Meat or meat alternate, two or more fruits or vegetables, milk, and bread.

Another proposed change provides that the serving of butter or fortified margarine would be eliminated as a separate requirement for school lunches.

The USDA has invited comments from the public on the proposed amendment. They should be addressed to William G. Boling, Manager, Child Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, no later than March 1.

slide, according to Dr. Richard E. Lininger, president of Pathology Associates of Southwest Michigan.

A television color camera is attached to a microscope to pick up the image and relay it to a 13-inch color television screen.

Liningier said the system is manufactured by Microvue Associates of Warsaw, Ind. It has been on the market six months. Most of the sales have been to medical schools, Liningier said, with Memorial one of the few hospitals in Michigan to install the equipment.

Full color slide analysis results in a quicker determination and diagnosis of specimens. It allows magnification of up to 5,000 times for greater detailed analysis, Liningier said.

"Because the medical staff recognized its value as a consultation and educational tool it approved the allocation of half the cost of the system from its own education fund, raised by doctors," Liningier said.

The hospital provided the balance.

School Lunch Changes Are Proposed

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has proposed changes in the National School Lunch program that include one that would allow senior high school students to choose less than the complete Type A lunch.

Another change proposed in the regulations would expand the school lunch program beyond schools to public or private nonprofit residential child care institutions. Such institutions would include homes for the mentally retarded, orphanages, temporary shelters for abused or runaway children and other child care institutions.

The proposed change to allow senior high school students to choose less than the complete meal is designed to reduce waste, the USDA said. The schools would offer all components of the lunch priced as a unit, but students would only be required to accept a minimum of three of the five items in the lunch. The five items in the Type A lunch are: Meat or meat alternate, two or more fruits or vegetables, milk, and bread.

Another proposed change provides that the serving of butter or fortified margarine would be eliminated as a separate requirement for school lunches.

The USDA has invited comments from the public on the proposed amendment. They should be addressed to William G. Boling, Manager, Child Nutrition Programs, Food and Nutrition Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250, no later than March 1.

SPRING-SUMMER SEARS CATALOG
A new approach

Frill Words Out Of Sears Catalog

Sears, Roebuck and Co. has changed the entire merchandise description style of its catalog. Beginning with the Spring-Summer 1976 catalog now being distributed, the company has removed unnecessary adjectives and reorganized the vital product information into short, easy-to-read segments. Only the headlines will glorify potential use and benefits of most products.

The results, according to a brochure that comes with the catalog, makes "Sears catalogs easier to shop from than ever before... easier to read, easier to understand and easier to decide which products suit your particular needs."

For example, the copy accompanying a women's casual shoe in the previous Fall/Winter '75 catalog begins with: "This is the way we like to see the wedge heel slip-on — done with high vamp and crisply detailed with trim top-stitching. Created for those on the go..." The identical shoe in the Spring/Summer '76 catalog is simply "a raised-heel slip-on" with the description including straight factual information about construction, colors, sizes and ordering information.

"At first glance," said Joyn B. Kelley, Sears vice president for catalog merchandising, "it might not seem like a very significant change at all. Yet this concept strikes at the very heart and soul of advertising — that is, the ability to communicate in an understandable and believable way."

"It is certainly not designed to satisfy the creative urges of our copywriters in the traditional way, nor will it do big things for our ego. Its only purpose is to better serve those who shop from our catalogs and those who sell from them."

Kelley explained that the new format, which the company is calling "Spec" for "Segmented People-oriented Copy," reflects the way today's consumers want to shop and their demand for more pertinent product information.

Kelley pointed out that most of the company's catalog shoppers — 80 per cent of last year's catalog sales of $2.7 billion — place their orders on the telephone and want to have full understanding of merchandise when they order it.

"We think we've taken a giant step in meeting consumer demands with our new frill-free, segmented copy presented," the Sears merchant said. "Product information is quickly accessible and easily understandable."

"The effort involved in changing the 1,400-page catalog was described as 'monumental.' It took 75 copywriters and countless other employees from Sears and its merchandise sources three years to complete the job."

The company's 16 specialized mini-catalogs (with titles ranging from "Power and Hand Tools" to "Apparel Catalog of Half Sizes and Women's Sizes") will change to the segmented copy style as new editions come out.

LELAND, Mich. (AP) — A jury of eight men and five women has been selected for the Leelanau County Circuit Court trial of one of two men charged with kidnaping the son of a General Motors executive. The 13-member jury named Wednesday will hear the charges lodged against Clinton Williams, 19, of Ann Arbor.

Parachute Also Used At Lincoln

Bridgman is NOT unique in using a parachute as a physical education exercise device!

Just ask 17 students at St. Joseph's Lincoln elementary school. They say they're so experienced in manipulating a parachute that they have staged demonstrations for other schools.

The Lincoln students wrote letters to the editor emphatically stating Bridgman isn't the only school in the area to use a parachute.

The controversy started Jan. 24 with a picture of Bridgman first graders exercising by tugging on a parachute. The accompanying text said: "Use of parachute in Bridgman is believed unique in area schools."

Here's what Lincoln's Patty Bock said in her letter correcting the statement:

"What I would like to know is why you said that the parachute is unique? We looked the word up in our dictionaries. It means 'new.' Well, parachuting isn't new. I did it when I was in first, second and third. (I'm in 4th grade now.)"

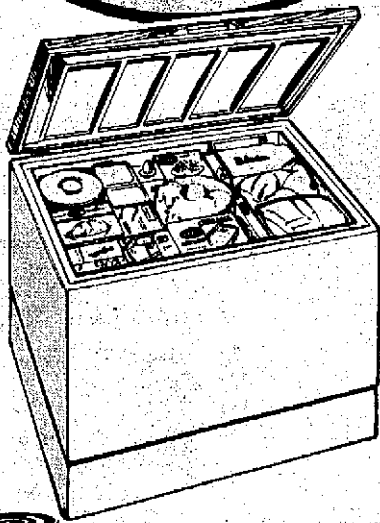

Other Lincoln students told of doing the parachute act in demonstrations for Jefferson and Washington schools in St. Joseph.

Schoolmates of Patty's who wrote informing the editor of the non-uniqueness are Ron Montgomery, Christa Blasy, Tim Taylor, Mike Rash, Lori Worthington, Marcoe Watt, Debbie Althouse, Doug Haight, Theresa Dowane, Tom Pankowitz, Jack Sparks, Kurt Kalmaraups, Michelle Kruse, Kerry Ward, Billy Schalon and Chris Garlanger.

Debbie Bjers wrote earlier that Lybrook elementary school, Eau Claire, also parachutes in gym, and "chuting also is part of physical education in the Lakeshore district."

Canada Marks One Failure In American Revolution

OTTAWA, Canada (AP) — As Americans celebrate the 200th anniversary of the success of their revolution against the British, the Canadian War Museum is quietly marking the failure of that revolution in Canada.

The museum has opened an exhibit called "Revolution Rejected 1775-76." It recounts the invasion of Quebec by American forces in the winter of 1775-76, a venture that came remarkably close to success.

What emerges from the display of artifacts, artillery and paintings is an account that may surprise both Canadians and Americans unfamiliar with this violent episode in Canadian-American relations.

The exhibit pictures Canadians as reluctant defenders of their homeland and American troops as undisciplined and lazy. On the other hand, King George III is seen in a favorable light.

The invasion of Canada was ordered by the Continental Congress of the American colonies on June 27, 1775.

A force led by Richard Montgomery, a renegade British officer, marched north up the Hudson River and, after defeating the British at St. Johns on the Richelieu River, captured Montreal in November 1775.

The British governor, Sir Guy Carleton, escaped the besieged city and arrived in Quebec City only to find a second American force led by Benedict Arnold preparing to lay siege to the fortress town.

The Americans lost the decisive battle at Quebec, fought Dec. 31, 1775, in a snowstorm.

Bernard Pothier, the War Museum curator, worked three years gathering pieces for the exhibit. He says Carleton had trouble rallying local support for the loyalist cause.

"You had it split down the middle with some people working for the revolution and some anxious to be left alone."

At the height of the siege, the British commandant, Allan Maclean, pictured the American forces as "vagabonds and highwaymen come to plunder and pillage," the exhibit notes.

Montgomery himself described his own men as undisciplined and "lazy," the worst stuff imaginable for soldiers.

There were supporters of the revolution in Canada, the most noted of whom was Thomas Walker, leader of a group of sympathizers in Montreal, whose portrait is on display.

In May 1776, a group of pro-revolutionaries toppled a statue of George III in Montreal's Place d'Armes, daubed it with black paint and draped a rosary of potatoes around its neck with the inscription, "Voila le Pape du Canada et le Roi Anglais." — Here is the Pope of Canada and the English King.

King George, regarded by many American historians as indecisive and mentally unstable, is pictured differently in the museum exhibit.

"George III was a skilled political tactician," the description reads. "He understood the play of forces in government and was able to exercise personal executive control over Parliament."

"His problem was that his cabinet was weak and indecisive," says Pothier.

Morale was a problem at Quebec City, and only the un-difficulties of a midwinter campaign enabled the defenders to repel Arnold's forces, says Pothier.

The final battle is graphically displayed in an eight-minute slide show describing the attack through period illustrations and maps with commentary by actors playing the major participants.

Other displays include a horse-drawn coach used by Gov. Carleton, which is in the midst of restoration, plus muskets, cannons and military colors. The pieces were assembled from museums and private collections in Canada, the United States and Europe.

In the spring of 1776, the Americans began to retreat and regrouped British forces forced them back across the border.

Pothier has strong feelings about the failure of the American revolution in Canada.

"This was a very free country," he said. "The French-Canadians had been given their language and had rights to their civil law.

"They would have had a great deal less liberty if they had become part of the American Congress. The United States went through 75 to 80 years of graft and corruption after the revolution before they got organized."

Pothier said he would like to see the exhibit travel in the United States later.

"It's a vantage point that Americans are not likely to see," he said.

"DUE TO THE LATENESS OF THE HOUR, I'VE JUST DECIDED TO CUT MY REMARKS SHORT."

Expert Unravels 'Biggest Fraud'

By STEPHEN FOX Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The block of stock — 38,500 shares — crossed the ticker tape at a price of $26.50. Boston Co. Institutional Investors was getting out.

Four days later, on March 18, 1973, a block of 100,000 shares changed hands at $23.50. Banker's Trust of New York was selling.

For six days the pace of trading grew heavier as more and more investors got out from under what would be called the biggest securities fraud in American financial history.

When the New York Stock Exchange finally suspended trading in the stock of Equity Funding Corp. of America, the price was at $14.37 a share, far below the prices reached when the company was the darling of investment analysts looking for hot issues.

Now, Equity Funding, as it existed when it sold mutual funds and life insurance, is gone.

Some of the men who ran it are in prison and its holdings, which at one time included a bank in the Bahamas and a spaghetti factory in Italy, have been painstakingly dismantled by the firm's court-appointed bankruptcy trustee, Robert M. Loeffler.

"It was the biggest financial fraud in history," said Loeffler, a vice president of Minneapolis-based Investors Diversified Services called in the wake of the scandal to unscramble EFCA's books.

"Life insurance fraud was a part," Loeffler said in an interview. "But it really was a securities fraud. The people who will have suffered, who were victimized, were the people who bought the stock and debt instruments. Those who bought the life insurance policies are all whole."

Loeffler, an affable, low key man who was a Wall Street attorney before going to IDS, has worked out a complex reorganization plan that will give EFCA's shareholders 24 shares of stock in a company that hasn't been named yet for every 100 shares of stock they held in Equity Funding.

Loeffler has picked Allan R. Gruber, 48, vice president of International Basic Economy Corp. of New York, a Rockefeller family holding company, to head the new concern.

"The new company will be free of all liabilities of Equity Funding," Loeffler said. "It will be born free of sin."

Formation of the new firm is expected to be completed by March 31. It will be a holding company for two life insurance firms previously owned by EFCA.

There were supporters of the revolution in Canada, the most noted of whom was Thomas Walker, leader of a group of sympathizers in Montreal, whose portrait is on display.

In May 1776, a group of pro-revolutionaries toppled a statue of George III in Montreal's Place d'Armes, daubed it with black paint and draped a rosary of potatoes around its neck with the inscription, "Voila le Pape du Canada et le St. Anglias" — Here is the Pope of Canada and the English Fool.

King George, regarded by many American historians as indecisive and mentally unstable, is pictured differently in the museum exhibit.

"George III was a skilled political tactician," the description reads. "He understood the play of forces in government and was able to exercise personal executive control over Parliament."

"His problem was that his cabinet was weak and indecisive," says Pothier.

Morale was a problem at Quebec City, and only the untiring work of Maclean and the difficulties of a midwinter campaign enabled the defenders to repel Arnold's forces, says Pothier.

The final battle is graphically displayed in an eight-minute slide show describing the attack through period illustrations and maps with commentary by actors playing the major participants.

Other displays include a horse-drawn coach used by Gov. Carleton, which is in the midst of restoration, plus muskets, cannons and military colors.

The pieces were assembled from museums and private collections in Canada, the United States and Europe.

In the spring of 1776, the Americans began to retreat and regrouped British forces forced them back across the border.

Pothier has strong feelings about the failure of the American revolution in Canada.

"This was a very free country," he said. "The French-Canadians had been given their language and had rights to their civil law."

"They would have had a great deal less liberty if they had become part of the American Congress. The United States went through 75 to 80 years of graft and corruption after the revolution before they got organized."

Pothier said he would like to see the exhibit travel in the United States later.

"It's a vantage point that Americans are not likely to see," he said.

Expert Unravels 'Biggest Fraud'

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The block of stock - 36,500 shares crossed the ticker tape at a price of $26.50. Boston Co. Institutional Investors was getting out.

Four days later, on March 19, 1973, a block of 100,000 shares changed hands at $23.50. Banker's Trust of New York was selling.

For six days the pace of trading grew heavier as more and more investors got out from under what would be called the biggest securities fraud in American financial history.

When the New York Stock Exchange finally suspended trading in the stock of Equity Funding Corp. of America, the price was at $14.37 a share, far below the prices reached when the company was the darling of investment analysts looking for "hot issues."

Now, Equity Funding, as it existed when it sold mutual funds and life insurance, is gone.

Some of the men who ran it are in prison and its holdings, which at one time included a bank in the Bahamas and a spaghetti factory in Italy, have been painstakingly dismantled by the firm's court-appointed bankruptcy trustee, Robert M. Loeffler.

"It was the biggest financial fraud in history," said Loeffler, a vice president of Minneapolis-based Investors Diversified Services called in in the wake of the scandal to unscramble EFCA's books.

"Life insurance fraud was a part," Loeffler said in an interview. "But it really was a securities fraud. The people who will have suffered, who were victimized, were the people who bought the stock and debt instruments. Those who bought the life insurance policies are all whole."

Loeffler, an affable, low key man who was a Wall Street attorney before going to IDS, has worked out a complex reorganization plan that will give EFCA's shareholders 24 shares of stock in a company that hasn't been named yet for every 100 shares of stock they held in Equity Funding.

Loeffler has picked Allan R. Gruber, 48, vice president of International Basic Economy Corp. of New York, a Rockefeller family holding company, to head the new concern.

"The new company will be free of all liabilities of Equity Funding," Loeffler said. "It will be born free of sin."

Formation of the new firm is expected to be completed by March 31. It will be a holding company for two life insurance firms previously owned by EFCA.

Milliken Budget Extremely Tight

Jacobetti said the state actually faces a $500 million deficit. "The governor will have to come up with a revenue program to meet the deficit in the state," said Jacobetti. He said there has been a decline in business revenues without replacement money or new taxes.

Under Milliken's proposal, the state's largest school, the University of Michigan Ann Arbor campus, would get a $1.479 million increase for a total of $108.1 million. That is a 1.4 per cent boost. U-M's Flint campus would get $5.8 million, up $591,648; and its Dearborn campus would get $6.5 million, up only $255,600.

Michigan State University at Lansing would receive a $1.886 million boost for a total of $89.29 million — only a 2 per cent jump. Wayne State University would receive a $1.45 million increase for $71.3 million total, also only a 2 per cent over current spending.

Milliken recommended a $15.9 million general fund reduction for state school aid. However, combined with an anticipated restricted revenue increase, Milliken said gross school aid funding will be up $82.3 million to about $1.421 billion. Milliken proposed extending the two-tier yield equalizing formula to guarantee a local district yield of $43.90 per pupil per mill on the first 20 mills levied and $39.60 on the millage levied between 20 and 28 mills.

Alarmed by prison overcrowding, Milliken proposed a 28.5 per cent Corrections Department increase, from $82 million to $79.8 million. He recommended $5.2 million of that to staff and operate 20 additional beds in existing institutions plus the 300-bed Ionia State Hospital. $1.9 million to improve inmate health care and $1.7 million to develop performance contracts with probationers and strengthen probation supervision. Milliken has slated the Department of Natural Resources for a $655,370 reduction to $29.6 million. The Department of Military Affairs would get a $188,000 cutback to $5.1 million to reflect phasing out of the Vietnam Era Veterans Bonus program.

In other areas, Milliken recommended increasing the legislative budget by $1.28 million to $28.7 million; judiciary by $1.2 million to $21.5 million; attorney general's office by $388,700 to $8.62 million; State Department by $2.75 million to $5.37 million; Treasury Department by $436,150 to $26.3 million; Department of Management and Budget by $2 million to $23.3 million; Civil Service Department by $26,000 to $4 million; Civil Rights Department by $308,000 to $5.8 million; Education Department by $1.8 million to $29.7 million; junior and community colleges by $1 million to $68.2 million; Public Health Department by $3.1 million to $44.8 million; Mental Health Department by $7.87 million to $27.3 million; State Police by $5.38 million to $66.7 million; Agriculture Department by $1.1 million to $13.1 million; Labor Department by $710,500 to $12.4 million; Licensing and Regulations Department by $494,000 to $5.6 million; and Commerce Department by $192,000 to $4.9 million.

Global Terror Ring Has Radical Support

French counterintelligence men to Carlos Martinez. Carlos shot and killed Moukharbel and two French agents and escaped. But his trail led to terrorist apartments in London and Paris, to arms caches and counterfeiting equipment, to a treasure trove of documents about past operations and future missions, including death lists allegedly compiled by Carlos.

These discoveries form part of the dossiers now being studied by the NATO governments. There is no way to evaluate these dossiers independently. For one thing, officials refuse to discuss details, saying they don't want to show the terrorists exactly how much is known about the network.

Sources who have seen the dossiers say they cover financial arrangements for the terrorist network. Moukharbel was a paymaster for the terrorist international in Europe. His papers pointed to the money,

BICENTENNIAL FACTS

A PFLP spokesman disclosed last summer that Carlos had long been at the center of "a guerrilla network" extending from Europe through the Middle East to Asia and South America. "Its aim," he said, "was revolution and a fight against Zionism and imperialism."

Other groups in the terrorist network are reported to have different aims, ranging from extreme left-wing to far right. But the reports to NATO say they all share a desire to force changes in the established order.

The reports list dozens of examples of international cooperation between terrorist groups. Among them was the 1972 Japanese Red Army raid on Israel's Lod airport in which 26 persons were killed. The Japanese terrorists trained in Lebanon, received forged passports in Germany and picked up arms from Czechoslovakia, the reports said.

Not all terrorists operating in Europe are part of the international network. Some of the smaller independence groups appear to be operating largely on their own. But often they, too, may have benefited from foreign help.

The Basques of northern Spain and southwestern France, campaigning for an independent homeland in the Pyrenees, claimed they assassinated Premier Luis Carrero Blanco of Spain in 1973. The Spanish government accused the IRA of supplying the explosives that blew up his car.

Bretons in northern France and Corsicans on their French Mediterranean island have used the bomb-and-bullet tactics the IRA developed to advance their separatist causes. Some Breton leaders live in Ireland.

Democratic Nomination Is His Goal

Howard said he offered a clear choice between Stockman and Rep. Hutchinson. "You can't tell the difference between those two," he said.

Howard said he was a Democratic party worker in Chicago and Cook county for over 30 years before moving to Union Pier. His political efforts also include the formation of "Freedom Unlimited," an organization based at his Union Pier home with the aim of a "continuing effort to unite white and black people."

APPLE TURNOVER: A semi-trailer truck loaded with 39,000 pounds of packaged apples bound for Indiana ended on its side yesterday on shoulder of M-43 near I-196, South Haven township. Driver William Smith, 49, of Wyoming, Mich., told state police troopers he had stopped along shoulder of road when wheels sank into snow, causing truck to roll on its side. Smith was not injured. It took several hours to transfer approximately 900 cases of apples to another semi before truck could be uprighted. Apples were from Triple S Orchards of Bangor. (Tom Renner photo)

Farmers Fight Export Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers have been complaining for nearly three years about periodic government curbs on exports, and representatives of some agriculture organizations say a major eruption may be near. Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, said growers hope to raise $1 million for a possible court challenge of Ford administration export policies that led to an embargo last summer on grain sales to the Soviet Union and Poland. The American Soybean Association on Wednesday delivered a petition signed by 40,000 growers to Congress, asking lawmakers to head off further export controls. The point farmers stress is that export controls, imposed three times since 1973, have forced foreign buyers to seek other sources, resulting in lower prices and reduced income for American growers.

Hiss Spy Papers Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist spy Whitaker Chambers once told the FBI that Priscilla Hiss helped her husband, Alger, slip secret government documents to the Soviet spy ring because "she was a very restless person and wanted an outlet for her activities." Chambers said he and the Hisses decided that "Priscilla would do the typing of the documents taken by Hiss from his office — to give her something to do," according to a once-secret FBI report based on questioning of Chambers in February 1949. The report was part of a mass of more than 15,000 pages from the FBI investigation of Hiss, convicted in 1950 of lying to a federal grand jury when he denied passing government documents to Chambers. In response to a court order, the FBI last week turned over the Hiss to Hiss, Smith College history professor Allen Weinstein and others who had filed suit for them under the Freedom of Information Act. The documents were opened to the public Wednesday.

Michigan Bill Veto Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials claim President Ford's successful veto of a bill to increase federal price supports for milk saved grocery shoppers from sudden confrontation with higher prices for milk, cheese, butter and other dairy products. But backers of the bill say the veto may lead to higher prices because it could drive some dairymen out of business. The Senate voted 81 to 37 on Wednesday to sustain Ford's veto of the measure after the administration argued that the bill would have cost consumers an estimated $1.38 billion in higher dairy prices over the next two years and taxpayers some $538 million in government price support payments. But the bill's backers challenged the White House figures, saying administration projections were based on "the worst possible scenario" of high supply and low consumption the Agriculture Department could calculate.

California Finally Gets Some Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It got so dry even the cactus started pucker, but California is finally getting some miserable weather and everyone — well almost everyone — is thankful. First some sprinkles of rain came up from Mexico's Baja California, leaving a light dusting of moisture to officially end Southern California's worst dry spell in 72 years.

Then what the weather people termed a "deepening upper level cold with a low pressure system" brought thunders, snow, and freezing temperatures up and down the state Wednesday.

It was Los Angeles' first rain since Dec. 12 and ended the area's driest stretch since 1963. By nightfall Wednesday, only 13 of an inch had fallen in downtown Los Angeles. Until that drizzle hit the dust, however, the area had seen only .59 inches since July 1 — compared with .57 inches in the century's worst local dry spell.

But the drought isn't dead yet. The total of .72 inches of precipitation is still more than seven inches less than Los Angeles' seasonal average of 6.08 inches.

Rep. Hutchinson Is Bowing Out

any more." The act prohibited strikes by public employees. On the Nixon administration and Watergate:

"History will judge Nixon more kindly than his contemporaries. Not that he was right in Watergate — but from an overall view, his administration made greater strides in foreign policy and creating a better balance on the Supreme court."

Hutchinson is ranking minority member of the House Judiciary committee which in 1974 began hearings of impeachment against Nixon.

"I didn't defend him after that tape of June 23, 1972 came to light. I announced then (Aug. 6, 1974) I would vote for an article of impeachment. Until that (tape) came to light, I believed there was no evidence before the committee that warranted impeachment."

Nixon resigned after disclosure of the tape incriminating him in the Watergate coverup.

Stockman paid tribute to

Hutchinson by saying:

"I did not relish a campaign against a man who has served the District well for many years, and whose integrity has been above reproach."

"But I had announced my candidacy because I feel strongly that the disastrous course on which Washington is leading the nation must be reversed."

"I am gratified that I can now speak out on the issues — like fiscal responsibility, welfare reform, and a reduction of Federal red tape and bureaucracy — without any fear that personalities and personal criticisms will enter in."

"I think the voters of the Fourth District owe Congressman Hutchinson an enormous debt of gratitude for his many years of outstanding public service."

"For myself, I will continue to campaign aggressively and to hit at the issues. This is a big district and there is still a lot of territory to cover and voters to reach."

'Extra' Purse Leads To Suspect's Arrest

South Berrien Bureau

EDWARDSBURG — An "extra" purse in a car led to the arrest of a Niles man early today in connection with the alleged theft of another car.

State police at Niles credited an Edwardsburg village-Ontwa township policeman with spotting the purse and triggering the investigation which led to the arrest after stopping the man's car for alleged speeding.

Police said the extra purse belonged to a woman who had reported her car stolen from Niles about 11:35 p.m. The woman's car was found about two miles from where the officer stopped the car being driven by the man.

In custody on a charge of unlawfully driving away a car was Tibor Ruess, 24, Niles, state police said.

Another man and two women in the Ruess car when it was stopped were not held, police said.

According to troopers, Ptl. James Kidwell of the Edwards-burg village-Ontwa department, shipped the Ruess auto on Redfield road at M-62 about 1:45 a.m. and began investigating when he saw the two couples and three women's purses.

Police said Kidwell found identification in the third purse belonging to Pamela Faustlich; Niles, who had reported earlier that her car had been stolen from a grocery store parking lot south of Niles.

Troopers said Kidwell found the Faustlich auto abandoned off Redfield road about two miles from M-62.

Milliken proposed extending the two-tier yield equalizing formula to guarantee a local district yield of $43.90 per pupil per mill on the first 20 mills levied and $39.60 on the millage levied between 20 and 28 mills.

Alarmed by prison overcrowding, Milliken proposed a 28.5 per cent Corrections Department increase, from $62 million to $79.8 million. He recommended $5.2 million of that to staff and operate 200 additional beds in existing institutions plus the 300-bed Ionia State Hospital, $1.9 million to improve inmate health care and $1.7 million to develop performance contracts with probationers and strengthen probation supervision. Milliken has slated the Department of Natural Resources for a $655,370 reduction to $29.6 million. The Department of Military Affairs would get a $168,000 cutback to $5.1 million to reflect phasing out of the Vietnam Era Veterans Bonus program.

In other areas, Milliken recommended increasing the legislative budget by $1.26 million to $28.7 million; judiciary by $1.2 million to $21.5 million; attorney general's office by $388,700 to $6.62 million; State Department by $2.75 million to $5.37 million; Treasury Department by $436,150 to $26.3 million; Department of Management and Budget by $2 million to $23.3 million; Civil Service Department by $26,000 to $4 million; Civil Rights Department by $508,000 to $5.8 million; Education Department by $1.8 million to $29.7 million; junior and community colleges by $1.1 million to $98.2 million; Public Health Department by $3.1 million to $43.8 million; Mental Health Department by $7.87 million to $27.3 million; State Police by $5.38 million to $66.7 million; Agriculture Department by $1 million to $13.1 million; Labor Department by $710,500 to $12.4 million; Licensing and Regulations Department by $484,000 to $5.6 million; and Commerce Department by $192,000 to $44.9 million.

Global Terror Ring Has Radical Support

French counterintelligence men to Carlos Martinez. Carlos shot and killed Moukarbel and two French agents and escaped. But his trail led to terrorist apartments in London and Paris, to arms caches and counterfeiting equipment, to a treasure trove of documents about past operations and future missions, including death lists allegedly compiled by Carlos.

These discoveries form part of the dossiers now being studied by the NATO governments. There is no way to evaluate these dossiers independently. For one thing, officials refuse to discuss details, saying they don't want to show the terrorists exactly how much is known about the network.

Sources who have seen the dossiers say they cover financial arrangements for the terrorist network. Moukarbel was a paymaster for the terrorist international in Europe. His papers pointed to the money, logistical and other help from friendly governments.

These dossiers also purport to show how the terrorist network is organized, for example that Habash's PFLP is the main source of East European arms filtering through the system. The arms include the Soviet RPG7 rocket launchers used by terrorists in Northern Ireland.

None of the sources would comment directly on whether the network has a high command or master mind. But public comments indicate that there is substantial coordination among terrorist groups. For instance, both France and the PFLP have stressed the importance of the Carlos incident.

"The whole affair," a French Interior Ministry spokesman said on July 10, "constitutes a startling demonstration of the unity of action between some terrorist groups using help given by certain states." He identified only Cuba. Three members of the Cuban Embassy staff in Paris were expelled from France after Carlos escaped.

A PFLP spokesman disclosed last summer that Carlos had long been at the center of "a guerrilla network extending from Europe through the Middle East to Asia and South America." Its aim, he said, was revolution and a fight "against Zionism and imperialism."

Other groups in the terrorist network are reported to have different aims, ranging from extreme left-wing to far right. But the reports to NATO say they all share a desire to force changes in the established order.

The reports list dozens of examples of international cooperation between terrorist groups. Among them was the 1972 Japanese Red Army raid on Israel's Lod airport in which 26 persons were killed. The Japanese terrorists trained in Lebanon, received forged passports in Germany and picked up arms from Czechoslovakia, the reports said.

Not all terrorists operating in Europe are part of the international network. Some of the smaller independence groups appear to be operating largely on their own. But often they, too, may have benefited from foreign help.

The Basques of northern Spain and southwestern France, campaigning for an independent homeland in the Pyrenees, claimed they assassinated Premier Luis Carrero Blanco of Spain in 1973. The Spanish government accused the IRA of supplying the explosives that blew up his car.

Bretons in northern France and Corsicans on their French Mediterranean island have used the bomb-and-bullet tactics the IRA developed to advance their separatist causes. Some Breton leaders live in Ireland.

Democratic Nomination Is His Goal

Howard said he was a Democratic party worker in Chicago and Cook county for over 30 years before moving to Union Pier. wheels sank into snow, causing truck to roll on its side. Smith was not injured. It took several hours to transfer approximately 900 cases of apples to another semi before truck could be uprighted. Apples were from Triple S Orchards of Bangor. (Tom Renner photo)

It's News TODAY

Farmers Fight Export Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — Farmers have been complaining for nearly three years about periodic government curbs on exports, and representatives of some agriculture organizations say a major eruption may be near. Jerry Rees, executive vice president of the National Association of Wheat Growers, said growers hope to raise $1 million for a possible court challenge of Ford administration export policies that led to an embargo last summer on grain sales to the Soviet Union and Poland. The American Soybean Association on Wednesday delivered a petition signed by 40,000 growers to Congress, asking lawmakers to head off further export controls. The point farmers stress is that export controls, imposed three times since 1973, have forced foreign buyers to seek other sources, resulting in lower prices and reduced income for American growers.

Hiss Spy Papers Released

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist spy Whittaker Chambers once told the FBI that Priscilla Hiss helped her husband, Alger, slip secret government documents to the Soviet spy ring because "she was a very restless person and wanted an outlet for her activities." Chambers said he and the Hisses decided that "Priscilla would do the typing of the documents taken by Hiss from his office ... to give her something to do," according to a once-secret FBI report based on questioning of Chambers in February 1949. The report was part of a mass of more than 15,000 pages from the FBI investigation of Hiss, convicted in 1950 of lying to a federal grand jury when he denied passing government documents to Chambers. In response to a court order, the FBI last week turned over the files to Hiss. Smith College history professor Allen Weinstein and others who had filed suit for them under the Freedom of Information Act. The documents were opened to the public Wednesday.

Michigan Bill Veto Upheld

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House officials claim President Ford's successful veto of a bill to increase federal price supports for milk saved grocery shoppers from sudden confrontation with higher prices for milk, cheese, butter and other dairy products. But backers of the bill say the veto may lead to higher prices because it could drive some dairymen out of business. The Senate voted 51 to 37 on Wednesday to sustain Ford's veto of the measure after the administration argued that the bill would have cost consumers an estimated $1.38 billion in higher dairy prices over the next two years and taxpayers some $539 million in government price support payments. But the bill's backers challenged the White House figures, saying administration projections were based on "the worst possible scenario" of high supply and low consumption the Agriculture Department could calculate.

California Finally Gets Some Rain

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It got so dry even the cactus started pucker, but California is finally getting some miserable weather and everyone — well almost everyone — is thankful.

First some sprinkles of rain came up from Mexico's Baja California, leaving a light dusting of moisture to officially end the Southern California's worst dry spell in 72 years.

Then what the weather people termed a "deepening upper level cold with a low pressure system" brought thunders, snow and freezing temperatures up and down the state Wednesday.

It was Los Angeles' first rain since Dec. 12 and ended the area's driest stretch since 19034. By nightfall Wednesday, only .13 of an inch had fallen in downtown Los Angeles. Until that drizzle hit the dust, however, the area had seen only .59 inches since July 1 — compared with .57 inches in the century's worst local dry spell.

But the drought isn't dead yet. The total of .72 inches of precipitation is still more than seven inches less than Los Angeles' seasonal average of 8.06 inches.

When a thunderstorm struck Fresno, it was the first significant rainfall since November for the crop-heavy San Joaquin Valley.

State officials have placed crop and livestock losses at more than $30 million and economists predicted higher food prices because of the drought which forced some counties to seek disaster aid.

anywhere." The act prohibited strikes by public employees.

On the Nixon administration and Watergate:

"History will judge Nixon more kindly than his contemporaries. Not that he was right in Watergate — but from an overall view, his administration made greater strides in foreign policy and creating a better balance on the Supreme court."

Hutchinson is ranking minority member of the House Judiciary committee which in 1974 began hearings of impeachment against Nixon.

"I didn't defend him after that tape of June 23, 1972 came to light. I announced then (Aug. 6, 1974) I would vote for an article of impeachment. Until that (tape) came to light, I believed there was no evidence before the committee that warranted impeachment."

Nixon resigned after disclosure of the tape incriminating him in the Watergate coverup.

Stockman paid tribute to

Hutchinson by saying:

"I did not relish a campaign against a man who has served the District well for many years, and whose integrity has been above reproach."

"But I had announced my candidacy because I feel strongly that the disastrous course on which Washington is leading the nation must be reversed."

"I am gratified that I can now speak out on the issues — like fiscal responsibility, welfare reform, and a reduction of Federal red tape and bureaucracy — without any fear that personalities and personal criticisms will enter in."

"I think the voters of the Fourth District owe Congressman Hutchinson an enormous debt of gratitude for his many years of outstanding public service."

"For myself, I will continue to campaign aggressively and to hit at the issues. This is a big district and there is still a lot of territory to cover and voters to reach."

'Extra' Purse Leads To Suspect's Arrest

By JOHN DYE

South Berrien Bureau EDWARDSBURG — An "extra" purse in a car led to the arrest of a Niles man early today in connection with the alleged theft of another car.

State police at Niles credited an Edwardsburg village-Ontwa township policeman with spotting the purse and triggering the investigation which led to the arrest after stopping the man's car for alleged speeding.

Police said the extra purse belonged to a woman who had reported her car stolen from Niles about 11:35 p.m. The woman's car was found about two miles from where the officer stopped the car being driven by the man.

In custody on a charge of unlawfully driving away a car was Tibor Ruess, 24, Niles, state police said.

Another man and two women in the Ruess car when it was stopped were not held, police said.

According to troopers, Ptl. James Kidwell of the Edwards-burg village-Ontwa department, stopped the Ruess auto on Redfield road at M-62 about 1:45 a.m. and began investigating when he saw the two couples and three women's purses.

Police said Kidwell found identification in the third purse belonging to Bonita Faustlich, Niles, who had reported earlier that her car had been stolen from a grocery store parking lot south of Niles.

Troopers said Kidwell found the Faustlich auto abandoned off Redfield road about two miles from M-62.

When Washington arrived at Trenton by 8 a.m., Dec. 26, he completely surprised the Hessians who were recuperating from Christmas celebrations. In the ensuing battle which lasted one hour, 22 Hessians were killed, including Rall, and 948 prisoners were taken. The World Almanac notes.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Proposed giant clusters of power plants may produce drastic changes in nearby weather, causing thunders, whirlwinds, fog and increased rainfall, scientists say. # Stockman: Welfare System 'Destroying Our Society'

David Stockman, Republican candidate for Congress from St. Joseph, appears to be making what he terms the "runaway welfare system" a key issue in his bid for the office now held by fellow Republican Edward Hutchinson.

Stockman's candidacy got a major boost Wednesday when Congressman Hutchinson announced from Washington that he would not seek reelection.

Stockman labeled the welfare system the "most urgent problem facing the nation," in speaking at an open meeting of the Lions club in Galesburg Tuesday night. Stockman said:

"Someone consciously bent on destroying our society could not have devised a better means to that end. The welfare system is wrecking families, undermining work incentives, and crushing the taxpayers."

The congressional hopeful noted that the current multi-program welfare system costs $55 billion annually to fund. "That's the equivalent of about $1,000 in taxes for every working family in this country," he noted.

Stockman said that the source of the problem is the "tunnel vision and segmentation" of the legislative process. Each of these programs — ADC, food stamps, medicaid, various housing subsidy programs, school nutrition programs, manpower training, child care services, and others — was originated in a different congressional committee, assigned to a different executive agency, and administered in isolation at the field level. "As a result," he asserted, "nobody had an overall design. Nobody knew what they added up to — either in terms of aggregate costs to taxpayers or benefits to recipient families.

"It's high time we find out," the St. Joseph Republican insisted. "The taxpayers will be shocked to learn that a welfare family can now assemble a package of benefits which equals an income of $10,000 annually."

He called this a "prescription for social and economic calamity. Providing benefits of that magnitude will bankrupt the country and decimate the work ethic," he asserted. "We are making it foolish for a family to work and pull its own weight."

Stockman also charged that "huge state to state variations in payment levels" are turning Michigan into a "social magnet"

artificially attracting hundreds of thousands of welfare families into the state. He called for standard nation wide benefit levels in order to "protect our border from the present burdensome influx of recipients."

Stockman blamed "politics as usual" and "petty jurisdictional rivalries" among Congressional committees for the lack of action on welfare reform. He said that "only aggressive, resourceful leadership from within Congress and massive external pressure from the public" will be adequate to bring about a long delayed overhaul of the system.

Stockman's appearance before the Galesburg Lions club culminated his first full day of official campaigning since announcing his intention to run for Congress, including prior stops in Eau Claire, Berrien Springs, and St. Joseph.

PLANT A TREE: Jim Neibauer, Berrien extension agriculture agent, is shown with a poster which will be given to all tree nurseries in Berrien county before planting season. ## Berrien Bicentennial Tree Planting Program Outlined

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Are you looking for a way to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday that goes beyond buying a $250 gold medallion or a paper-mache model of Mount Rushmore?

Why not plant "a living memorial to the nation's bicentennial, a tree," suggests Jim Neibauer, head of the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission's "Plant A Tree" program.

The commission's idea is to get farmers, students and city people to plant trees around the county this year, said Neibauer, a county extension agriculture agent. Neibauer guesses 2,000 to 3,000 plantings will occur, some involving one tree and others involving hundreds.

Trees will add to the county's beauty, he explained. On farms they are a standard method of conserving soil and offering cover for wildlife.

The commission will make a permanent record for posterity of all plantings done under its program.

Trees will come from two places: commercial nurseries and the St. Joseph and Galesburg River soil conservation districts, which cover Berrien county.

People who buy trees from local nurseries can pick up a card at the businesses. The location of the planting is to be written on the card and the card sent to the Bicentennial commission, Neibauer said.

Student groups and other interested people will also have the opportunity to plant trees bought by farmers for conservation uses.

Alan Herceg, district soil conservationist, explained that each spring farmers in Berrien order some 80,000 young trees.

NAMED TO POST: Dr. Robert Kovach, 32, of Lansing, has been named assistant to the president of Southwestern Michigan college. Kovach said he will begin duties in $22,500-a-year post in July. He is presently assistant secretary for Michigan Community College association in Lansing. His age was incorrectly reported in a story published yesterday regarding his appointment.

county.

This year the farmers will be asked to sign up if they are willing to let groups help them plant the trees.

Groups that want to plant trees at no expense, other than labor, should contact the district office on US-31, at Seville, Herceg said.

The idea for the program came from Mrs. Ann Fries, committee member from Niles. Through the program the county gains trees and people get "a small parcel of patriotism from an overt act," Neibauer said.

Shriners To Hold Clinic For Handicapped Children

A free clinic for handicapped children in need of orthopedic or orthodontic care will be sponsored by the Grand Rapids-based Saladin Shrine Temple and its Berrien county Shrine Club.

The clinic will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 26, at B'nai Shalom Temple at the corner of Broadway and Delaware in Fairplain. The clinic will run until all children are examined.

The clinic was announced by Phil Sax, president of the Berrien county Shrine Club and assistant chairman of the Shrine crippled children's clinic.

The clinic is free to all children under age 18, and will determine if they are in need of hospital care, Sax said. He explained crippled children in need of hospital care are referred to the Shrine hospital, Chicago, at no expense to the family. Orthodontic services that can be rendered locally are done here, also at no expense to the family, Sax reported.

For examination at the clinic here, parents are asked to merely bring their child. No advance registration is required. The local clinic will include an orthopedic surgeon and nurse from Grand Rapids, and also physicians, dentists and nurses from the Twin Cities area, Sax said.

The Feb. 26 clinic will be the third such annual project locally. Only a few children were at the first, but more than 80 were examined at the second and more than 100 at last year's clinic. Similar clinics are held throughout the state. The Shrine Crippled Children's hospital, Chicago, is one of 22 over the nation. It serves patients from this area.

Donation of clinic space in B'nai Shalom Temple, Fairplain, was acknowledged with appreciation by Nathaniel S. Tuchman, potestante of the Saladin Temple, which consists of Shriners from Western Michigan.

TEACHER BALANCE
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan could achieve a "balanced" teacher supply market by 1976-1977 if present trends continue, says the state superintendent of public instruction. Dr. John Prier said Wednesday the overproduction of new teachers in Michigan in recent years appears to be easing.

Familiar Faces Expected On County GOP Ticket

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

There appears a strong possibility that all Berrien county officials elected on a county-wide basis will seek now terms at the polls this year.

Although none of the elected officials presently holding office has formally announced his candidacy, a survey conducted by The Herald-Palladium indicates that only Prosecutor John Smietanka and Surveyor G. Lynn Wightman are even considering the possibility of not running again.

Smietanka said "I really haven't decided, frankly," and added that he hoped to take a couple of weeks vacation to give the decision serious consideration.

Wightman, who has served almost 23 years in the non-salaried surveyor's post, said only that "I haven't made up my mind yet."

All other incumbents said either definitely or "probably" that they would run again, including Sheriff Forrest "Nick" Jewell, County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke, Register of Deeds Judith Litke Hecht, Treasurer William C. Heyn and newly-appointed Drain Commissioner Ivan Price.

Presiding Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond and Probate Judge Ronald Lange also indicated they will run for election, although both said they would make a formal announcement at a later date. Hammond and Lange are the only Berrien judges whose terms expire this year.

Hammond and Lange were elected on non-partisan ballots, while all other incumbents are Republicans.

To date no primary opposition has surfaced for the seven Republican incumbents, who were challenged by Democrats for only two of the seven posts in the 1972 general election.

In both those cases, Republicans won by more than a 2-1 majority, with Kesterke defeating Ervin Appelget of Stevensville 40,322 to 17,700 while Heyn defeated Edna Kanger of New Buffalo 39,541 to 17,441.

Marvin LaVany, chairman of the Berrien county Democratic committee, said his party's goal was to field a full slate of candidates for county offices this year and that a committee presently is seeking but potential candidates.

He said this committee is to report at a county Democratic

British Politician Will Speak Here

One of England's leading political figures will be the 153th speaker to appear before the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan Thursday, Feb. 26. He is the Right Honorable Reginald Maudling, a member of the British Parliament for the past 25 years. The dinner meeting of the club featuring Maudling will get under way at 6:45 p.m. at Hamada Inn, Benton township, according to Club President John Paul Taylor.

A member of the Conservative party which is now out of power in England, Maudling serves under Conservative Leader Margaret Thatcher as opposition spokesman on foreign and commonwealth affairs. His subject before the Economic Club will be: "How Britain is Changing, and Why."

REGINALD MAUDLING
Member of Parliament

Active in British government since he was 24, Maudling was transferred from the Intelligence branch of the Royal Air Force in 1941 to become private secretary to the Secretary of State for Air Archibald Sinclair.

After the war, Maudling joined the central research department, specializing in economics and finance, and acting as personal adviser to Sir Winston Churchill on these matters, and became head of the Economic Department. In 1950, he was elected to Parliament for Barnet, which he has represented ever since.

When Harold MacMillan formed his Conservative government in 1957, Maudling became paymaster general. In addition to his other duties, he supervised negotiations for Britain's participation in the proposed European Free Trade area. In 1961-1962 he was Secretary of state for the colonies, dealing with the complicated problems of Kenyan independence and the break up of the Central African Federation.

From mid-1962 until the general election of 1964, Maudling was chancellor of the exchequer. When the Conservatives went into Opposition, he became their chief front bench spokesman on treasury matters.

On Honor Roll
NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Daniel G. Lord, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Lord, route 2, Berrien Springs, has been named to the honor roll at David Lipscomb college, here, for fall term.

Stockman: Welfare System 'Destroying Our Society'

David Stockman, Republican candidate for Congress from St. Joseph, appears to be making what he terms the "runaway welfare system" a key issue in his bid for the office now held by fellow Republican Edward Hutchinson.

Stockman's candidacy got a major boost Wednesday when Congressman Hutchinson announced from Washington that he would not seek reelection.

Stockman labeled the welfare system the "most urgent problem facing the nation," in speaking at an open meeting of the Lions club in Galien Tuesday night. Stockman said:

"Someone consciously bent on destroying our society could not have devised a better means to that end. The welfare system is wrecking families, undermining work incentives, and crushing the taxpayers."

The congressional hopeful noted that the current multi-program welfare system costs $55 billion annually to fund. "That's the equivalent of about $1,000 in taxes for every working family in this country," he noted.

Stockman said that the source of the problem is the "tunnel vision and segmentation" of the legislative process. Each of these programs — ADC, food stamps, medicaid, various housing subsidy programs, school nutrition programs, manpower training, child care services, and others — was originated in a different congressional committee, assigned to a different executive agency, and administered in isolation at the field level. "As a result," he asserted, "nobody had an overall design. Nobody knew what they added up to — either in terms of aggregate costs to taxpayers or benefits to recipient families.

"It's high time we find out," the St. Joseph Republican insisted. "The taxpayers will be shocked to learn that a welfare family can now assemble a package of benefits which equals an income of $10,000 annually."

He called this a "prescription for social and economic calamity. Providing benefits of that magnitude will bankrupt the country and decimate the work ethic," he asserted. "We are making it foolish for a family to work and pull its own weight."

Stockman also charged that "huge state to state variations in payment levels" are turning Michigan into a "social magnet"

artificially attracting hundreds of thousands of welfare families into the state. He called for standard nation wide benefit levels in order to "protect our border from the present burdensome influx of recipients."

Stockman blamed "politics as usual" and "petty jurisdictional rivalries" among Congressional committees for the lack of action on welfare reform. He said that "only aggressive, resourceful leadership from within Congress and massive external pressure from the public" will be adequate to bring about a long delayed overhaul of the system.

Stockman's appearance before the Galien Lions club culminated his first full day of official campaigning since announcing his intention to run for Congress, including prior stops in Eau Claire, Berrien Springs, and St. Joseph.

PLANT A TREE: Jim Neibauer, Berrien extension agriculture agent, is shown with a poster which will be given to all tree nurseries in Berrien county before planting season. He is in charge of the Berrien Bicentennial commission's "Plant A Tree" program. Planting a tree is a wonderful way to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday, Neibauer said. (Staff photo)

Berrien Bicentennial Tree Planting Program Outlined

By NICK SMITH
Staff Writer

Are you looking for a way to celebrate the nation's 200th birthday that goes beyond buying a $250 gold medallion or a paper-mache model of Mount Rushmore?

Why not plant "a living memorial to the nation's bicentennial, a tree," suggests Jim Neibauer, head of the Berrien County Bicentennial Commission's "Plant A Tree" program.

The commission's idea is to get farmers, students and city people to plant trees around the county this year, said Neibauer, a county extension agriculture agent. Neibauer guesses 2,000 to 3,000 plantings will occur, some involving one tree and others involving hundreds.

Trees will add to the county's beauty, he explained. On farms they are a standard method of conserving soil and offering cover for wildlife.

The commission will make a permanent record for posterity of all plantings done under its program.

Trees will come from two places: commercial nurseries and the St. Joseph and Galien River soil conservation districts, which cover Berrien county.

People who buy trees from local nurseries can pick up a card at the businesses. The location of the planting is to be written on the card and the card sent to the Bicentennial commission, Neibauer said.

Student groups and other interested people will also have the opportunity to plant trees bought by farmers for conservation uses.

Alan Herceg, district soil conservationist, explained that each spring farmers in Berrien order some 80,000 young trees.

NAMED TO POST: Dr. Robert Kovach, 32, of Lansing, has been named assistant to the president of Southwestern Michigan college. Dowagiac. Kovach said he will begin duties in $22,500-a-year post in July. He is presently assistant secretary for Michigan Community College association in Lansing. His age was incorrectly reported in a story published yesterday regarding his appointment.

Shriners To Hold Clinic For Handicapped Children

A free clinic for handicapped children in need of orthopedic or orthodontic care will be sponsored by the Grand Rapids-based Saladin Shrine Temple and its Berrien county Shrine Club.

The clinic will begin at 10 a.m. Thursday, Feb. 26, at B'nai Shalom Temple at the corner of Broadway and Delaware in Fairplain. The clinic will run until all children are examined.

The clinic was announced by Phil Sax, president of the Berrien county Shrine Club and assistant chairman of the Shrine crippled children's clinic.

The clinic is free to all children under age 16, and will determine if they are in need of hospital care, Sax said. He explained crippled children in

This year the farmers will be asked to sign up if they are willing to let groups help them plant the trees.

Groups that want to plant trees at no expense, other than labor, should contact the district office on US-31, at Scottsdale, Herceg said.

The idea for the program came from Mrs. Ann Freese, committee member from Niles. Through the program the county gains trees and people get "a small parcel of patriotism from an overt act," Neibauer said.

GETS Ph.D.: W. Peter Blitchington, assistant professor of education at Andrews university, Berrien Springs, has been awarded his doctorate degree by Georgia State university. Dr. Blitchington joined AU's staff in June 1975.

Familiar Faces Expected On County GOP Ticket

By JIM DeLAND
Assistant City Editor

There appears a strong possibility that all Berrien county officials elected on a county-wide basis will seek new terms at the polls this year.

Although none of the elected officials presently holding office has formally announced his candidacy, a survey conducted by The Herald-Palladium indicates that only Prosecutor John Smietanka and Surveyor G. Lynn Wightman are even considering the possibility of not running again.

Smietanka said "I really haven't decided, frankly," and added that he hoped to take a couple of weeks vacation to give the decision serious consideration.

Wightman, who has served almost 23 years in the non-salaried surveyor's post, said only that "I haven't made up my mind yet."

All other incumbents said either definitely or "probably" that they would run again, including Sheriff Forrest "Nick" Jewell, County Clerk Forrest H. Kesterke, Register of Deeds Judith Litke Hecht, Treasurer William C. Heyn and newly-appointed Drain Commissioner Ivan Price.

Presiding Fifth District Judge John T. Hammond and Probate Judge Ronald Lange also indicated they will run for election, although both said they would make a formal announcement at a later date. Hammond and Lange are the only Berrien judges whose terms expire this year.

Hammond and Lange were elected on non-partisan ballots, while all other incumbents are Republicans.

To date no primary opposition has surfaced for the seven Republican incumbents, who were challenged by Democrats for only two of the seven posts in the 1972 general election.

In both those cases, Republicans won by more than a 2-1 majority, with Kesterke defeating Ervin Appelget of Stevensville 40,322 to 17,700 while Heyn defeated Edna Kanger of New Buffalo 39,541 to 17,441.

Marvin LaVanway, chairman of the Berrien county Democratic committee, said his party's goal was to field a full slate of candidates for county offices this year and that a committee presently is seeking out potential candidates.

He said this committee is to report at a county Democratic meeting Feb. 19 and that he hoped to have a better idea of possible candidates at that time.

The deadline for filing nominating petitions is June 1 at 4 p.m. in the county clerk's office. The primary election will be held Aug. 3 and the general election Nov. 2.

British Politician Will Speak Here

One of England's leading political figures will be the 185th speaker to appear before the Economic Club of Southwestern Michigan Thursday, Feb. 26. He is the Right Honorable Reginald Maudling, a member of the British Parliament for the past 25 years. The dinner meeting of the club featuring Maudling will get under way at 6:45 p.m. at Ramada Inn, Benton township, according to Club President John Paul Taylor.

A member of the Conservative party which is now out of power in England, Maudling serves under Conservative Leader Margaret Thatcher as opposition spokesman on foreign and commonwealth affairs. His subject before the Economic Club will be: "How Britain is Changing, and Why."

REGINALD MAUDLING
Member of Parliament

Active in British government since he was 24, Maudling was transferred from the intelligence branch of the Royal Air Force in 1941 to become private secretary to the Secretary of State for Air Archibald Sinclair.

After the war, Maudling joined the central research department, specializing in economics and finance, and acting as personal adviser to Sir Winston Churchill on these matters, and became head of the Economic Department. In 1950, he was elected to Parliament for Barnet, which he has represented ever since.

When Harold McMillan formed his Conservative government in 1957, Maudling became paymaster general. In addition to his other duties, he supervised negotiations for Britain's participation in the proposed European Free Trade area. In 1961-1962 he was Secretary of state for the colonies, dealing with the complicated problems of Kenyan independence and the break up of the Central African federation.

From mid-1962 until the general election of 1964, Maudling was chancellor of the exchequer. When the Conservatives went into Opposition, he became their chief front bench spokesman on treasury matters.

SHEILA YOUNG GETS SILVER

U.S. Wins Two Medals

By WICK TEMPLE

AP Sports Editor

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Cross country skier Bill Koch of Guilford, Vt., and speed skater Sheila Young of Detroit started the United States on the path to gold medal glory today with silver medals in their specialties in the 12th Winter Olympic Games.

The 20-year-old Koch won the silver medal in the men's 30-kilometer cross-country ski race, coming in less than half a minute behind gold medalist Sergey Savelyev of the Soviet Union.

The performance by the 20-year-old Koch, in his first Olympic event, gave the United States its best placing ever in Nordic ski competition. Savelyev was timed in 1 hour 30 minutes 29.38 seconds on the course at nearby Seefeld. Koch was clocked in 1:30:57.81. Ivan Garanin of the Soviet Union won the bronze medal in 1:31:06.29.

Miss Young, a former Olympian in the Summer Games in cycling and in the Sapporo Games in speed skating, won the silver medal in the women's 1,500-meter speed-skating event, coming in behind gold medal winner Galina Stepanovskaya of the Soviet Union. World record holder Tatiana Averina of Russia won the bronze.

Miss Stepanovskaya won the race in 2 minutes 16.58 seconds while Miss Young's runner-up time was 2:17.06.

Miss Averina's third-place time was 2:17.96.

American champion Leah Poulos, 24, of Northbrook, Ill., made a desperate effort to catch up but tired and faded going into the final lap, finishing sixth in 2:39.11.

Norway's Lisbeth Korsmo had the fourth-best time of 2:18.88. East Germany's Karin Kossow, who skated against Miss Young in the ninth pair, was fifth in 2:19.06.

Miss Young's father, Claire Young, said: "She was up for this, even though it was only supposed to be a workout for the other two distances — 500 meters and 1,000 meters."

Miss Young, world record holder in the 500 meters, was not expected to excel in the longer races. But she beat the experts and the course that had tripped her up two years ago. "This is not my favorite rink," Miss Young said. "There is some wind here and my times have been better on other rinks. I haven't skated my best here. You know, I fell in the 500 here in 1974 in a world tournament."

Earlier in the week, Miss Young provided some social excitement when she announced her engagement to James Ochowicz, an Olympic cyclist from Milwaukee.

With her engagement announcement also came the news that this is probably Miss Young's final Olympics.

"I really plan on getting married and settling down," she said. "Maybe going to school."

Miss Young, 25, said her record performance in the 500 meter race last week in Davos, Switzerland helped her prepare for the Olympics.

"The world record gave me confidence," Miss Young said Tuesday.

Koch had said he wanted to be the best in the world by 1978, and he is in position to win a couple of gold medals in the 1980 Olympic Games in Lake Placid, N.Y. It appears he's two years ahead of schedule.

It was a long, hard journey for Koch, who said he skied some 5,000 miles in preparation for these Games.

"Of course it's blood, sweat and tears," said the blond strong man. "But it's necessary to reach my goal of becoming a top international cross-country skier."

In the luge events, Monika Schefftschik of West Germany took the lead after two of the four women's runs with a time of 1 minute 25.59 seconds, followed by Ute Ruchrold of East Germany in 1:26.64. The top American woman was Kathy Hornstad of Goleta, Calif., 21st in 1:31.157. In the men's luge, Detlef Guenther of East Germany was first after two runs at 1:44.488 followed by Josef Fendt of West Germany at 1:44.627. America's top luger was Jim Murray, Steamboat Springs, Colo., 28th in 1:51.823.

Also on today's schedule are the second of three parts of the pairs ice dancing competition — in which the graceful duo of Colleen O'Connor and Jim Millin of Colorado Springs, Colo., were in third place after Wednesday's performance; the first of two parts of the pairs figure skating competition, and three Group B hockey games, among teams not eligible for medals.

On a day when pro-American spirit echoed through the mountains and valleys of this middle European resort, the spectre of bloody Munich still chilled the air as a contingent of 5,000 policeman patrolled the countryside.

A tremendous roar resounded across the snow-capped mountains when the 119-member United States delegation marched into the huge outdoor stadium. Only the Austrian team drew a warmer ovation from the crowd of 85,000 to 90,000 which packed the inclines.

Injuries during Wednesday's practice runs dashed the Olympic hopes of one competitor and damaged the chances of 1972 double gold medal winner Marie-Theres Nadig of Switzerland.

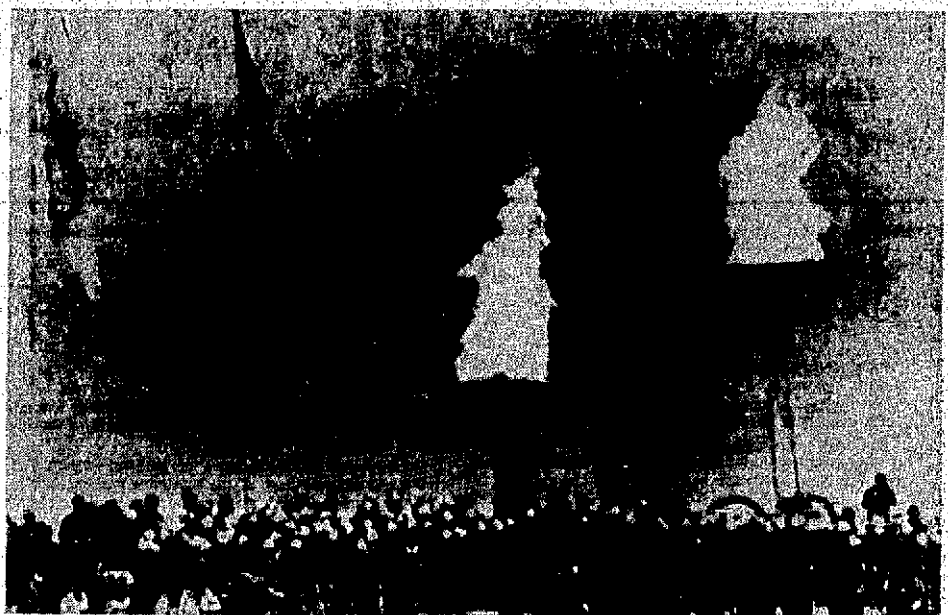

Miss Nadig reinjured a shoulder and the team doctor said the Swiss ace would not practice again but would probably compete in the women's downhill event Sunday.

Austria's Werner Grissman fell spectacularly in the men's downhill trials. His coach, Tony Sailer, said Grissman tore a knee and the team doctor said he was out for the season.

Sweden's Thomas Magnusson, the 1974 world champion in the 30-kilometer cross-country race, left the Olympics when he learned his father was killed in a car crash Wednesday. Magnusson was replaced by Christer Johansson for Thursday's competition.

Ice dancing, the newest event on the Olympic program, got off to a rousing start with Russian favorites Ludmilla Pakhomova and Aleksandr Gushkov grabbing a big lead. The five-time world champions had the best score in each of three original sets of pattern dances.

Miss O'Connor and Millin placed third, barely trailing Russian world titlists Irina Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov in this now Olympic event that differs from ice skating in its rigidity and its lack of spectacular spins and acrobatics.

OLYMPIC FLAME BURNS: The Olympic flame of 1976, right, and the old one of the 1964 Winter Olympics burn in their trays after being ignited in Wednesday's opening ceremonies for the 12th Olympic Winter Games in Innsbruck's Bergisel Stadium. (AP Wirephoto)

Tigers Put Title Hopes On Line Against Grand Haven

The day of reckoning has arrived for Earl McKee's Benton Harbor Tigers.

Benton Harbor puts its Lake Michigan Athletic Conference title hopes on the line Friday night against Grand Haven at the Colfax Gym.

Having won four LMAG games in a row, the Tigers have surged into a four-way tie for first place in the league: Muskegon Catholic, Traverse City and Grand Haven all join Benton Harbor at 4-2. But if the Tigers are to have any hopes of defending their league championship, they must win Friday, declares McKee.

"We're getting right down to where things are really important," he says. This game with Grand Haven is probably going to decide who wins the LMAG.

At least it's going to decide whether we're going to be in the race or not. If we don't win Friday, our other three league games won't mean a thing."

McKee plans to go with the same starting lineup which has opened the last three games. Russell Steele, who leads Benton Harbor with a 22.7 scoring average, and Leon Lewis (6.3) will go at forwards. Muscular Bennie Bowers (12.9) will handle the middle and senior Albert Watson (7.4) and junior Steve McNutt (9.0) will go in the backcourt.

Grand Haven will offer the same balanced scoring attack which was able to beat the Tigers 72-64 at Grand Haven in December. Mark Hosper, a 8-4 junior, (11.6) and Dale Kaisbeck, a 6-4 senior, will go at forward. Towering 6-7 senior Paul Hosper (10.0) is in the pivot and Blair Smitelma (11.0) and Kirk Schaffer (14.0) are the guards.

The Buccaneers, coached by Al Schaffer (the brother of River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer), are 12-2 overall and have not beaten Benton Harbor at the Colfax Gym since 1961 when they nipped the Tigers 65-61.

The other two teams tied for first in the LMAG title chase also battle Friday night when Muskegon Catholic Central travels to Traverse City.

Benton Harbor takes to the road Saturday night in a non-league battle against Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills.

Arbitrator's Ruling Upheld
Baseball's Reserve Clause Shot Down Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Will baseball's owners, with two strikes against them, come out swinging? Or will they give up their turn at, but so the real game can begin?

That's the predicament in which the sport finds itself today after the second of two umpires turned thumbs down on the owners and their interpretation of baseball's historic option clause.

On Wednesday in Kansas City, Judge John W. Oliver of U.S. District Court upheld the Dec. 23 ruling by arbitrator Peter Seitz that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents because they had played one year beyond their contractual commitments. Seitz' ruling, which the owners sought unsuccessfully to overturn, struck down the ancient interpretation of the option clause that had kept a player with one team as long as that team desired. The new interpretation, which the owners insist would destroy the national pastime, says a player becomes a free agent, available to all 24 major league clubs after he exercises the option year of his contract.

The owners swung and missed against Seitz and didn't connect with Oliver, but another swing — an appeal of Oliver's decision — could jeopardize the 1976 baseball season.

The labor contract between the owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association expired Dec. 31.

Negotiations have been under way but fruitless. The union says that the sides will get no closer to an agreement if the owners continue taking their case to court. The owners, meanwhile, have threatened a delay in spring training if there is no signed agreement by then.

"I don't like the idea of them constantly running in court," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, who insists that collective bargaining and litigation just don't mix.

"What we have here is a labor relations problem and it can only be solved in one way — at the bargaining table," Miller said. "We have to negotiate a change."

Miller said the owners are listening to the advice of their lawyers who are not versed in labor relations and have steered a steady course in the direction of the courts.

John J. Gaherin, the owners' bargaining agent and their principal labor relations expert, says his preference is for a negotiated settlement but the owners have the right to take every legal avenue open to them.

Baseball Returns To Seattle

By STEVE ELLIS
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — After an absence of six years, major league baseball is returning to the Pacific Northwest.

Radio executive Lester Smith and American League President Lee MacPhail held a press conference today to reveal details of the agreement to operate an expansion franchise here in 1977.

The league was represented here by the ill-fated Seattle Pilots during the 1969 season. The Pilots went bankrupt and were sold to Milwaukee interests, touching off a bitter legal dispute that expansion now is designed to quell.

American League owners formally voted to award the franchise to Smith on Monday. He will head a group that includes his business partner, entertainer Danny Kaye, and four others.

The Smith-Kaye combine tried and failed to buy the Chicago White Sox and the San Francisco Giants before hitting a lawsuit-assisted ownership home run on expansion.

Two conditions have been placed on the deal. First, the league wants to be sure that a satisfactory lease is signed for occupancy of the King County Denny Stadium, a $40 million structure conceived as a home for the Pilots and now nearing completion.

Owners also want a lawsuit, seeking up to $32.5 million in trebled damages, dismissed in Superior Court at Everett. That suit was filed by the city, King County and the state because the Pilots were moved.

Trial of their claim that the league committed fraud, breach of contract and anti-trust violations has been under way for more than three weeks. The county and city must be convinced that expansion will occur before the suit will be dropped, officials have said. Steps in that direction will not be taken until legally binding agreements are signed, they have said.

RV Frosh Win

Klammer Takes Downhill Race

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Favored Franz Klammer of Austria won the Alpine skiing downhill gold medal today at the 12th Winter Olympic Games with a time of 1 minute 45.73 seconds.

Bernhard Russi of Switzerland was second in 1:46.06 and Herbert Plank of Italy was third at 1:46.50. Andy Mill of Aspen, Colo., was the top American finisher, sixth in 1:47.06. Greg Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., was 11th in 1:47.84. Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, was 18th in 1:47.94 and Karl Anderson of Greene, Maine, completed the United States contingent in 24th place at 1:49.08.

"I was in agony all the way down because of the pain in my injured leg," said Mill, who had crashed during a pre-Olympic practice run. "I could hardly stand it. This was too bad because the course was good for me."

All times and places were still unofficial. Klammer triumphantly raised his arms when his fastest time was announced. He was embraced by his teammates. Then thousands of Austrian fans roared.

Klammer broke his own track record by more than 10 seconds on the Alpine Patscherkofel trail. The Austrian had to come from behind to win this race because he trailed Russi in the intermediate time.

U.S. Skater Cook Faints During Olympic Opening

Miss Cook, who is paired with Billy Fawcett of Cleveland in the duet competition, became ill following the lighting of the Olympic flame. She was assisted to an ambulance, received a drink of water, then said she felt all right.

On Tuesday, she was among the most outspoken members of the U.S. team concerning the appearance of the American team's uniforms.

JAZZ ACT: New Orleans Jazz coach Butch van Breda Kelliff isn't one to sit still when he doesn't like a particular call. His antics are colorful but costly as he has already piled up 12 technicals including three ejections this season totaling over $1,000 in fines. These were some of his reactions during play against Cleveland this past weekend in the Superdome. (AP Wirephoto)

It was a long, hard journey for Koch, who said he skied some 5,000 miles in preparation for these Games.

"Of course it's blood, sweat and tears," said the blond strong man. "But it's necessary to reach my goal of becoming a top international cross-country skier."

In the luge events, Monika Schefstschik of West Germany took the lead after two of the four women's runs with a time of 1 minute 25.59 seconds, followed by Ute Ruehrold of East Germany in 1:25.634. The top American woman was Kathy Hornstad of Goleta, Calif., 21st in 1:31.157. In the men's luge, Detlef Guenther of East Germany was first after two runs at 1:44.488 followed by Josef Fendt of West Germany at 1:44.627. America's top luger was Jim Murray, Steamboat Springs, Colo., 29th in 1:51.823.

Also on today's schedule are the second of three parts of the pairs ice dancing competition — in which the graceful duo of Colleen O'Connor and Jim Millins of Colorado Springs, Colo., were in third place after Wednesday's performance; the first of two parts of the pairs figure skating competition, and three Group B hockey games among teams not eligible for medals.

On a day when pro-American spirit echoed through the mountains and valleys of this middle European resort, the spectre of bloody Munich still chilled the air as a contingent of 5,000 policeman patrolled the countryside.

A tremendous roar resounded across the snow-capped mountains when the 119-member United States delegation marched into the huge outdoor stadium. Only the Austrian team drew a warmer ovation from the crowd of 65,000 to 80,000 which packed the inclines.

Injuries during Wednesday's practice runs dashed the Olympic hopes of one competitor and damaged the chances of 1972 double gold medal winner Marie-Theres Nadig of Switzerland.

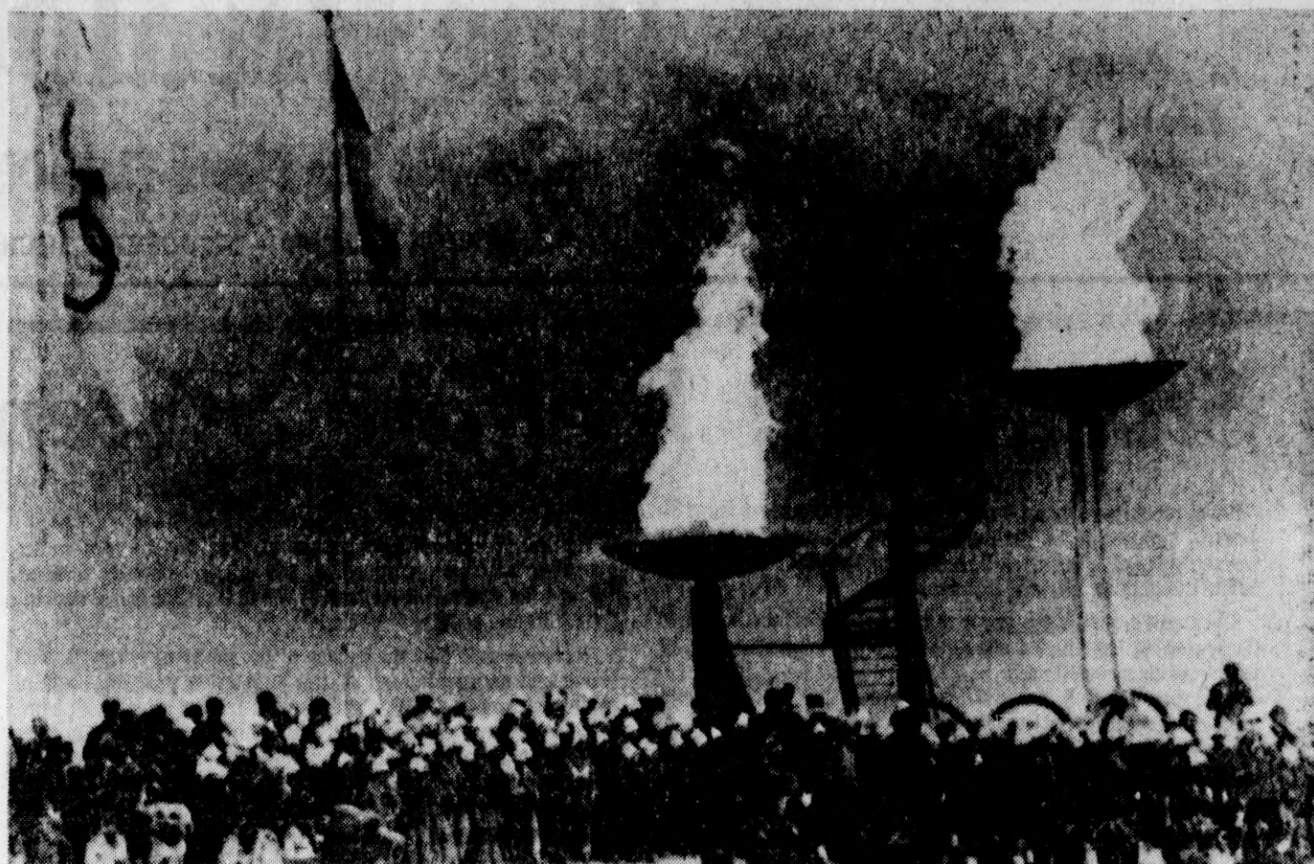

Miss Nadig reinjured a shoulder and the team doctor said the Swiss ace would not practice again but would probably compete in the women's downhill event Sunday.

Austria's Werner Grissman fell spectacularly in the men's downhill trials. His coach, Tony Sailer, said Grissman tore a knee and the team doctor said he was out for the season.

Sweden's Thomas Magnusson, the 1974 world champion in the 30-kilometer cross-country race, left the Olympics when he learned his father was killed in a car crash Wednesday. Magnusson was replaced by Christer Johansson for Thursday's competition.

Ice dancing, the newest event on the Olympic program, got off to a rousing start with Russian favorites Ludmilla Pakhomova and Aleksandr Gorshkov grabbing a big lead. The five-time world champions had the best score in each of three original sets of pattern dances.

Miss O'Connor and Millins placed third, barely trailing Russian world titlists Irina Moiseeva and Andrei Minenkov in this new Olympic event that differs from ice skating in its rigidity and its lack of spectacular spins and acrobatics.

Tigers Put Title Hopes On Line Against Grand Haven

The day of reckoning has arrived for Earl McKee's Benton Harbor Tigers.

Benton Harbor puts its Lake Michigan Athletic Conference title hopes on the line Friday night against Grand Haven at the Colfax Gym.

Having won four LMAC games in a row, the Tigers have surged into a four-way tie for first place in the league. Muskegon Catholic, Traverse City and Grand Haven all join Benton Harbor at 4-2. But if the Tigers are to have any hopes of defending their league championship, they must win Friday, declares McKee.

"We're getting right down to where things are really important," he says. This game with Grand Haven is probably going to decide who wins the LMAC.

At least it's going to decide whether we're going to be in the race or not. If we don't win Friday, our other three league games won't mean a thing."

Benton Harbor has won five of six games since the first of the year with the only loss coming last Saturday to South Bend Washington 97-92 in triple overtime. The Tigers blew a 21-point lead in the fourth quarter of that game and McKee is hopeful his team will learn from that collapse.

"We just turned that thing over," he said. "It was just one of those things. We lost 12 points in the final minute Friday night (in beating Muskegon 70-67) and 21 points in five minutes Saturday. Both times we had been playing real well to get ahead. "The whole story is going to be how well we play together, because Grand Haven is going to have it all together."

McKee plans to go with the same starting lineup which has opened the last three games. Russell Steele, who leads Benton Harbor with a 22.7 scoring average, and Leon Lewis (6.3) will go at forwards. Muscular Bennie Bowers (12.9) will handle the middle and senior Albert Watson (7.4) and junior Steve McNutt (9.0) will go in the backcourt.

Grand Haven will offer the same balanced scoring attack which was able to beat the Tigers 72-64 at Grand Haven in December. Mark Hosper, a 6-4 junior, (11.6) and Dale Kals-beck, a 6-4 senior, will go at forward. Towering 6-7 senior Paul Hosper (10.0) is in the pivot and Blair Smircina (11.0) and Kirk Schaffer (14.6) are the guards.

The Buccaneers, coached by Al Schaffer (the brother of River Valley coach Jerry Schaffer), are 12-2 overall and have not beaten Benton Harbor at the Colfax Gym since 1961 when they nipped the Tigers 65-61.

The other two teams tied for first in the LMAC title chase also battle Friday night when Muskegon Catholic Central travels to Traverse City.

Benton Harbor takes to the road Saturday night in a non-league battle against Grand Rapids Ottawa Hills.

Klammer Takes Downhill Race

INNSBRUCK (AP) — Favored Franz Klammer of Austria won the Alpine skiing downhill gold medal today at the 12th Winter Olympic Games with a time of 1 minute 45.73 seconds.

Bernhard Russi of Switzerland was second in 1:46.06 and Herbert Plank of Italy was third at 1:46.59. Landy Mill of Aspen, Colo., was the top American finisher, sixth in 1:47.06. Greg Jones of Tahoe City, Calif., was 11th in 1:47.84. Pete Patterson of Sun Valley, Idaho, was 13th in 1:47.94 and Karl Anderson of Greene, Maine, completed the United States contingent in 24th place at 1:49.08.

"I was in agony all the way down because of the pain in my injured leg," said Mill, who had crashed during a pre-Olympic practice run. "I could hardly stand it. This was too bad because the course was good for me."

All times and places were still unofficial. Klammer triumphantly raised his arms when his fastest time was announced. He was embraced by his teammates. Then thousands of Austrian fans roared.

Klammer broke his own track record by more than 10 seconds on the Alpine Patscherkofel trail. The Austrian had to come from behind to win this race because he trailed Russi in the intermediate time.

U.S. Skater Cook Faints During Olympic Opening

Miss Cook, who is paired with Billy Fawcett of Cleveland in the skating competition, became ill following the lighting of the Olympic flame. She was assisted to an ambulance, received a drink of water, then said she felt all right.

On Tuesday, she was among the most outspoken members of the U.S. team concerning the appearance of the American team's uniforms.

JAZZ ACT: New Orleans Jazz coach Butch van Breda Kolff isn't one to sit still when he doesn't like a particular call. His antics are colorful but costly as he has already piled up 12 technicals including three ejections this season totaling over $1,000 in fines. These were some of his reactions during play against Cleveland this past weekend in the Superdome. (AP Wirephoto)

Arbitrator's Ruling Upheld
Baseball's Reserve Clause Shot Down Again

NEW YORK (AP) — Will baseball's owners, with two strikes against them, come out swinging? Or will they give up their turn at bat so the real game can begin?

That's the predicament in which the sport finds itself today after the second of two umpires turned thumbs down on the owners and their interpretation of baseball's historic option clause.

On Wednesday in Kansas City, Judge John W. Oliver of U.S. District Court upheld the Dec. 23 ruling by arbitrator Peter Seitz that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents because they had played one year beyond their contractual commitments.

Seitz' ruling, which the owners sought unsuccessfully to overturn, struck down the ancient interpretation of the option clause that had kept a player with one team as long as that team desired. The new interpretation, which the owners insist would destroy the national pastime, says a player becomes a free agent, available to all 24 major league clubs after he exercises the option year of his contract.

The owners swung and missed against Seitz and didn't connect with Oliver, but another swing — an appeal of Oliver's decision — could jeopardize the 1976 baseball season.

The labor contract between the owners and the Major League Baseball Players Association expired Dec. 31.

Negotiations have been under way but fruitless. The union says that the sides will get no closer to an agreement if the owners continue taking their case to court. The owners, meanwhile, have threatened a delay in spring training if there is no signed agreement by then.

"I don't like the idea of them constantly running to court," said Marvin Miller, executive director of the players association, who insists that collective bargaining and litigation just don't mix.

"What we have here is a labor relations problem and it can only be solved in one way — at the bargaining table," Miller said. "We have to negotiate a change."

Miller said the owners are listening to the advice of their lawyers who are not versed in labor relations and have steered a steady course in the direction of the courts.

John J. Gaherin, the owners' bargaining agent and their principal labor relations expert, says his preference is for a negotiated settlement but the owners have the right to take every legal avenue open to them.

Baseball Returns To Seattle

By STEVE ELLIS
AP Sports Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — After an absence of six years, major league baseball is returning to the Pacific Northwest.

Radio executive Lester Smith and American League President Lee MacPhail hold a press conference today to reveal details of the agreement to operate an expansion franchise here in 1977.

The league was represented here by the ill-fated Seattle Pilots during the 1969 season. The Pilots went bankrupt and were sold to Milwaukee interests, touching off a bitter legal dispute that expansion now is designed to quell.

American League owners formally voted to award the franchise to Smith on Monday. He will head a group that includes his business partner, entertainer Danny Kaye, and four others.

The Smith-Kaye combine tried and failed to buy the Chicago White Sox and the San Francisco Giants before hitting a lawsuit-assisted ownership home run on expansion.

Two conditions have been placed on the deal. First, the league wants to be sure that a satisfactory lease is signed for occupancy of the King County Domes Stadium, a $60 million structure conceived as a home for the Pilots and now nearing completion.

Owners also want a lawsuit, seeking up to $32.5 million in trebled damages, dismissed in Superior Court at Everett. That suit was filed by the city, King County and the state because the Pilots were moved.

Trial of their claim that the league committed fraud, breach of contract and antitrust violations has been under way for more than three weeks. The county and city must be convinced that expansion will occur before the suit will be dropped, officials have said. Steps in that direction will not be taken until legally binding agreements are signed, they have said.

Don Kooy Gets Job Done

Leading Galien To Banner Cage Season

By JACK WALKDEN
Staff Sports Writer

GALIEN — Don Kooy is not a rah-rah, type leader on the basketball floor.

The Galien standout leads by his actions not his words.

"Don (Kooy) doesn't try to be a leader by saying you have to do this or you have to do that," Galien coach Mike Heckathorn says. "But he shows leadership because in practice he works hard and because everyone else on the team has a lot of trouble trying to stop him defensively. He comes across as a leader because he gets the job done."

And the 6-2, 185-pounder has really gotten the job done this season. The three-year starter has averaged 18.0 points and 16.2 rebounds per game to spark the Gaels to a 13-1 record and the No. 6 spot in the latest Associated Press Class D poll.

Kooy is approaching a milestone of sorts. During his Galien career, the jumping jack has scored 900 points to close in on the coveted 1,000 mark, a total achieved by only four other players in Red Arrow conference history.

"I believe he's one of the best, if not the best in the Red Arrow conference," Heckathorn says in praise of Kooy. "He's the key to what makes the Gaels go."

Kooy gets the most out of his 6-2 height by combining a deceiving speed with an amazing leaping ability. His 15-foot jump shot is almost routine now and he boasts a 55 per cent shooting mark this season.

The 17-year-old Kooy is also one of a rare breed of athlete who not only excels on the court but also in the classroom. A quiet youngster, Kooy boasts a 3.5 grade point (on a 4.0 scale) while participating not only in basketball but also in cross country and track. Kooy has already been accepted into the School of Medicine at Ferris State University but would consider an athletic career elsewhere should one be forthcoming.

"Don is an excellent student," Heckathorn said. "He wants to select a college with a program that will help him in the future. He doesn't want to attend school just to play sports."

Kooy is one of a group of four seniors who were brought up to the Galien varsity as sophomores two years ago. Of the other three, two are still regulars in guards Dale Luther and Craig Schau. The other, Mike Kuntz, has been replaced lately in the starting center spot by his brother Rick but still makes a valuable contribution off the bench.

"It just so happened that when this group were all sophomores, the classes ahead of them didn't have many basketball players," Heckathorn says. "So we were able to bring them up as a group and play them as a unit."

Luther has been the Gael who has picked up the scoring slack when Kooy was in a slump. The 5-8, 155-pound speedster has totalled 771 career points and is averaging just under 14 this year.

"The rest of the team knows that if Don cannot get the shot, we can still get a basket if we can get the ball to Dale," Heckathorn says. "He seems to be very aware of what is going on in the floor."

Luther, for much of his career, has been deadly with his 20-foot jump shots. Though he has been in a slump for the past four or five games, Luther still remains a threat from the top of the key.

"In the last few games, Dale has lost some of his own self confidence," Heckathorn says. "He's had a couple of off games in shooting. But this has happened before and he has come back. When he is on, he's awfully hard to stop."

The easy going Luther has been complemented well at the other guard by Schau, who helps to run the offense and has also added some scoring punch as of late.

"Craig has quick hands and quick feet," Heckathorn explains. "He and Dale cover up for each other on defense very well, too."

Galien, which shared the Red Arrow title with Berrien Springs last year, was expected to run away from the rest of the pack this year. But the Gaels were shot down early in a stunning loss to Watervliet. Kooy feels that loss was the best thing that could have happened to the team.

"That loss more than anything else is the difference in our season," Kooy says. "It showed everyone that we're not supermen. It proved to us that like last year we would have to work hard to win."

Only Lake Michigan Catholic has a realistic chance to catch Galien in the league race. The Gaels (8-1) hold a narrow one-half game lead over the Lakers (8-2) heading down to the wire. But the Galien schedule the rest of the way includes tough road games at Bridgman, Berrien Springs and Lake Michigan Catholic.

"Kooy and Luther have shined but I think that the good closeness as a team until the past three years has made a big difference in this group," Heckathorn says. "Two people do not make a winner. You have to have a cooperative effort."

"The upcoming games are going to be difficult with all of the road games. We're going to have a tough road ahead if we plan to win the championship."

But with Don Kooy leading the way, the Gaels may just be one step ahead of the rest of the pack.

Cross Ties National Mark

Andrea Cross of the St. Joseph Aquatics Swim Club tied a national record over the weekend at the Bulldog Swim Meet in Livonia.

Cross matched the national record and set a state record in the 50 freestyle 11 and 12 girls division with a winning time of 25.10.

She also set two other state records while winning the 200 freestyle (1:38.71) and 100 freestyle (54.83).

Andrea finished as the high point winner in her class while also winning the 50 butterfly (28.08), finishing second in the 100 individual medley, fourth in the 100 backstroke and fifth in the 100 breaststroke.

Kathy Williams added the other first for the St. Joe team in the meet where more than 50 swim clubs were represented.

Williams won the 200 breaststroke (2:34.70) in the 16-18 girls division. She also teamed with Carrie Saratone, Sherrill Saratone and Audrey Flood for a third in the 400 medley relay. And Carrie Saratone had a third in the 50 freestyle.

Meanwhile, Mike Kolenda took a second in 50 butterfly, a third in the 100 freestyle and a third in the 50 freestyle in the 11-12 boys division.

And in the 13-14 boys class, Kevin Brown, Blair Bowser, Sean Bumbrick and Chris Mowmy teamed up for a third in the 200 freestyle relay.

Glen Oaks Tips Scrappy LMC

Indian Squad Reduced To Four Players

Playing with just four players for the final four minutes, Lake Michigan College lost a heart-breaking 83-80 decision to Glen Oaks Wednesday night at the LMC Gym.

The Indians dressed just seven players for the game and lost three through various reasons during the second half. Top scorer Kerry Lee was thrown out of the game with 10 minutes left after a flagrant technical foul. LMC then lost Russ Patterson, who was playing his best game of the year, with an injury at about the eight-minute mark.

When Al Sanders fouled out with 4:06 left, the Indians were forced to go the rest of the way with just four men. Still LMC gave it a game effort and actually closed what had been a six-point visitor lead to just one with 50 seconds left.

"We even had the opportunity to go ahead," LMC coach Art Crump said. "But the pressure was too much and we didn't capitalize. I'm extremely proud of the effort, though."

We played well in the face of adversity," Crump added. "It seemed as though the odds were against us. But with each setback the team fought a little harder."

John Taylor led LMC with 18 points and nine rebounds. Ed Albert added 17 points. Patterson 13, Lee 11 and Bernie Christopher 10.

The game was decided at the free throw line where Glen Oaks, now 8-3 in the league, cashed in on 21 of 28 attempts. LMC, which fell to 3-8 in the league and 7-14 overall, received only 14 chances and hit on 10. The Indians travel Saturday to Kalamazoo Valley.

Simko Keys LMC Win

Karen Simko tossed in 20 points Wednesday night to lead Lake Michigan College's girls basketball team to a 73-48 victory over Glen Oaks at LMC.

The Indians held a 35-20 half-time lead and Simko kept the game from getting any closer in the second half by scoring 16 of her game-high points.

Deb Schmid added 17 points and Jill Clays 15 for LMC, now 2-1 in the league and 10-4 overall. Janet Kimley pulled down 12 rebounds for the winners.

Lake Michigan will travel Saturday to Kalamazoo Valley for a 5:45 p.m. contest.

Late SMC Captures 16th Straight Win

JACKSON — Coach Jim Tansey may arrange for his Southwestern Michigan College eagles to arrive late to the rest of this season's games.

The Roadrunners arrived here just half an hour before the game but it didn't take them long to warm up as SMC drubbed Jackson 86-69 in a Western Collegiate Conference battle played Wednesday night.

The win is the 16th in a row for SMC, now 18-2 on the season and league leaders at 11-0 in the conference. Jackson slipped to a 7-12 overall mark and 3-8 in the league.

Even though it got a short warm up, SMC started off by breaking the Jackson full court press with ease as the Roadrunners raced to a 61-28 halftime margin. "Usually it takes us a little while to break a press," said Tansey. "But we were passing more up the floor and it got us more layups."

"When we did set up the offense, the guards were able to get the ball in low," he added.

Buchanan center Bill Curson led the team in scoring with 29 points and he also pulled down 18 rebounds. Other SMC cagers in double figures included Wayne Balleast with 16, Bill Benke with 14, Robin Plingshaup scored 13 and Jim Powers had 12.

Jackson was led by Brian Jurasek with 24 points. Joe Boertman added 17, Clint Smith had 12 and Denny Heselwood notched 10.

The Roadrunners host Grand Rapids Junior College Saturday beginning at 7:30 p.m.

Luther, for much of his career, has been deadly with his 20-foot jump shots. Though he has been in a slump for the past four or five games, Luther still remains a threat from the top of the key.

"In the last few games, Dale has lost some of his own self confidence," Heckathorn says. "He's had a couple of off games in shooting. But this has happened before and he has come back. When he is on, he's awfully hard to stop."

The easy going Luther has been complemented well at the other guard by Schau, who helps to run the offense and has also added some scoring punch as of late.

"Craig has quick hands and quick feet," Heckathorn explains. "He and Dale cover up for each other on defense very well, too."

Galien, which shared the Red Arrow title with Berrien Springs last year, was expected to run away from the rest of the pack this year. But the Gaels were shot down early in a stunning loss to Watervliet. Kooy feels that loss was the best thing that could have happened to the team.

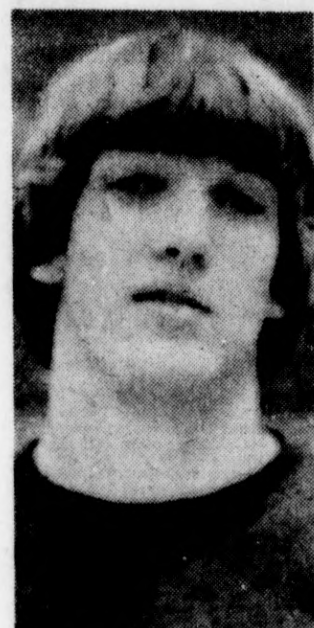

"That loss more than anything else is the difference in our season," Kooy says. "It showed everyone that we're not supermen. It proved to us that like last year we would have to work hard to win."

Only Lake Michigan Catholic has a realistic chance to catch Galien in the league race. The Gaels (8-1) hold a narrow one-half game lead over the Lakers (8-2) heading down to the wire. But the Galien schedule the rest of the way includes tough road games at Bridgman, Berrien Springs and Lake Michigan Catholic.

"Kooy and Luther have shined but I think that the good closeness as a team unit the past three years has made a big difference in this group," Heckathorn says. "Two people do not make a winner. You have to have a cooperative effort."

"The upcoming games are going to be difficult with all of the road games. We're going to have a tough road ahead if we plan to win the championship."

But with Don Kooy leading the way, the Gaels may just be one step ahead of the rest of the pack.

Hofflander Wins

SEATTLE (AP) — Dennis Hofflander of Chicago defeated Lou Russo of New York 21-0, 21-10 Sunday to win the third spot on the $50,000 professional handball circuit. The tour will resume Feb. 14-16 in Denver.

Late SMC Captures 16th Straight Win

JACKSON — Coach Jim Tansey may arrange for his Southwestern Michigan College cagers to arrive late to the rest of this season's games.

The Roadrunners arrived here just half an hour before the game but it didn't take them long to warm up as SMC drubbed Jackson 86-69 in a Western Collegiate Conference battle played Wednesday night.

The win is the 16th in a row for SMC, now 18-2 on the season and league leaders at 11-0 in the conference. Jackson slipped to a 7-12 overall mark and 3-8 in the league.

Even though it got a short warm up, SMC started off by breaking the Jackson full court press with ease as the Roadrunners raced to a 51-26 halftime margin. "Usually it takes us a little while to break a press," said Tansey. "But we were passing more up the floor and it got us more layups."

"When we did set up the offense, the guards were able to get the ball in low," he added.

Buchanan center Bill Carson led the team in scoring with 29 points and he also pulled down 18 rebounds. Other SMC cagers in double figures included Wayne Battest with 16, Bill Benko had 14, Robin Pflugshaupt scored 13 and Jim Powers had 12.

Jackson was led by Brian Jurahsek with 24 points. Joe Boertman added 17, Clint Smith had 12 and Denny Heselwordt notched 10.

February Big Month For Leader Galien

Clash With Bees Tops Arrow

February may either be a momentous or disastrous month for Galien.

The Red Arrow-leading Gaels (8-1 in the league) play five conference games this month, and four of them are on the road. Galien starts its decisive month Friday night when they travel to Bridgman (6-4). Then on Saturday, the Gaels will be at Hartford (6-9) in a make-up contest from December.

In other Friday league tilts, Lake Michigan Catholic (8-2) hosts New Buffalo (1-9). Berrien Springs (6-4) travels to Watervliet (4-6) and Hartford hosts Eau Claire (6-4).

Bridgman is the only other Red Arrow team in action Saturday as the Bees host Michigan City Marquette.

A long winning streak by the Gaels this month could provide a good springboard into the district tournaments but coach Mike Heckathorn knows his squad must get past the Bees first. "They are probably our arch-rival and I don't think either team will have trouble getting up for the game," the Gaels head coach commented.

In their first go-round, Galien came out on top 61-45 "but (Bob) Linke wasn't there (because of a turned ankle) and he will be a factor this time around," Heckathorn said.

Bridgman will be going into the game with a big height advantage under the boards. The Bees will probably go with a front line of Linke (6-5), Wolf (6-4) and Howie Mutz (6-4).

Galien will likely counter that with Don Kroy (6-2), Rick Kuntz (6-4) and Rick Busher (6-11). "We know we are going to have to keep their big people off the boards," Heckathorn said. "And if they do get inside, not to give up the second shot."

The Bees forte this season has been their inside game but Galien took it away from them in the first game. "Our game is inside," Bridgman's head coach Doug Hendricks indicated. "Last time, we probably shot outside more because they were giving us that shot."

"I would hope we play as good a defense as we did last time," he added.

Don Kroy leads the Gaels, ranked sixth in this week's Class D cage poll, with a 19.0 scoring average and Dale Luther holds a 13.7 average. Bridgman is getting 16.8 points per game from Linke and 11.2 from Wolf.

Lake Michigan Catholic is living proof that there really is no place like home. For the season, the Lakers are undefeated in eight home games but sport a dismal 2-6 record on the road. And with the recent crop of injuries "the home court is about the only advantage we will have Friday," moaned Catholic's head mentor Al Nixon.

Besides Jim Bridgman, whose broken hand will keep him out of action for another two weeks, Bill Frantz came up with an injured hip and may sit out most if not all of the Bees' contest.

Berrien Springs showed it wasn't going to play dead after its loss to Galien last week when the Shamrocks came out and blitzed Columbia Tuesday night. "I think everybody was concerned how we were going to react to the loss to Galien," head coach Connie Stover said. "We showed we weren't going to hang it up. These are some fine kids and they aren't going to quit because of a couple of losses."

BOARD BATTLE: Western Michigan's Jeff Tyson (42) and Loyola's Tad Dufelmeier (32) battle for a rebound that bounces away from both during the non-league game in Chicago Wednesday night. Tyson scored 16 points in WMU 80-73 victory. Dufelmeier had 22 for Loyola. (AP Wirephoto)

Unbeaten Broncos Win 17th Straight

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin paced undefeated Western Michigan to its 17th straight victory 80-73 over Loyola of Chicago Wednesday night in nonconference college basketball action.

Tyson had 16 points and Griffin 15 for the Broncos, who raced to an early 27-13 lead, then held off a furious second-half rally by Loyola.

The Ramblers twice cut Western's lead to one point, mainly on the hot shooting of Tad Dufelmeier, who had 20 of his game-high 22 points in the second half.

Loyola was hurt when starters Houston Lloyd and Tony Parker fouled out early in the second half. Without them, Dufelmeier and Ralph Vallot, who finished with 21 points, were Loyola's only consistent scorers.

Western hit 20 of 30 field goal attempts in the first half to take a 45-34 margin at the intermission.

Slumping Lakeshore Next For Buchanan

Bucks Try Not To Look Ahead

Buchanan coach Bill Wilson is hoping his Bucks won't be looking ahead this week.

The powerful Bucks host lowly Lakeshore this Friday night in a Blossomland mismatch, but the buildup is already starting for next Tuesday's Buchanan-Cassopolis showdown.

Buchanan, 9-0 in the Blossomland and 14-0 overall, will probably get its toughest test of the regular season against the sizzling Rangers.

Cassopolis, 7-3 in the league, is the lone legitimate contender left in the loop after Brandywine's loss to Dowagiac Tuesday night.

While the Bucks are hosting Lakeshore (2-7) Friday night, Cassopolis will try to keep pace by entertaining Coloma (2-7). In other games, Dowagiac (5-5) hosts River Valley (4-8) and Edwardsburg (1-8) goes to Brandywine (7-3).

The Bucks, rated No. 2 in the latest Class C poll, crushed the Rangers 90-58 the first time around, but Wilson downplays that wide deficit.

"That's ancient history...they didn't have Porter (Jim) and Mason (Mike) and Rosenhagen (Jim) had ankle injuries."

"I saw Lakeshore play Saturday night at St. Joe and was impressed with their first-half play. They had a little breakdown in the second half, but that was mainly due to St. Joe playing so well. I was impressed with the play of Mason, and Jager (Tom) always seems to play well against us. I'm hoping they don't pick Friday to put two halves together."

"We simply have to be concerned with Lakeshore Friday night and not worry about Cassopolis until after that."

The Bucks have four players averaging in twin figures, with Ken Garrett at 20.3, Mike Busby

13.1, Walt Vanderbush 12.4 and Gerald Busby 10.2. Garrett needs just 11 points to tie the school record of 880 career points.

Lakeshore, averaging just 52.9 points a game, will be out to snap its second-half syndrome.

"We've been no more than three points behind at the half in our last five games," noted Lancer coach Lloyd MacTavish. "But we have only one win and lost last weekend's games by 21 and 22 points."

"We're just going to try to play four quarters against Buchanan and play consistent ball. Mason is playing much better ball. But Mason and Jager have really not put super games together yet in the same game."

Jager tops Lancer scorers at 13.2, while Mason has swished

39 points in his last three games. Porter is averaging 11.3.

The Rangers, who have won five straight while averaging 80.4, should have little trouble with hapless Coloma, which has lost four in a row while giving up 85.8 points. Cass, which dumped Coloma 81-56 earlier, has racked up 105 and 106 points at home against the Cornets the last two seasons.

Gary Young tops the Cass scorers with his 16.9 average. Alvin Vanzant is at 13.2 and Kevin Loder 10.8.

The Cornets have Gregg Woodward at 17.2 and Joe Jones at 16.6.

Dowagiac, which has won three straight, has Bob Wankles averaging 15.8, while the Mustangs have Dave North at 14.1 and Greg Johnson at 13.2.

CHICAGO (AP) — Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin paced undefeated Western Michigan to its 17th straight victory 80-73 over Loyola of Chicago Wednesday night in nonconference college basketball action.

The Ramblers twice cut Western's lead to one point, mainly on the hot shooting of Tad Dufelmeier, who had 20 of his game-high 22 points in the second half.

Loyola was hurt when starters Houston Lloyd and Tony Parker fouled out early in the second half. Without them, Dufelmeier and Ralph Vallot, who finished with 21 points, were Loyola's only consistent scorers.

Western hit 20 of 30 field goal attempts in the first half to take a 45-34 margin at the intermission.

Slumping Lakeshore Next For Buchanan Bucks Try Not To Look Ahead

Buchanan coach Bill Wilson is hoping his Bucks won't be looking ahead this week.

The powerful Bucks host lowly Lakeshore this Friday night in a Blossomland mismatch, but the buildup is already starting for next Tuesday's Buchanan-Cassopolis showdown.

Buchanan, 9-0 in the Blossomland and 14-0 overall, will probably get its toughest test of the regular season against the sizzling Rangers.

Cassopolis, 7-2 in the league, is the lone legitimate contender left in the loop after Brandywine's loss to Dowagiac Tuesday night.

While the Bucks are hosting Lakeshore (2-7) Friday night, Cassopolis will try to keep pace by entertaining Coloma (2-7). In other games, Dowagiac (3-5) hosts River Valley (4-5) and Edwardsburg (1-8) goes to Brandywine (7-3).

The Bucks, rated No. 2 in the latest Class C poll, crushed the Lancers 90-58 the first time around, but Wilson downplays that wide deficit.

"That's ancient history...they didn't have Porter (Jim) and Mason (Mike) and Rosenhagen (Jim) had ankle injuries."

"I saw Lakeshore play Saturday night at St. Joe and was impressed with their first-half play. They had a little breakdown in the second half, but that was mainly due to St. Joe playing so well. I was impressed with the play of Mason, and Jager (Tom) always seems to play well against us. I'm hoping they don't pick Friday to put two halves together."

"We simply have to be concerned with Lakeshore Friday night and not worry about Cass until after that."

The Bucks have four players averaging in twin figures, with Ken Garrett at 20.3, Mike Busby

13.1, Walt Vanderbush 12.4 and Gerald Busby 10.2 Garrett needs just 11 points to tie the school record of 960 career points.

Lakeshore, averaging just 52.9 points a game, will be out to snap its second-half syndrome.

"We've been no more than three points behind at the half in our last five games," noted Lancer coach Lloyd MacTavish. "But we have only one win and lost last weekend's games by 21 and 22 points."

"We're just going to try to play four quarters against Buchanan and play consistent ball. Mason is playing much better ball. But Mason and Jager have really not put super games together yet in the same game."

39 points in his last three games. Porter is averaging 11.5.

The Rangers, who have won five straight while averaging 80.4, should have little trouble with hapless Coloma, which has lost four in a row while giving up 85.8 points. Cass, which has dumped Coloma 81-56 earlier, has racked up 105 and 106 points at home against the Comets the last two seasons.

The Comets have Gregg Woodward at 17.2 and Joe Jones at 16.6.

Dowagiac, which has won three straight, has Bob Waalkes averaging 15.6, while the Mustangs have Dave North at 14.1 and Greg Johnson at 13.2.

Colbert, Allin Leaders In Hope Classic

By DOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus sighed, happy and relieved.
"Now," he observed, "I can say my last round was a 69, not an 82."
Nicklaus, considered the greatest player of his age, shot an incredible 62 in his last previous outing, two weeks ago in Pebble Beach, Calif.
Former Masters champion Charles Coody had a 68 despite chilly temperatures and winds that gusts to 40 miles an hour and trailed the two leaders by one shot after the first 18 holes of this unique, five-day, four-course, 80-hole tournament.
Nicklaus was tied at 68 with Australian David Graham, Rik Massengale, Bill Rogers and

Bob Payne.
Nicklaus and Colbert played at Bermuda Dunes, one of four desert courses used for the first four rounds. Allin and Graham were at Indian Wells. Mason Rudolph, Mike Reasor and Gary McCord with 71s were the best at La Quinta. The 128 pros play one round on each par 72 layout before the final round Sunday at Indian Wells.
Defending champion Johnny Miller had a 71 and Arnold Palmer, a five-time winner here, shot 74, both at Bermuda Dunes.
Lee Trevino, Tom Watson and Ben Crenshaw, the winner of the last two four events, are not competing.
Milton Beaten
Milton Jucker high fell to Niles Ballard in a pair of games played at Milton Wednesday. The seventh graders were beaten 57-27 with Dave Worthington netting 19 for the losers. The eighth grade lost 20-25, Jim Mix had eight points for Milton.

AP Golf Writer
PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP) — Jack Nicklaus sighed, happy and relieved.

"Now," he observed, "I can say my last round was a 69, not an 82."

Nicklaus wiped out the unpleasant memory of his career-high round with a three-under-par effort Wednesday that left him just two shots back of leaders Jim Colbert and Buddy Allin in the first round of the marathon Bob Hope Desert Golf Classic.

Nicklaus, considered the greatest player of his age, shot an incredible 82 in his last previous outing, two weeks ago in Pebble Beach, Calif.

Former Masters champion Charles Coody had a 68 despite chilly temperatures and winds that gust to 40 miles an hour and trailed the two leaders by one shot after the first 18 holes of this unique, five-day, four-course, 90-hole tournament.

Nicklaus was tied at 69 with Australian David Graham, Rik Massengale, Bill Rogers and

Bob Payne.

Nicklaus and Colbert played at Bermuda Dunes, one of four desert courses used for the first four rounds. Allin and Graham were at Indian Wells. Mason Rudolph, Mike Reasor and Gary McCord with 71s were the best at La Quinta. The 128 pros play one round on each par 72 layout before the final round Sunday at Indian Wells.

Defending champion Johnny Miller had a 71 and Arnold Palmer, a five-time winner here, shot 74, both at Bermuda Dunes.

Milton Beaten

Milton Junior high fell to Niles Ballard in a pair of games played at Milton Wednesday. The seventh graders were beaten 57-27 with Dave Worthington netting 10 for the losers. The eighth grade lost 29-25. Jim Mix had eight points for Milton.

Islanders Bomb Sub Goalie

FROM ASSOCIATED PRESS

"I thought it would give the team a lift, but I didn't plan on using him," was Coach John Ferguson's explanation for suiting up rusty John Davidson up as the New York Rangers' back-up goaltender Wednesday night.

But Ferguson's plans went awry when starter Dunc Wilson suffered an injured thumb during a second-period brawl and exactly one month after suffering a broken leg, Davidson was pressed into action. That gave New York a lift, all right — the New York Islanders.

Davidson replaced Wilson at the start of the third period and the Islanders blasted 14 shots at him, getting goals from Denis Potvin, Clark Gillies, Jean Potvin and Jude Drouin in less than nine minutes to rally from a 4-2 deficit to a 6-5 National Hockey League victory over the Rangers.

Elsewhere, the Atlanta Flames trimmed the California Golden Seals 4-1, the Montreal Canadiens walloped the Chicago Black Hawks 8-1, the Buffalo Sabres nipped the Los Angeles Kings 4-3, the Toronto Maple Leafs and Washington Capitals tied 4-4, the St. Louis Blues and Kansas City Scouts deadlocked 3-3, while the Detroit Red Wings blanked the Minnesota North Stars 5-0.

In World Hockey Association action, the Phoenix Roadrunners trounced the Cleveland Crusaders 5-1 and the San Diego Mariners downed the Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-1.

Curt Bennett's 26th goal of the season snapped a 1-1 tie in the opening period and the Flames went on to their first victory in two weeks and only their second in 12 games.

Jacques Lemaire, Guy Lapointe and Doug Risebrough scored two goals apiece for Montreal. The Canadiens sailed the game away with a five-goal outburst in the third period, including three within 82 seconds by Lemaire, Murray Wilson and Lapointe.

Although outshooting the Caps, 41-23, Toronto needed Dave Williams' goal with 1:20 to play after blowing a 4-1 lead late in the second period.

Garry Unger's 28th goal of the season at 6:01 of the final period lifted St. Louis into a tie.

Bill Lochead and Bill Hogaboam each scored one goal and assisted on three others while Detroit goalie Jim Rutherford turned away 17 shots for his fourth shutout of the season.

John Gray and Lauri Mononen ended 10-game scoring droughts as Phoenix beat Cleveland.

Andre Lacroix scored three goals and assisted one by Gene Peacock. Paul Hultmgren scored for Minnesota at 5:17 of the third period.

UNDERFOOT: Detroit Red Wings' Bill Lochead (23) makes his way through Minnesota North Stars' goalie Cesare Maniago and defenseman Dwight Bialowas with the puck during the first period of Wednesday night's NHL game in Detroit. Lochead did not score on the play, but Detroit did win 5-0. (AP Wirephoto)

N. Carolina Drubs U-D

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Things were really jumping in Detroit. It's a shame that the University of Detroit's basketball team wasn't.

For the first time in seven years, they had a capacity crowd in the Titans' Memorial Building Wednesday night. But the hometown team couldn't match the fervor of the home-town fans and as a result, lost a 91-78 decision to fourth-ranked North Carolina.

"We have no excuses," said Detroit Coach Dick Vitale. "We were physically, mentally and emotionally ready for this game. I guess we're a year or so away from being ready for the North Carolinas, the St. Bonaventures, the Arizonas ..."

Detroit took more shots than the Atlantic Coast Conference visitors, but hit less. The Titans also played less defense than the Tar Heels did.

The game was a homecoming

for North Carolina's Tom LaGarde, a former Detroit prep star. He rose to the occasion, scoring 21 points and collecting 10 rebounds.

Elsewhere in college basketball, fifth-ranked Maryland whipped Virginia 69-66; No. 11 Notre Dame walloped LaSalle 108-88; Georgetown upset No. 12 St. John's 74-73 in overtime; Kansas State stunned No. 13 Missouri -83-81; 18th-ranked Cincinnati trimmed Pitt 89-77 and No. 17 Western Michigan beat Loyola of Chicago 86-73.

Some 9,500 spectators at Detroit's Memorial Building saw the Titans take 11 more shots than the Tar Heels in the first half but hit only 33 per cent. Yet the Titans managed to stay close, 38-31, at the half and it wasn't until midway through the second half that North Carolina pulled away. Mitch Kupchak, a 6-foot-10, 230-pound senior, scored 15 points in each half, while the 6-10 junior LaGarde had 18 of his points after intermission for Carolina. Brad Davis' two free throws with three seconds left sealed Maryland's victory over Virginia. Two foul shots by Mo Howard with 17 seconds remaining had given the Terps a 67-64 lead, but Bobby Stokes' tip-in basket pulled the Cavaliers within one point. Virginia then called a timeout but was called for a technical foul for taking too many timeouts.

Adrian Dantley scored 41 points to lead Notre Dame past LaSalle. Derrick Jackson had 23 points and hit a 17-foot jumper with 1:10 to play in overtime, leading Georgetown over St. John's. Chuckie Williams and Mike Evans combined for 32 points as Kansas State stopped Missouri. Cincinnati beat Pitt behind Robert Miller's 21 points and Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin led Western Michigan's victory.

Ford Leaves IHL's Mohawks

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Gary Ford, the leading scorer for the Muskegon Mohawks' International Hockey League squad, told the team Wednesday he is quitting.

Ford, 28, a veteran of nine years with the club, told a reporter later he had decided to retire. Ford had 47 points this season with 16 goals and 32 assists. He holds almost every Muskegon scoring record.

Manager Morris "Moose" Lallo would say only that Ford, a native of Toronto, has been suspended for his actions. Ford said he has no plans for the future and must seek another job.

Michigan Entries Top Race Field

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — Michigan contestants topped the field of 54 qualifiers for Saturday's International 500 snowmobile race.

Gene Denman of Acme set

Tuesday's pace with an average speed of 77.71 miles per hour aboard his Yamaha. Buddy Webber of Sault Ste. Marie, winner of last year's race, was second in the qualifying. Others among the top five qualifiers were Randy Dewitt of Rudyard, Ken Hunt of Lansing, and Francis Mayer, also of Rudyard.

N. Carolina Drubs U-D

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Things were really jumping in Detroit. It's a shame that the University of Detroit's basketball team wasn't.

For the first time in seven years, they had a capacity crowd in the Titans' Memorial Building Wednesday night. But the hometown team couldn't match the fervor of the hometown fans and as a result, lost a 91-76 decision to fourth-ranked North Carolina.

"We have no excuses," said Detroit Coach Dick Vitale. "We were physically, mentally and emotionally ready for this game. I guess we're a year or so away from being ready for the North Carolinas, the St. Bonaventures, the Arizonas ...."

Detroit took more shots than the Atlantic Coast Conference visitors, but hit less. The Titans also played less defense than the Tar Heels did.

The game was a homecoming

for North Carolina's Tom LaGarde, a former Detroit prep star. He rose to the occasion, scoring 21 points and collecting 10 rebounds.

Elsewhere in college basketball, fifth-ranked Maryland whipped Virginia 69-66; No. 11 Notre Dame walloped LaSalle 108-89; Georgetown upset No. 12 St. John's 74-73 in overtime; Kansas State stunned No. 13 Missouri 85-81; 16th-ranked Cincinnati trimmed Pitt 89-77 and No. 17 Western Michigan beat Loyola of Chicago 80-73.

Some 9,500 spectators at Detroit's Memorial Building saw the Titans take 11 more shots than the Tar Heels in the first half but hit only 33 per cent.

Yet the Titans managed to stay close, 38-31, at the half and it wasn't until midway through the second half that North Carolina pulled away. Mitch Kupchak, a 6-foot-10, 230-pound senior, scored 13 points in each half, while the 6-10 junior LaGarde had 16 of his points after intermission for Carolina.

Brad Davis' two free throws with three seconds left sealed Maryland's victory over Virginia. Two foul shots by Mo Howard with 17 seconds remaining had given the Terps a 67-64 lead, but Bobby Stokes' tip-in basket pulled the Cavaliers within one point. Virginia then called a timeout but was called for a technical foul for taking too many timeouts.

Adrian Dantley scored 41 points to lead Notre Dame past LaSalle; Derrick Jackson had 23 points and hit a 17-foot jumper with 1:10 to play in overtime, leading Georgetown over St. John's; Chuckie Williams and Mike Evans combined for 32 points as Kansas State stopped Missouri; Cincinnati beat Pitt behind Robert Miller's 21 points and Jeff Tyson and Paul Griffin led Western Michigan's victory.

Ford Leaves IHL's Mohawks

MUSKEGON, Mich. (AP) — Gary Ford, the leading scorer for the Muskegon Mohawks' International Hockey League squad, told the team Wednesday he is quitting.

Ford, 29, a veteran of nine years with the club, told a reporter later he had decided to retire. Ford had 47 points this season with 15 goals and 32 assists. He holds almost every Muskegon scoring record.

Manager Morris "Moose" Lallo would say only that Ford, a native of Toronto, has been suspended for his actions. Ford said he has no plans for the future and must seek another job.

Niles Firm Asks Plant Tax Break

NILES — Niles city council will hold a public hearing Monday, Feb. 9, on what could be the first step in an eventual tax break on an expansion project by Toefco Engineering, Inc., of Niles.

The firm is asking that its $180,000 to $283,000, 6,000 square-foot plant addition site be declared an industrial development district, according to J.S. Tjaden, general manager for Toefco. The addition is already under construction, he said.

Toefco coats a variety of industrial products, ranging from automotive parts to military hardware, with vinyl, Tjaden said.

The addition site must first be declared an industrial development district before it can receive an industrial facilities exemption certificate, and thus a tax break, according to C.A. Schrenk, Berrien county economic development director.

Schrenk said that if the city, and later the state, approve granting the certificate, Toefco will receive a 50 per cent tax break on the project's costs for the next 12 years.

Tjaden said the plant currently employs 12, and will employ an additional 12 people in the next two years.

The varied estimated construction costs ($180,000 to $283,000) are due to uncertain expansion plans by Toefco, Tjaden said. He said the firm plans to add at least one conveyor coating line and could add others in the next three years. Toefco is applying for the maximum on the certificate so that it could receive a maximum tax break if all plans are completed, he added.

Niles Sergeant Named To Elite Parachute Unit

FT. BRAGG, N.C. — Army Staff Sergeant Frederick J.B. Lindenfeld of Niles has been accepted as a member of the Golden Knights, the Army's aerial demonstration parachute team. Lindenfeld is the son of Dr. Frederick Lindenfeld of Niles.

Lindenfeld, 24, was accepted into the precision paratrooper jump team last November, and is now preparing for a worldwide tour with the group beginning in March to honor the Bicentennial.

A 1969 graduate of Niles high school, Lindenfeld entered the Army in 1971 and has completed non-commissioned officers' training school, Ranger and airborne training, and five phases of Special Forces (Green Beret) training.

The 56 members of the Golden Knights perform more than 150 exhibitions of aerial acrobatics and precision free-fall techniques annually throughout the world, and the team holds 96 of 128 world parachute records, according to an Army spokesman.

School Team Studies BH IGE Program

Seven Benton Harbor district elementary schools, which have used Individual Guided Education programs (IGE) for four years, are being evaluated to determine strengths and weaknesses in the programs, according to Harry Stephens, acting assistant superintendent for elementary education.

The seven schools under observation are Fairplain West, Martin Luther King, Calvin Brittain, Columbus, Seely McCord, North Shore and Lafayette. Benton Harbor schools follow an IGE program outlined by the Institute for Development of Educational Activities, Inc. (IDEA), a division of the Kettering Foundation, several years ago. Niles also uses IGE in some schools.

Sometime this month, the board of education will receive results from a recent visit by an evaluation team of educators with membership from other Michigan school districts, the Michigan Department of Education, and Alma College, and Kettering Foundation. Benton Harbor teachers and administrators completed the team roster. The team spent a week in January visiting IGE schools to observe teachers in action, monitor how well the IGE plan was being used, and talk with both teachers and students about their reactions to the non-traditional school.

Earlier, parents were given the opportunity to participate in the evaluation process by completing detailed questionnaires sent home by the school staffs. The survey results will become part of the report to the board.

Stephens explained IGE is "designed to meet the individual needs of children by considering each child's rate of learning." Teachers, working in a team, provide an instructional program that allows continuous progress in learning, according to mastery of the subject matter, rather than advancement through more traditional grades. Students and teachers belong to units in the schools, and may work with other classmates both younger and older than themselves, Stephens said.

Ted Morris is facilitator for the seven schools. In a pre-evaluation presentation to the board, he explained why the IGE schools want to be evaluated. "Our basic feeling is we begin our fifth year of operation is that it is time to have the fresh perspective of outside experts, as well as trained employees on our own staff, examining our program."

Court Order Is In Effect

DETROIT (AP) — The court order blocking new admissions to the Wayne County Jail went into effect today with extra inmates to be lodged in the Detroit House of Corrections (Deho).

A three-judge panel had ordered Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas to stop admissions to the jail as of 12:01 a.m. today because, the panel said, the jail is overcrowded.

Serving on the Evaluation Team are Chairman, Sister Evelyn Piche, Detroit Catholic Schools; Dr. Nat Burkle, Grand Rapids public schools; Dr. Don Scholtz, Alma College; Sandra Negley, Niles Community Schools; Dr. Jon Kinghorn, IDEA; Paul Foss, Dowagiac Union schools; Warren Anthony, Niles Community Schools; and Muriel Van Patten, Michigan Department of Education.

Also serving from the Benton Harbor Area schools: Sue Shuler, teacher, Calvin Brittain; Yvonne Chapman, principal, Columbus; Larry Miller, teacher, Columbus; Arnold Fege, coordinator of audio-visual and instructional materials; John Watson, principal, Calvin Brittain, and Stephens.

Dowagiac Annexation Is Approved

DOWAGIAC — The state boundary commission has notified Dowagiac officials that barring a circuit court appeal the annexation of about five acres on the west side of Dowagiac will become effective March 29.

Dowagiac City Manager Henry Graper, Jr. said yesterday the tract is located on M-51 south and consists of all of the land owned by the Valli-Land store and all of the land owned by the Bob Howe Ford and Mercury dealership.

The annexations have been underway for the past two and one-half years and have been protested by the townships of Pokagon and Silver Creek which stand to lose the property from their tax rolls.

If the annexations become effective, the change will mean that city police instead of Cass sheriff's deputies will assume primary law enforcement jurisdiction.

Intelligence Panel Nears End

MICHIGAN MARKETBASKET SURVEY

Food Prices Up Slightly In January

By JUDITH RUSKIN
Associated Press Writer

A trip to the grocery store cost more last month, thanks to a rise in prices that wiped out a slight price decline in December, the AP Marketbasket survey shows.

The total cost of the 15 marketbasket items was $14.66 — a six-cent increase over December. The December total was down two cents from the $14.62 posted in November.

The January total was the highest since December 1974, when the marketbasket came to $14.99. The record high in the survey's 17-month history was $15.06 in November 1974.

Many items which had dropped in price over the past few months, cost more in January. And several items that have increased steadily from month to month continued to do so.

There were, however, some exceptions. Butter, which reached a record high of $1.27 a pound in December, dropped to

Eggs cost four cents less last month at an average 89 cents a dozen. The price of eggs had risen steadily since last May.

The price of coffee set a record high for the sixth month in a row, at $1.56 a pound, a penny over the December price. A statewide high was set in St. Joseph, where coffee was $1.65 a pound.

A record high also was set for detergent, which averaged $1.26 for a 40-ounce box. The price was up two cents from December.

Pork chops, which have dropped in price steadily since hitting a high of $2.14 a pound last September, were up 14 cents last month to an average $2.03. Frankfurters, which dropped steadily since a high of $1.36 last October, were $1.31 in January, a three-cent increase over December.

Five pounds of sugar was up five cents last month, after reaching a record low in December at $1.15. Hamburger was up three cents to an average $1.12 in January, while milk increased one cent to 48 cents.

Frozen orange juice was up two cents a can at 30 cents, as were paper towels at 78 cents. Peanut butter was down one cent at 88 cents, and a bag of chocolate chip cookies dropped six cents to 81 cents.

Four of the five marketbasket cities posted increases in their monthly prices during January.

St. Joseph registered the largest increase, up 83 cents to $14.90. Park chops, orange juice, hot dogs and sugar all increased substantially during the past month.

Mount Clemens increased 52 cents to $14.36. Pontiac was up 18 cents to $13.48 and Detroit jumped 40 cents to $14.61.

Decreases in the price of hamburger and butter caused Grand Rapids to drop 51 cents last month to $14.48. Lansing fell 35 cents to $15.02, while Flint was down 14 cents at $14.67.

Gaylord totaled $14.66, a drop of four cents, and Marquette at $14.19 was down six cents.

Here are the statewide averages for the 15 grocery items which comprise the AP Marketbasket for December and January:

1. One pound chopped chuck: Dec. $1.08, Jan. $1.12.
2. One pound center-cut pork chops: $1.91, $2.03.
3. Six-ounce frozen orange juice: 28 cents, 30 cents.
4. One pound coffee: $1.53, $1.56.
5. Two rolls paper towels: 78 cents, 78 cents.
6. Dozen medium eggs: 89 cents, 85 cents.
7. One pound butter, quartered: $1.27, $1.12.
8. 49-ounce laundry detergent: $1.24, $1.26.
9. Fabric softener, size varies: 81 cents, 83 cents.
10. 12-ounce peanut butter: 89 cents, 66 cents.
11. Eight-ounce tomato sauce: 20 cents, unchanged.
12. 14½-ounce chocolate chip cookies: 87 cents, 81 cents.

13. One quart milk: 48 cents, 49 cents.

14. One pound all-beef frank: $1.28, $1.31.

15. Five pounds sugar: $1.15, $1.20.

Radiology Service To Be Expanded

WATERVLIET — The radiology department of Watervliet Community hospital's proposed new facility will contain three x-ray rooms, 12 dressing rooms, storage areas, plus an outpatient waiting area and lounge, according to Howard Parker, hospital administrator.

The radiology department is just one department that will be improved when the new hospital is built.

Last year, Watervliet Community hospital's radiology department performed nearly 10,000 x-ray procedures, more than double the amount 10 years ago.

John Hunt, chief x-ray technician at the hospital together with his associates, all registered technicians, work on a call basis throughout the week and on weekends when not actually at the hospital.

Space at the hospital is tight, however, a situation which will be eliminated when the new hospital is completed, according to Parker. Parker said the hospital's area fund drive goal of $750,000 currently stands at approximately $160,000. He said the bulk of donations and pledges have thus far come from people who work at the hospital, but a major community-wide effort is just getting started.

$1.12 last month. From May to December of last year, the average price for a pound of butter increased 41 cents.

Eggs cost four cents less last month at an average 85 cents a dozen. The price of eggs had risen steadily since last May.

The price of coffee set a record high for the sixth month in a row, at $1.56 a pound, a penny over the December price. A statewide high was set in St. Joseph, where coffee was $1.85 a pound.

Kentucky Ready To Attack Birds

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — A helicopter loaded with a chemical decontaminant stood ready today to launch an assault on a huge roost of blackbirds plaguing farmers and threatening health in Western Kentucky.

A final decision on when to begin the extermination program rested mainly with the weather.

He said the U.S. commissioner of education has designated February as Black American History month.

AMC Eyes California

SOUTHFIELD (AP) — American Motors Corp. says it hopes it can soon resume selling 1976 cars in California equipped with V-8 engines following an embarrassing and costly ruling that the cars emit too much pollution. Chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. told stockholders at AMC's annual shareholders meeting in this Detroit suburb that two 1976-model cars with 304-cubic-inch V-8 engines were submitted to the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's pollution test laboratory last week and were approved after 4,000-mile tests. Chapin said the EPA and supplemental data was being prepared for delivery later this week to the California Air Resources Board.

Market Drops Off Peak

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market slid off the most recent peak in this year's rally today with mixed prices emerging from early active trading.

Although the Dow Jones Average of 30 industrial stocks was off more than a point, advancing stocks held a slight edge on those declining among issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

Early prices included Kerr-McGee, off 2 at 73; and Digital Equipment, down 2 to 161 1/2.

On Wednesday, the Dow Jones average rose 4.01 to 976.62, its highest close since it finished at 984.00 on Oct. 29, 1973.

Stocks gaining in price led those declining by more than a 5-2 margin among NYSE-listed issues, and the exchange's index added .44 to 54.24.

Volume reached 39.27 million shares on the Big Board, the third largest day on record.

The market value index of the American Stock Exchange rose 1.28 to 98.32.

Dow Notes Increased Earnings

MIDLAND, Mich. (AP) — Dow Chemical Co. earned $616 million or $6.65 per share in 1975, the firm said Wednesday, up $59 million from 1974.

The earnings, up from $557 million and $6.03 per share in 1974, came on sales of $4.89 billion, down 1 per cent from sales in 1974, when they hit $4.94 billion.

For the fourth quarter, Dow said it earned $166 million or $1.80 per share compared with $124 million and $1.35 per share in 1974's final period. Sales in the period were $1.28 billion, up 2 per cent from 1974's comparable level of $1.25 billion.

G.J. Williams, financial vice president, said the firm met its goal of a 10 per cent earnings increase "despite a difficult economic climate."

"The sharp contrast between a year ago and today confirms my feeling that 1976 will be a good year," he said.

Williams said Dow U.S.A. and Dow Europe both had good gains in the final three months of 1975.

The '76 Campaign and Social Security

Our Social Security system is almost certain to be the target of hot campaign oratory as 1976's election nears. For your own peace of mind, examine now — in advance of any "panic" criticisms — the statements that may be made and what they might mean to the one out of seven of you currently receiving a monthly check and the 100 million workers who will be joining the benefit rolls in the future.

Beyond question, there are cruel inequities in the Social Security law today — for instance, provisions that discriminate against women and the dependents of women workers, other provisions that penalize older people who work. On top of these are the financing problems analyzed in this week's columns which Congress must tackle and solve to keep this basic program up to date and effective.

Mine are fair, objective criticisms, neither inviting panic nor insisting that all is in perfect order. But during this campaign, you are likely to hear vicious attacks on the system and proposals that if adopted, could severely damage a program in which every one of us has a vital stake.

"Let's make Social Security voluntary" may be one suggestion (already in the headlines). "If a person doesn't want to participate in the program, let him use the money he otherwise would pay in Social Security taxes to invest as he wishes... in stocks, bonds, or in private insurance policies."

This proposal may be followed by a claim that the return on such investments would be better than the worker will get under Social Security.

Sound appealing? If so, make no mistake about it: the end result of that suggestion would be the death of our Social Security system, the abandonment of the program's fundamental purpose — to provide a floor of protection for all our citizens and prevent poverty before it occurs.

Even with the best of intentions, millions of you simply would not set aside money regularly particularly if you are a low-income worker or have a growing family. When you reached your older years, became disabled or died, you or your survivors would be forced onto the welfare rolls, with your payments financed out of general federal revenues and state and local taxes. The cost to taxpayers would still be there, but the worker would not have contributed.

You or your survivors would be supported as public charges with all the loss of personal dignity that implies.

Other millions of you would more or less faithfully invest what you would have paid in SS taxes. But you would not find a private insurance policy providing the comprehensive package of protection you now get from Social Security: retirement insurance, disability insurance, life insurance, health insurance for your older years. Even if you were able to put such a package together, it would cost far more than what you pay in SS taxes.

Few of you would be astute (or lucky) enough to create an investment portfolio that would give you the same return as Social Security. Most of you would end up short of your goal or wiped out.

What's more, those most likely to opt out of the system would be the relatively young and healthy. Older or high-risk people would stay in — to receive a disproportionately high return on their contributions. The costs of the shadow program remaining would rise rapidly — compelling higher taxes or a cut in benefits.

A variation of the "voluntary" concept that surfaced recently would require employers to give workers a raise in pay equivalent to the payroll tax the employer now pays. The workers then would be required to put 10 per cent of their income, or $2,500 a year, whichever is less, into "retirement bonds." The bonds could be used for investments outside the system or a private insurance policy.

The candidate who praised this proposal apparently did not see any contradiction between making the system "voluntary" and then forcing people to invest a specified portion of their income in "retirement bonds." Nor did he say how we would get disability or Medicare protection. Nor did he suggest how benefits to those on SS benefit rolls now would be financed.

Snow Slows Power Firm Metermen

JACKSON — More customers than usual will receive estimated gas and electric bills this month, W. A. Holtgreive, manager of Consumers Power Company's Kalamazoo division, said Wednesday.

"I don't have to remind anyone how much snow we have had and how deep it has piled up," Holtgreive said. "One result of this unusual amount of snow is that our meter readers find it harder to complete their routes."

"There are about 350 meter readers employed by Consumers Power Company statewide, and in our division, we have 21 readers," Holtgreive said.

"The accumulation of snow and the fact that it has not melted as much as normal adds to other meter reader problems, such as unfriendly pets, the occupant of the residence not being home, and locked gates or fences in the case of some homes."

"Our policy is to read every meter every month," Holtgreive said. "But when it is impossible to read the meter, the company estimates the bill based on an 18-month history of the customer's usage and weather data based on 18 months of actual daily temperatures."

These records show the company the customer's pattern of use, and a modern computer system calculates a billing estimate with a high degree of accuracy, he added. "For customers who receive estimated bills this month, EE or GE will be printed at the bottom of the Service Code column. It should be noted that this estimate will be adjusted after the next actual meter reading, so that the customer will not pay for more — or less — energy than actually used," Holtgreive said.

Galien Sewer May Get Fund Hike

NEW BUFFALO — Members of the Galien river sanitary sewer board got some bad news and some good news last night from one of the engineering firms working on the proposed $20 million sewer construction project.

Steve Pierpoint, a spokesman for the Benton Harbor based engineering firm of R.W. Pyrie & Associates, said it appears cost of the treatment plant and collection system will be higher than expected.

But the good news, he said, is that it is anticipated that there will be additional federal funds to assume the increased cost of the system to serve New Buffalo and Chikaming townships and the city of New Buffalo.

How much more the project is going to cost won't be known until construction bids are opened March 2, at the Berrien county courthouse, he added.

Cost of the system most recently has been put at an estimated $20 million, almost $8 million more than estimated in early 1975 and more than double the $8 million price tag put on the project when it was first proposed 10 years ago.

His comments were made during the sewer board meeting at New Buffalo township hall last night.

In other areas, the board ordered engineers to try and obtain a federal grant to finance video taping of some of the 50 miles of sewer line construction through New Buffalo and Chikaming townships.

Board members said audio-video taping of certain construction phases could be used to protect both property owners and contractors from liability during construction.

Joseph Svehla, a member of the sewer board and New Buffalo township supervisor, said there is also a need to obtain a flood zone variance for the land on which the treatment plant will be located in New Buffalo township.

Svehla said the land is located in the township's federal flood insurance coverage area.

Engineers said the plant will be on elevation to preclude any flooding threats.

Eau Claire Asks $9,000 Park Grant

EAU CLAIRE — The Greater Eau Claire Recreation commission voted last night to apply for a $9,000 state grant as part of an $18,000 project for parks improvements in the village.

Elizabeth and Lions parks in the village would get improvements, and a softball diamond with parking would be built, according to a project plan to be submitted with the grant application to the state's Department of Natural Resources.

The commission would have to apply $9,000 in local money along with the $9,000 grant if the grant is approved, commission officials said.

In other areas, the commission voted to post a sign outlining rules and regulations for the use of the tennis courts at the middle school and said the fire department will try again to flood the courts for ice skating.

INSURANCE MURDER CASE

Key Witness Changes Testimony

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The convicted murderer of a mother and her young son in an insurance scheme case repudiated earlier testimony yesterday when he appeared as a witness at the trial of another defendant in the case, Johnny Dorich.

Terry Young Langford said on the witness stand in Berrien circuit court yesterday that he did not know either of the two victims and that he did not know Dorich.

The prosecution alleges that Dorich hired Langford to kill Brenda Freeman and her son, Johnny, identified as Dorich's illegitimate son.

Langford's testimony yesterday, repudiated testimony he gave in district court during a preliminary examination for Dorich on the double-murder charges. Langford at that time said Dorich hired him to kill the Freemans for insurance on the boy.

Langford's testimony came during the sixth day of trial in Berrien Circuit court for Dorich, 27, of Benton township, who faces two counts of first degree murder in connection with the Freeman slayings.

The shotgun-riddled bodies of Mrs. Freeman, 28, and Johnny, 7, were found Sept. 27, 1974, in a ditch off Black Lake road in Pipestone township. Trial testimony has set the date of their deaths as Sept. 17 or 18.

Langford, already sentenced to life imprisonment by Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns, who called him a "professional killer" in connection with the Freeman murders, took the stand and gave his name, age as 24, and address as Jackson (the location of state prison).

Then Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell asked: "Do you know the defendant in this case, Johnny Dorich?"

"No," Langford replied calmly.

"Do you know Brenda and Johnny Freeman?" McDowell queried.

"No," said Langford.

Langford, wearing a white sportcoat, checked slacks, and a short Afro haircut parted down the middle, was on the witness stand for less than half an hour, and was not questioned at all by Defense Atty. Harry Creager.

Langford testified he was released from Jackson prison on Aug. 12, 1974, and did not come to Benton Harbor until November, 1974.

"Do you know of Black Lake?" McDowell asked.

"Sure. I played in that area as a child," Langford said.

"Do you know of Black Lake road?"

"I've heard of it," said Langford.

"When was the last time you went there?"

"Quite a few years ago," came the response.

In response to other questions from McDowell, Langford said he could not remember where he lived or what he did on Sept. 17, 18, or 19, 1974.

Dorich, a former salesman for Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., was the beneficiary on the boy's insurance policy. Johnny Freeman was Dorich's illegitimate son, other testimony revealed.

With the jury outside the courtroom, McDowell noted Langford "reneged" on his previous testimony, and charged: "The witness is attempting to perpetrate fraud before this court."

He asked that Judge Julian Hughes allow the district court testimony to be read in front of the jury to allow jurors to decide for themselves which of Langford's testimony is the truth.

But Creager immediately objected, saying the prosecution did not ask the specific questions necessary to allow the admission of the prior testimony.

Hughes adjourned court, saying he would rule today on whether to allow the previous testimony, which the prosecution contends is crucial to the case.

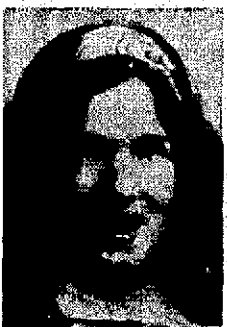

The only other witness yesterday, Maylin King, a former boyfriend of Mrs. Freeman, testified he was with her in her apartment the afternoon of Sept. 17 when she called Dorich. He said he listened to the conversation on another telephone and heard her ask Dorich for money for school clothes for the boy.

He said Dorich responded he was short of money, and when she continued to ask for money, Dorich said he would get back to her later that day. King said he went back to the Freeman apartment about 1 a.m. on Sept. 18 and found both Mrs. Freeman and her son gone. He said he never saw them again.

Sawyerite Faces Assault Charge

Meredy, 20, of 116 Eden, both of Benton Harbor, and Calvin H. Segall, 22, of 1291 Blossom lane, Benton township, each $51; William R. Beaulieu, 22, of Chesterton, Ind., $50.

Tampering with an auto — Willie L. Green, 28, of 51st street, Grand Junction, and Sirvanecus L. Kellum, 27, of 68th street, South Haven, each $100.

Also sentenced was Frederick M. Harper, 21, of 330 Walnut, Benton Harbor, three days in jail and $90 for driving while license suspended Jan. 28 in Benton township.

INDIANA TEEN ASKS HEARING

A La Porte, Ind., teenager demanded preliminary examination in Berrien Fifth District court yesterday on a charge of negligent homicide in connection with an October fatal crash.

David L. Smith, 17, of La Porte, is charged in connection with a two-truck crash Oct. 3 on La Porte road, New Buffalo township. Killed in the crash was Lyle Cheney, Jr., 18, of Knox, Ind.

Cheney was a passenger in a van-type truck that struck a pickup, allegedly driven by Smith, which had pulled into the path of the van, police said. Five people from the two vehicles sustained injuries, police reported.

Asst. Prosecutor Paul Maloney said that charges come four months after the crash because police needed more time than usual to interview witnesses, all of whom are from Indiana. Smith was freed on $500 bond.

Weesaw Hears Report On Taxes

NEW TROY — Weesaw township Treasurer Frank Kramer told the township board last night he had collected a little more than 30 per cent of 1973 property taxes so far.

Kramer said he had collected approximately $200,000 and had another $300,000 still outstanding. The deadline for paying taxes is Saturday, Feb. 26, he said.

He said he would be at the township hall in New Troy on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to collect taxes.

Township residents can also pay taxes at his home on weekdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., he said. Kramer lives on Sawyer road, just west of California avenue.

In other areas, board members noted that a veterinarian was to be at the township hall Feb. 7 from 2 to 5 p.m. so that residents can have their dogs vaccinated and then purchase 1978 dog licenses.

The board instructed Clerk John Payne to advertise for bids on a new fire truck chassis which will replace the township's oldest fire truck. Bids are to be opened Feb. 19.

Kramer said the board would seek bids on a tank and pumper for the chassis after the board determines what make chassis it will purchase.

Harold Hanover was given the job of removing snow from around the township hall at a price of $11 per job.

ed down with equipment and very capable men, volunteers who rushed to do their job bravely and well. They kept their heads close to losing theirs, and they not only put out the fire efficiently, but saved as much of our property as they could and made sure we were not hurt in any way.

If the fire department hadn't been so quick, all of us would have lost everything we own — special things that make up such a large part of our lives and can never be replaced. We owe those firemen our happiness, and the only way I can think of to repay them is by writing this letter to tell other people of their good work.

I'd also like to give a special thanks to Charles Carpp, 18-year old son of fireman Robert Carpp (also a former fire chief) for his courageous and quick thinking. Because he was trained in the proper use and operation of a fire extinguisher, he was able to begin the work that the firemen later finished. He deserves all the praise we can give him — he and his mother, Mrs. Mary Carpp, who called the sheriff's department while her son was helping us.

I'm writing this, an hour after the fire, sitting in my favorite chair. I'm safe, and so is the rest of my family. But, best of all, our house is safe.

Lawrence Fire Department, thank you! You all did a far-out job and we're so very grateful.

INSURANCE MURDER CASE

Key Witness Changes Testimony

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

The convicted murderer of a mother and her young son in an insurance scheme case repudiated earlier testimony yesterday when he appeared as a witness at the trial of another defendant in the case, Johnny Dortch.

Terry Young Langford said on the witness stand in Berrien circuit court yesterday that he did not know either of the two victims and that he did not know Dortch.

Langford's testimony yesterday repudiated testimony he gave in district court during a preliminary examination for Dortch on the double-murder charges. Langford at that time said Dortch hired him to kill the Freemans for insurance on the boy.

Langford's testimony came during the sixth day of trial in Berrien Circuit court for Dortch, 27, of Benton township, who faces two counts of first degree murder in connection with the Freeman slayings.

The shotgun-riddled bodies of Mrs. Freeman, 26, and Johnny, 7, were found Sept. 27, 1974, in a ditch off Black Lake road in Pipestone township. Trial testimony has set the date of their deaths as Sept. 17 or 18.

Langford, already sentenced to life imprisonment by Circuit Judge Chester J. Byrns, who called him a "professional killer" in connection with the Freeman murders, took the stand and gave his name, age as 24, and address as Jackson (the location of state prison).

Then Chief Asst. Prosecutor Robert U. McDowell asked: "Do you know the defendant in this case, Johnny Dortch?"

"No," Langford replied calmly.

"Do you know Brenda and Johnny Freeman?" McDowell queried.

"No," said Langford.

Langford, wearing a white sportcoat, checked slacks, and a short Afro haircut parted down the middle, was on the witness stand for less than half an hour, and was not questioned at all by Defense Atty. Harry Creager.

Langford testified he was released from Jackson prison on Aug. 12, 1974, and did not come to Benton Harbor until November, 1974.

"Do you know of Black Lake?" McDowell asked.

"Sure, I played in that area as a child," Langford said.

"Do you know of Black Lake road?"

"I've heard of it," said Langford.

"When was the last time you went there?"

"Quite a few years ago," came the response.

In response to other questions from McDowell, Langford said he could not remember where he lived or what he did on Sept. 17, 18, or 19, 1974.

Dortch, a former salesman for Western & Southern Life Insurance Co., was the beneficiary on the boy's insurance policy. Johnny Freeman was Dortch's illegitimate son, other testimony revealed.

With the jury outside the courtroom, McDowell noted Langford "reneged" on his previous testimony, and charged: "The witness is attempting to perpetrate fraud before this court."

He asked that Judge Julian Hughes allow the district court testimony to be read in front of the jury to allow jurors to decide for themselves which of Langford's testimony is the truth.

But Creager immediately objected, saying the prosecution did not ask the specific questions necessary to allow the admission of the prior testimony.

Hughes adjourned court, saying he would rule today on whether to allow the previous testimony, which the prosecution contends is crucial to the case.

The only other witness yesterday, Maylo King, a former boyfriend of Mrs. Freeman, testified he was with her in her apartment the afternoon of Sept. 17 when she called Dortch. He said he listened to the conversation on another telephone and heard her ask Dortch for money for school clothes for the boy.

He said Dortch responded he was short of money, and when she continued to ask for money, Dortch said he would get back to her later that day. King said he went back to the Freeman apartment about 1 a.m. on Sept. 18 and found both Mrs. Freeman and her son gone. He said he never saw them again.

Electronic Equipment Is Stolen

NEW BUFFALO — James Wasso, 231 East Buffalo street, New Buffalo, told police here last night that electronic equipment valued at $925 was taken in a break-in of his apartment.

Wasso told police he returned home shortly before 11 p.m. and found the glass to his apartment door had been broken out and his apartment entered.

Items reported missing were an amplifier, turntable and portable color television set.

POLICE ROUNDUP

Man Says He Was Robbed By Trio

A Benton Harbor man told city police Wednesday he was robbed of $75 in cash, his watch and a portable radio when three men jumped him as he left a Summit street apartment.

Andrew Brown, 75, of 341 Brunson avenue, was not hurt in the incident at 364 Summit shortly before 6 a.m., police reported. Brown said the men threw something over his head and took the items, then fled on foot.

Berrien sheriff's deputies investigated the theft of between 200 and 300 pounds of pork taken from the garage of Milton McAfee, route 1, box 76A, Pipestone road, Pipestone township, Wednesday.

Mary Gibbs, 150 Cornelia street, reported to Benton township police the theft of a television and record player from her residence. Value of the stolen goods was not reported.

Dennis Wade, Angling road, Coloma, told Benton Harbor police Wednesday a citizens' band radio and antenna, valued at $134, were stolen from his car parked in the 800 block of Valley drive.

A Benton township man told St. Joseph police he was cut about the mouth when another man hit him as he drank from a glass Wednesday at Gersonde Brothers Bowling Alley, 2705 Cleveland avenue. Clarence E. Amburgey, 1207 Summer street, apparently sought his own treatment for the cuts. Amburgey said the incident occurred shortly before 6 p.m. He told police the other man had called him names before hitting him then left.

Weesaw Hears Report On Taxes

NEW TROY — Weesaw township Treasurer Frank Kramer told the township board last night he had collected a little more than 30 per cent of 1975 property taxes so far.

Kramer said he had collected approximately $200,000 and had another $396,000 still outstanding. The deadline for paying taxes is Saturday, Feb. 28, he said.

He said he would be at the township hall in New Troy on Saturday, Feb. 7, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. to collect taxes.

Township residents can also pay taxes at his home on weekdays from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., he said. Kramer lives on Sawyer road, just west of California avenue.

In other areas, board members noted that a veterinarian was to be at the township hall Feb. 7 from 2 to 5 p.m. so that residents can have their dogs vaccinated and then purchase 1976 dog licenses.

The board instructed Clerk John Payne to advertise for bids on a new fire truck chassis which will replace the township's oldest fire truck. Bids are to be opened Feb. 19.

Kramer said the board would seek bids on a tank and pumper for the chassis after the board determines what make chassis it will purchase.

Bill Daniel, township police chief, was given permission to have a new exhaust system installed on the township's police car.

Harold Hanover was given the job of removing snow from around the township hall at a price of $11 per job.

ed down with equipment and very capable men, volunteers who rushed to do their job bravely and well. They kept their heads when everyone else was pretty close to losing theirs, and they not only put out the fire efficiently, but saved as much of our property as they could and made sure we were not hurt in any way.

If the fire department hadn't been so quick, all of us would have lost everything we own — special things that make up such a large part of our lives and can never be replaced. We owe those firemen our happiness, and the only way I can think of to repay them is by writing this letter to tell other people of their good work.

I'd also like to give a special thanks to Charles Carpp, 16-year old son of fireman Robert Carpp (also a former fire chief) for his courageous and quick thinking. Because he was trained in the proper use and operation of a fire extinguisher, he was able to begin the work that the firemen later finished. He deserves all the praise we can give him — he and his mother, Mrs. Mary Carpp, who called the sheriff's department while her son was helping us.

I'm writing this, an hour after the fire, sitting in my favorite chair. I'm safe, and so is the rest of my family. But, best of all, our house is safe.

Lawrence Fire Department, thank you! You all did a far-out job and we're so very grateful.

Kalamazoo Police Lodge Hit By Fire

KALAMAZOO, Mich. (AP) — A Wednesday night fire destroyed part of a police lodge hall in the city's downtown sector, police said.

No one was injured in that blaze which struck Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 98. Police Chief George Danz said the fire apparently started near the front doors of the hall where workers put trash they collected after the Wednesday bingo games.

Dowagiac Boy Faces Entry Count

DOWAGIAC — A 15-year-old Dowagiac boy has been petitioned to Cass county Probate court in connection with a break-in Tuesday night at Thompson's Cafe, 101 Hastings street, here.

The juvenile was arrested by Cass county sheriff's deputies shortly before midnight, after it was reported a boy was inside the cafe. Dowagiac police assisted sheriff's deputies.

Entry into the cafe, which was closed for the night, was gained by breaking out a bathroom window, police said.

LETTER GRADE ONLY A SYMBOL

Editor,

A trend toward skill oriented education and inflation of grades were subjects of a couple editorials last week. People who gained their teacher education no more than 15 or 20 years ago have already observed quite a few panaceas come and go, with ever increasing rapidity. If a teacher's favorite interest is on the outs now, all he has to do is lie low for a few years and sure enough, in slightly different form it'll come around again as the greatest thing ever thought of.

Before one gets too excited about strict letter grading as a means of getting back to basics in education, think exactly what a letter grade is. It's only a symbol; an abstraction of an abstraction. Something two or three times removed from real life performance is pretty insubstantial to build a career on. This, plus the questionable morality of giving poor grades to unwilling receivers of compulsory education, suggests that an alternative to letter grades still needs to be developed.

The trend toward skill oriented education is all to the good, and is long past due, but here again the aim ought to be to put academic and vocational education into proper balance instead of stressing one to the exclusion of the other.

O'BRIEN: Enough problems

Hugh O'Brien Is 50 And Plans To Stay A Bachelor

Q: Hugh O'Brien always seems to be out with a different girl. Why hasn't he ever married? — D.D., Ontario, Calif.

A: According to Hugh, 50, he has enough problems without taking on the additional difficulties of marriage. He plans to remain a bachelor for keeps.

and told a reporter recently that he has formed a Marriage Anonymous organization whose members will rush to his side any hour of the day or night if he feels an urge to propose. So if some smart lass doesn't cut his telephone line, Hugh may remain free forever.

Q: My favorite character the TV program "Maude" is that doctor from next door. I don't see why they don't use him more? — C. McG., Lewiston, Me.

A: That actor, Conrad Bain, would agree with you. We hear he's straining at the old bit on the "Maude" show, and if he doesn't get more scenes he may not renew his contract. Bain is known to Maude audiences as a comedian, but he has a fine reputation as a serious character actor too.

Q: Do the stars of "The Waltons" get along together as well as they do on? — O. B., Birmingham, Ala.

A: When TV casts work together continually, in long running shows, frictions usually develop. And "The Waltons" is no exception, in spite of its image of sweet reasonableness. One problem is that Richard Thomas, John-Boy, likes it understood that he is the star of the show. Recently, we hear, he showed his fangs when the shooting schedule was altered to allow another actor to meet an outside commitment, a routine practice.

Q: They are always showing addresses and telephone numbers on TV when I don't have a pencil handy. What can I do about it? — Z.T., South Bend, Ind.

A: You could take a memory course, but a Japanese TV manufacturer may have a better solution. The company will soon market TV sets with a storage tube added which will allow you, at the flick of a switch, to freeze the picture in a corner of the screen while the program continues uninterrupted over the rest of the area. Besides addresses and telephone numbers you will be able to "hold" recipes, box scores or just close-ups of Raquel Welch.

Q: It seems as though Dean Martin's ex-wife, Jeanne, is reported to be going with a new man every week. Who's the latest? — C.A., Pine Bluff, Ark.

A: Jeanne's current escort is said to be actor Stuart Whit-
